BURNS MEN HOLD TWO AS GUNMEN

WEBBER POKER ROOM RAIDED

RAN HIS PLACE FROM CELL

Rosenthal's Widow to Sue Becker for $100,000—Whitman Prepares to Challenge Special Jurors.

William J. Burns, head of the National Detective Agency, employed by District Attorney Whitman to run down the two missing slayers of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, announced shortly after midnight last night that two of his operatives had arrested two men earlier in the evening in Fonda, N. Y.

He said that they believed they had at last run to earth "Lefty Louie" Rosenzweig and "Gyp the Blood," or Harry Horowitz.

The Burns detectives who sent the word to their chief are J. H. Kennedy and T. S. Dorsey. He had assigned them to follow clues in the neighborhood of Albany. They had half a dozen shadowy reasons for believing that the long-sought gunmen were or had been in that part of the State, and last night at 9 o'clock they telephoned Mr. Burns that they had made two arrests in Fonda.

The men whom they had been watching for several days left Albany yesterday afternoon and headed for Fonda, which is a small town near Johnston, N. Y., in the northern part of Montgomery County. The Burns men kept on their trail, and finally came face to face with the men in a Fonda hotel, where they had registered as traveling men.

Then they placed them under arrest, and the first move was to make a search of their belongings. One of the detectives, who reported to his chief over the telephone, said that the inspection of the suitcases the men carried had yielded nothing more fruitful than outfits of old clothing which furnished no clues as to the identity of the men themselves. Both were extremely indignant at the move made by the Burns men, and stoutly declared that they were not the men for whom the District Attorney had offered a $5,000 reward.

Mr. Burns wanted it made clear that the Fonda arrests had been made by his men, whatever the local Sheriff might say later. He had heard that while his operatives were telephoning the Sheriff had swooped down on the suspects and taken them into his custody.

The Deputy Sheriff of Montgomery County, stational at Fonda, speaking early this morning over the telephone to THE NEW YORK TIMES, said that he had made no arrests in the Rosenthal case, and that he knew of no such arrests having been made. He added, however, that he did not know anything about the business of the Burns operatives or of their presence in Fonda.

Kennedy and Dorsey reported to Mr. Burns that the men they had been trailing answered in many respects to the descriptions of "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie."

It will be recalled that "Whitey" Lewis was gathered in by New York detectives at Fleischmann's, N. Y., in the Catskills, and that at the time of his arrest there was a general belief that all the missing gunmen in the Rosenthal case were to be found somewhere in that part of the State, in the recesses and resorts of the Catskills. Inspector Hughes and a squad of detectives hurried to that region, and there was great talk of raking every highway and byway for the fugitives. It has since been learned that Sam Schepps was in that region at the time.

In the interval, "Gyp the Blood" and "Leftie Louie" have been reported captured or seen in nearly every town and hamlet from one end of the country to the other, but there has always been the suspicion that they might not have wandered so very far from the much-searched Catskills, and the Burns men who made the arrests last night were not working far away. Fonda is not more than seventy miles from the place where "Whitey" Lewis was taken into custody.

A dispatch from Gloversville, N. Y., a few miles north of Fonda, has it that the two strangers in Fonda were registered at the hotel as "L. L. Goldbery of Brooklyn" and "H. H. Krueger, N. J." It was pointed out that the initials "L. L." suggested "Lefty Louie" and "H. H." Harry Horowitz, the real name of "Gyp the Blood."

According to the story as it comes over the wire from Gloversville, the presence of the Burns operatives aroused the suspicions of a waiter who, reluctant to see glory and a possible reward fall to strangers, sent a rush call to the Sheriff, and this, it is supposed, led to the descent of the Sheriff upon the Burns prisoners.

Over the long-distance telephone to THE TIMES office in New York word came from Fonda last night that the two suspects had been taken into custody at the Brunswick Hotel, and that the two men were believed by their captors to be "Lefty Louie" and "Gyp the Blood."

THE TIMES'S informant was unable to add details to this, and he said that the Sheriff had consistently refused to discuss the detentions that had been made in his

MEYER ILL ON THE DOLPHIN.

Secretary Hastily Defers Navy Yard Inspection and Sails for Newport.

Secretary of the Navy Meyer, who was to have inspected the New York Navy Yard yesterday, sailed from the Navy Yard on the naval dispatch cruiser Dolphin in the afternoon without having accomplished the mission that had brought him to New York. Everything was in readiness for the official reception of the Secretary in the morning, when word was sent ashore from the Dolphin that he did not feel strong enough to make the inspection, and that he had ordered it postponed until some later date.

The Dolphin remained at the navy yard all day, but Mr. Meyer did not come ashore, and soon after the vessel sailed a report became current that the Secretary was a much sicker man than the news from the Dolphin indicated. In June Mr. Meyer had a mild attack of typhoid fever, and it is said that he has not yet regained his usual robust health.

The Dolphin, with Commander Laws in command, arrived at the Navy Yard Sunday afternoon, and the Secretary let it be known that he intended to make a thorough inspection of the yard. He was particularly anxious to inspect the great superdreadnought New York, which is to be launched in a few weeks, and which, with her sister ship the Texas, will be the first warship ever built that will mount 16-inch guns in her main batteries.

Rear Admiral Gleaves, the commandant of the yard; Capt. Van Duzer, the Captain of the yard; Naval Constructor Stocker, and the other yard officials were on hand, ready to conduct the Secretary through the great Government plant when the word was received of Mr. Meyer's indisposition. The nature of the illness was not disclosed.

The Dolphin sailed for Newport with Surgeon Traynor, the ship's medical officer, attending the Secretary. No reports by wireless as to the Secretary's condition had been given out at the Navy Yard at a late hour last night.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 26.—Mrs. Meyer and her two daughters left here this afternoon for their home in Hamilton, Mass., where they expect to be joined by the Secretary. It was thought here tonight that when Secretary Meyer learned of the departure of his family he would continue on to Boston instead of coming to Newport. The naval wireless station had not been in communication with the Dolphin to-night and no word has been received concerning the Secretary's illness.

WIND HURLS HOUSE 250 YDS.

75-Mile Wind Hits Kearny, N. J.—Storm Ends Hot Day Here.

A storm, accompanied by a wind estimated at 75 miles an hour, struck Kearny, N. J., at 6 o'clock last night and flooded the houses and offices where the windows had been left open on account of the heat, with no one at home to shut them.

John S. Willey, had just completed a three story frame house at the corner of Chestnut and Berlin Streets and his two sons had left it at 5:30 o'clock with the fifteen carpenters and workmen who had been employed in building it. The house was all ready for the painters. As they saw the storm approaching they turned back to fasten up the doors and windows. Before they could reach the corner they saw the house rise up bodily in the air and after traveling 250 yards drop down in the middle of Berlin Street, smashed into kindling wood. The house had been torn off about two feet above the foundations by the force of the storm. It cost $7,000.

Trees just outside Kearny were uprooted, telegraph poles were split and broken off within a few feet of the ground, and the fire alarm system and electric light plant were put out of commission.

In Jeresey City two houses were struck by lightning last night. The two-story frame building at 186 Griffith Street, occupied as a bakery and home by Alfred Savage, was hit by a bolt and set ablaze. The firemen extinguished the flames before the house was destroyed.

The two-story frame house at 199 Hancock Street, owned and occupied by Conrad Eckes, was also struck by a bolt. No one was hurt at either place.

According to the records kept at the United States Weather Bureau, yesterday was the hottest 26th of August since 1900, when the mercury rose to 91 degrees. The maximum temperature yesterday was 89 degrees at noon, with 50 per cent. humidity. Two persons were overcome.

Two telegraph poles at 156th Street and German Place were struck by lightning and toppled over to an angle of 45 degrees last night.

PERKINS NOT TO RESIGN.

Denies Oft-Heard Report He Is to Quit Harvester and Steel Trusts.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Aug. 26.—George W. Perkins declared to-night at Sagamore Hill that he had no intention of resigning as Chairman of the Finance Committee of the International Harvester Company or severing his connection with the Steel Corporation because of the prominent part he is taking in the Bull Moose movement.

Mr. Perkins learned that there was a report in Wall Street to-day that he would end his connection with the corporations without delay and that he had come to Oyster Bay to talk it over with Col. Roosevelt. To this information he replied:

"The last time I denied that rumor was this morning. To-night I find that I must make a standing denial."

At that moment Col. Roosevelt appeared on the veranda of his home. "I want to tell you an anecdote in connection with that question," he said.

"Once an absentminded professor asked a guest at dinner: 'How is your wife, Sir?'

"'I am sorry,' replied the guest, 'to tell you that my wife is dead.'

"Twenty minutes later the absent-minded professor again approached the same guest. 'How is your wife?' he asked.

"'My wife is still dead,' was the reply."

In conference with the Colonel to-night were Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver, who arrived to talk over the Colorado situation, and William H. Hotchkiss, head of the New York State Bull Moose organization. The Colonel made no comment on their visits.

Seamen of the Black Sea Fleet Sent Ashore to be Court-Martialed.

LONDON, Tuesday, Aug. 27.—As the result of an inquiry into the unrest among the sailors of the Russian Black Sea fleet, 300 seamen have been sent ashore to be court-martialed, telegraphs the correspondent at St. Petersburg of The Times.

Although, it is added, there is no cause to doubt the loyalty of the great majority of the crews, evidence of revolutionary propaganda is said to have been discovered.

SENATE SURRENDERS, CONGRESS ADJOURNS

Passing of General Deficiency Bill Ends Longest Session Since 1894.

NO EXTRA PAY FOR EMPLOYES

Appropriations Exceed a Billion Dollars — Fitzgerald and Cannon Dispute Party's Record.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Ruffled in temper, although their humor had improved during the closing hours, members of the second regular session of the Sixty-second Congress finally agreed to adjournment at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The session had been continuous for 267 days, since Dec. 4 last. This was the longest since the second session of the Fifty-third Congres, which adjourned on Aug. 28, 1894, at the end of 268 days. Only seven times before in the history of the country had any session run over 267 days.

In order to adjourn the Senate had to make complete surrender on the General Deficiency bill. The State claims of Maryland, Virginia, Oregon, and Texas for $600,000, and the Senate proposal to give every employe at the Capitol an extra month's pay, amounting in the aggregate to $200,000 more, were abandoned when it became apparent that the House would not yield. Before the Senate receded there was a general agreement that the State claims should be inserted in the Urgent Deficiency bill next December, and it is hoped that the House leaders will accept them.

With these items eliminated, the General Deficiency bill was passed and then signed by President Taft in time to enable him to leave shortly after 5 o'clock for his Summer home at Beverly.

The Senate passed a joint resolution to pay the employes their extra month's compensation, but the House flatly refused to consider the resolution and the army of Capitol employes is very much disgruntled to-night. The end of the session was the tamest seen here in years. The final session of the Senate was as commonplace as any ordinary adjournment of that body during the session. The House was in recess half of the afternoon waiting on the Senate to make its surrender on the General Deficiency bill. The exodus of Senators and Representatives began on Saturday afternoon, and neither branch of Congress was able to muster a quorum to-day. But no one brought up the question.

The President signed the General Defifiency bill at 4:10 o'clock, making certain the payment of the $1,800,000 deficiency in army pay, the $150,000 for the Gettysburg memorial celebration next year, the $350,000 for extension of customs work, and scores of other important payments that hinged on the passage of the bill. The last measure to which his pen was put was a bill disposing of lands in the Colville Indian Reservation.

A wild outburst of applause greeted Speaker Clark's announcement of adjournment as his gavel fell in the House. The floor immediately became an animated scene, members bidding each other good-bye and shaking hands. Old-time political foes buried all differences, and all feuds apparently were forgotten in the general leave-taking.

Further animation and color was lent to the scene when the women flocked down from the galleries to join husbands and fathers on the floor. The corridors were crowded with tired but happy members and their families and friends, and Speaker Clark's room was crowded with friends and admirers. Just before he announced the adjournment Speaker Clark addressed the House.

"As the hour of adjournment approaches," he said, "the Speaker desires to congratulate the House on having reached the end of one of the longest and most laborious sessions on record. Congress has been actually in session more days since December than any Congress that ever met. The Speaker desires to thank all members of the House on both sides of the big aisle, which separates us politically but not as friends or patriots, for the uniform courtesy with which they have treated the Speaker. I hope that we will all reach home safely, all have enjoyable vacations, and will all return, refreshed and invigorated, for our work next Winter."

While waiting for adjournment time in the Senate late in the day there were an even score of Senators on the floor when a resolution was put through for adjournment at 4:30 o'clock. A recess was taken until 4:10 o'clock. Then began a twenty-minute wait.

Secretary MacVeagh of the Treasury Department was on the floor. He wandered about in the little group of Senators who were making their farewells and discussing campaign plans. In the centre aisle Senator La Follette and Senator Clapp were deep in discussion of the prospects for the Penrose-Roosevelt investigation.

Senator Nelson of Minnesota awoke the Senate for a moment to thank the presiding officers of the session, Senators Gallinger and Bacon. Senatorial dignity lost itself for a moment as the little group in the chamber applauded the speech. Senator Shively had passed a resolution thanking Vice President Sherman for his conduct as presiding officer.

Then, as the hands of the clock slowly crawled to 4:30, Senator Gallinger, in the chair, arose and declared the session adjourned sine die, and the remnant of the Senate wandered out of the chamber.

Already this Congress had been in session 408 days. With the exception of a little more than three months late last year it had been almost continuously in session since April 4, 1911. Its first session lasted from April 4 to Aug. 22, 1911, a total of 141 days. It met again on Dec. 4.

When it again meets, on Dec. 2, its members will have had a respite of only ninety-eight days and very little rest on account of the campaign, which promises to be the busiest and liveliest they have faced in years.

TAFT MEN UNCONFIRMED.

Nominations of Judges Sloan and Howard and Major Ray Hung Up.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Many important appointments made by President Taft in the past few months were left unconfirmed to-day when Congress adopted its resolution of final adjournment. Among the more important are those of Judge Richard E. Sloan of Arizona, Major Gen. W. W. Wotherspoon, Brig. Gen. John McClernand, and Judge Clinton W. Howard of the State of Washington.

Many bitter fights have characterized the action on President Taft's appointments in the last few weeks. Over sixty appointments of postmasters were left unconfirmed, among them being that of Roberto H. Todd to succeed Walter K. Landis, who was removed as Postmaster at San Juan, Porto Rico.

The nomination of John B. Vreeland to be United States Attorney for New Jersey goes over until next session.

Major Beecher B. Ray, Paymaster in the army, appointed to be Deputy Paymaster with the rank of Brigadier General, failed of confirmation.

HIGH WAVES SWAMP RACING HYDROPLANE

HER CREW THROWN OUT

Life Preservers Save Men Hurled from Craft Racing Through the Sound at 40 Miles an Hour.

Ace III., the swift, frail hydroplane that early yesterday afternoon had such a good chance to be one of the boats to defend the Harmsworth Trophy for America, lies beneath the waters of Huntington Harbor, with only a red keg floating as a buoy to show where she is. Speeding over the rough waters of the harbor in the elimination trials at a speed close to the forty miles an hour of which she was capable, Ace III. was struck broadside by high rollers and turned over as swiftly as a card turned deftly by a master at sleight of hand. Her owner, William Trimpi of Newark, and his mechanician were shot clear of the capsized craft, and in their life preservers bobbed about in the waves while rival boats flashed by on the course.

The accident happened a little after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, on the extreme Long Island side of the harbor, between the first and second marks on the third lap of the course and at a point where the sea was running so high that all the contestants were badly buffeted. Rollers three or four feet high smote Ace III. just as her helmsman was attempting to bring her about to make the second turn.

Ankle Deep, manned by C. N. Monkowski and Frank J. Green, was just hitting the crests of the waves in the wake of Ace III., when her crew saw what had happened and threw out the clutches of their craft, with the idea of stopping to lend aid to the men floundering in the rough waves. But Mr. Trimpi called out to them to go on their way and that he and his mechanician were in no danger.

It was the power boat Grayling that came to the rescue then. J. S. Hoyt and his crew gathered in the two from Ace III., and then turned their attention to the half-submerged hydroplane, which was rapidly sinking. Once let the air in her forward compartment be replaced by water, and she would go down with a rush. But the Grayling's crew buoyed her up with many life preservers and left a red keg in the middle of the bay to mark the spot where Ace III. could be hauled to the surface for whatever good there might be left in her frame.

All the contestants in yesterday's trials spoke of the rough water in the open Sound that they were obliged to face in sailing from the first to the second mark. Ace III. was a favorite in the speculation as to which three boats would defend the Harmsworth Trophy, won for America last year by Dixie IV. Ace III., a twenty-six-foot hydroplane, was built by Joe Leyer of Ogdensburg. She was equipped with an eight-cylinder Sterling motor capable of developing 150 horse power.

FUGITIVE COUNCILMAN BACK.

Burke of Philadelphia Goes Home to Family and a Job.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—William Burke, Councilman from the Thirty-third Ward and confessed former convict, who fled from this city two weeks ago because he was unable to protect himself from blackmailers, returned home tonight, determined to start life anew. His wife says she will be with him through thick and thin. Burke declared it had been only his wife's faith that kept him from a return to his old ways.

He resumed his life here through John L. Fehr of 1,315 Race Street, and will assume charge to-day of a cigar store and barber shop owned by Fehr at that address. Burke will act as manager. The Councilman said he had been living in New York since he left this city.

The reunion between Burke and his wife took place at supper time to-night. Mrs. Burke, with her crippled daughter, Anna, had been momentarily expecting her husband. Burke had shaved off his moustache and looked much different than the harassed man who left the city two weeks ago. "I've come back because my wife stood by me," Burke said. "I think the people of this city will understand what a fight it has been for me for years and what a fight it is going to be. The worst of it is over. I want people to believe in me. I believed in everybody to the extent of telling everything about my past. I figured they would give me a chance, and I feel sure they will."

Then Burke started to tell again the story of his persecution at the hands of a former fellow convict.

"It was old Jimmy Foley, a man who knew me for twenty-five years," Burke said, "who recognized me and bled me for money. Foley and I worked alongside of each other in the harness shop in Charlestown Prison, Boston. We were old acquaintances then."

Motion to Dismiss Second Bribery Indictment Is Denied.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 26.—The motion of Clarence S. Darrow's attorneys to dismiss the indictment charging the former chief counsel of the McNamaras with bribery of Robert Bain, the first juror chosen to try James B. McNamara, was denied to-day by Presiding Judge Willis of the Superior Court.

The case was continued until to-morrow, when the date of Darrow's trial on the Bain charge will be set.

ALARMING BULLETIN ABOUT THE KAISER

Chief Court Marshal Says He Must Have Complete Rest for an Indefinite Time.

HIS ENGAGEMENTS GIVEN UP

Visit to Switzerland Will Almost Certainly Be Abandoned—Empress Is Constantly with Him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—The fear of the public that the Kaiser may be suffering from something considerably graver than a cold and muscular rheumatism following an attack of influenza is not allayed by the publication to-night of an official account of the origin and present state of his Majesty's illness in a bulletin issued by Count Eulenberg, the Chief Marshal of the Imperial Court. No medical bulletin has so far been published.

It is admitted that his Majesty's condition is such that he must have complete rest for an indefinite period. Count Eulenberg's statement is as follows:

> After stiffness in the muscles of the right side of the neck on Friday morning, a swelling on the right side of the neck, accompanied by feverish chills and a strong feeling of sickness, manifested itself during the forenoon. An examination revealed a swelling in the right tonsil, and there was great pain in the glands on the right side. The very considerable disturbance of his Majesty's general condition which was incident to these symptoms has now grown less. The feverish symptoms are no longer apparent, and the inflammation is receding. There is still, however, such hampering of movement and pain in the muscles of the neck that his Majesty is compelled to abandon all arrangements for traveling, attending parades, &c., this week, and for some time must take a complete rest.

It is evident from the unusually frank language of this statement that radical alterations in the Kaiser's programme for the next month are inevitable. The trip to Switzerland, on which he was to start on the night of Sept. 2, will, it seems almost certain, be abandoned, while already it is definitely stated that his Majesty's physicians have succeeded in making him realize the impossibility of participating in the "Kaiser manoeuvres" in Saxony beginning Sept. 11.

Telegrams from Cassel make it clear that his Majesty's illness had its inception in his unwillingness to listen to advice where either his own health or his stern sense of duty is concerned. Through his exposure for several hours to inclement weather at the Mayence parade last Wednesday he caught cold. He insisted, in direct opposition to the wishes of his physicians, in motoring to Königstein to call on the Dowager Grand Duchess of Luxemburg, who is taking the cure at the Taunus resort. It was the exertion he underwent at Mayence and during the trips to and from Königstein that brought on the muscular rheumatism and catarrhal fever which prostrated him last Friday at Wilhelmshöhe.

The Emperor is confined to bed, and all arrangements for his future movements obviously remain in abeyance. It would seem from the Court bulletin that there is no intention of allowing him to travel this week, though a definite announcement is temporarily withheld.

The Empress, while her own health is not satisfactory, is giving the Emperor personal attention and spends most of her time with Princess Victoria Louise at the Kaiser's bedside.

GENEVA, Aug. 26.—The sudden illness of the German Emperor is placing Swiss governmental and military circles in somewhat of a quandary. Preparations for the reception of his Majesty are almost completed, and it is now reported that he is likely to abandon his intended visit to witness the Swiss Army manoeuvres.

By a curious coincidence the President of Switzerland, Dr. Louis Forrer, is confined to his bed with a severe attack of gout, and it is doubtful if he will have sufficiently recovered to entertain the Emperor next week.

Col. Frank A. Edwards, the representative of the United States at the manoeuvres, and the officers of other nations have arrived here.

WOMEN FAINT AT CONEY FIRE.

Blaze Under Moving Stairway at Steeplechase Clears Ballroom.

A fire started by a short-circuited wire at the head of the moving stairway at the Bowery entrance to Steeplechase Park in Coney Island last night for a time greatly alarmed the authorities, who feared another disaster like the one which destroyed Dreamland in May, 1911.

The fire was discovered by a sixteen-year-old boy, Hackett Zinzer of 4 Shell Road, Coney Island, who was standing at the head of the moving stairway, 45 feet above the street, to assist the visitors off the platform. The boy's attention was first attracted by the smell of smoke. Looking over the side of the stairway he saw flames and sparks shooting from beneath the platform, and he hurried down the stairway to the offices of the management to give the alarm.

George C. Tilyou, owner of the amusement park; Walter Cleary, the manager, and George Sims, assistant manager, all hurried to the top of the stairway with hand extinguishers which they quickly put into play. When it was seen that the hand extinguishers were ineffective the private fire-fighting force of Steeplechase Park, composed of ten men, was called out and lines of hose were run to the top of the moving platform.

The race course, which is off to one side of the stairway, was deserted before the fire started, but there were a number of persons in the ballroom on the other side of the stairway. When the smoke began to fill the ballroom the crowd rushed to the head of the moving stairway. When it became evident that the park firemen were unable to cope with the situation there was much confusion and several women fainted.

An alarm was turned in to the Coney Island Fire Department, which brought Engine Companies 144 and 145. When they arrived the flames were whipping around the sides of the stairway and around the casings of the platform. A strong northeast wind was sweeping over the island and the firemen were apprehensive lest the fire should spread to adjoining buildings. Streams of water were poured onto the burning part of the moving stairway until the ballroom and race course were flooded. The women and girls in the meantime were taken from the place. The fire was extinguished with a loss of $5,000.

SZECHENYI IN WIRELESS CO.

Count Heads the List of Incorporators of Submarine Concern.

Count Szechenyi, who married Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, is one of the incorporators of the Submarine Wireless Company, which was incorporated in the office of the Secretary of State at Albany yesterday. The company is capitalized at $200,000, and the incorporators, besides Count Szechenyi, are Eugene N. Robinson, John M. Russell, and David C. Watts, all New York lawyers.

In the application for a charter it is set forth that the purposes of the corporation are the transmission of wireless messages under or through water by means of sound waves, vibrations, or other devices, as well as submarine signaling by means of sound-wave vibrations. Further than this no information was given out yesterday concerning the future operations of the company.

The name of Count Szechenyi heads the list of incorporators, and this was taken as an indication that the Count is largely interested in the company. Count Szechenyi was recently in New York and Newport. He sailed for Liverpool on his way to his home in Hungary on the Mauretania a few weeks ago. The Countess Szechenyi is still in America, and is at present at the home of Mrs. Vanderbilt, her mother, in Newport.

RESISTS 32,000 VOLTS.

Shock Which Fuses Works of Painter's Watch Fails to Kill Him.

Adolph Hendrickson, a painter, who was at work on an iron pier carrying the feed wire for the electric system of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, at Mount Vernon, suffered a shock of 32,000 volts yesterday, when his brush came in contact with the feed wire, and, though he suffered severe burns about the head, neck, and shoulders, physicians at the Mount Vernon Hospital, to which he was carried, said he would recover.

The force of the current which passed through the painter's body was so great that it fused the works of his watch.

PART OF BRAIN GONE, LIVES.

Physicians Had Not Expected Injured Man to Survive 48 Hours.

The doctors of Yonkers are interested in the case of a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital, who is now recovering though part of his brain tissue has been torn away. The patient is 28 years old. He was found a month ago lying beside the New York Central tracks unconscious. At the hospital it was found that his skull was fractured, and through the opening part of the brain had oozed out. He was not expected to live forty-eight hours, and remained unconscious for a fortnight.

The doctors who are attending him think his mentality will be affected. He can't say where he lives or who he is.

WIFE CHOSE BRIDE FOR HIM.

Mt. Vernon Tailor Weds Her Sister as Dead Woman Asked.

Fulfilling the wish of his first wife, made on her deathbed seven months ago, Joseph Komancheck, a tailor of 151 South Fourth Avenue, Mount Vernon, married her sister, Miss Marie Huber, yesterday. The ceremony was performed by Alderman De Cortin. The witnesses were Charles Brenner and Joseph Huber, a brother of the bride.

"I wrote to Miss Huber, who was in Hungary, telling her of the death of my wife and of her request, and she arrived here two weeks ago," said Komancheck. "She and I had met only a few times while I was courting my wife. I have one young son."

Son of Oil Man Drives Through District Terrorized by Shootings.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Knowing that the Italians in Pocantico Hills were panic-stricken by the holdups and shooting affrays there in the last few days, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., at 6:30 o'clock to-night drove through the main street and returned. The trip did not take five minutes, but it had a quieting effect, for the Italians reasoned that if Mr. Rockefeller could drive out fearlessly through the streets they had little to fear. A friend sat on the seat with Mr. Rockefeller and a groom behind.

The shooting of Russo yesterday is still unexplained. He declared it was an accident, and his family rebuked a sister of the wounded man who began to give information to a Deputy Sheriff.

BREAKS HIS NECK DIVING.

Young Belgian Catholic Brother Killed in Lake at South Norwalk.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Aug. 26.—Brother Liberator Rena of the Holy Ghost Order of this place was killed today while attempting to master the art of swimming. He arrived from Belgium six weeks ago and immediately developed a fondness for the water.

In order to prevent accident to himself Brother Rena tied a rope about his body, attaching the end to a tree, with the idea of pulling himself ashore when he became tired or was in peril of drowning.

This afternoon he went to the lake for a swim. He dived off the dock and struck his head on a submerged rock. Death from a broken neck was instantaneous. Students at the seminary used the rope with which Brother Rena had planned to save himself to pull in the body.

NO MORE MAIL ON SUNDAYS.

New Postal Law Closes Stamp Windows and General Delivery.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Sunday delivery of mail in the vicinity of Post Offices and sub-stations is forbidden by a provision slipped into the Post Office Appropriation act in the closing hours of Congress.

Whether orders will be issued blocking delivery of mail in the New York and Philadelphia offices next Sunday is not known, but Postmaster Merritt of the Washington Post Office, after careful study of the law just enacted, announced to-day that there would be no mail delivery in Washington next Sunday or any other Sunday, and that not even Government departments would be able to get their mail.

It was the intention of the Post Office authorities at first to bar access to the lock boxes, but after a study of the law it was decided that it would be no infringement if mail was not put in the boxes after 12 o'clock on Saturday nights.

Similar announcement will be made in other cities where Sunday delivery has been the custom, and in these, as here, stamp windows and general delivery will be locked, and no mail will leave the office by carrier except that bearing special delivery stamps.

ROOSEVELT ISSUES CHALLENGE TO ALL

Invites Hearst or Any One Else to Publish His Letters on Campaign Funds.

HE PROMISES A SENSATION

Enemies Will Have Little Chance to Continue Attacks After His Letter to Clapp, He Declares.

INQUIRY'S SCOPE WIDENED

L. F. Swift and Others Volunteer to Tell Committee of Corporation Campaign Gifts.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Aug. 26.—An open challenge to any one to make public any letters or facts in regard to his relations with E. H. Harriman, the Standard Oil Company, or any other trust, either in the 1904 campaign or at any other time, was issued by Col. Roosevelt to-night at Sagamore Hill. The Colonel's challenge came in response to a statement from William Randolph Hearst, published this morning, in which Mr. Hearst, among other things, said that unless Col. Roosevelt, Senator Penrose, and Mr. Archbold made public all the transactions in connection with the alleged contribution of the Standard Oil Company to Col. Roosevelt's campaign in 1904, Mr. Hearst would do it himself.

"There is certainly no letter of mine, or any letter written to me, which I would not be delighted to have published, and if I had any idea of any letter any one was referring to, I would produce it now," declared Col. Roosevelt.

Invitation to Brother Hearst.

"I hope that Brother Hearst will tell everything, or that any one will who wants to," Col. Roosevelt continued. "If they don't I shall, you can depend upon that. If Mr. Hearst, or any one else, has any letters, I want him to produce them. He has my full permission, and I don't ask that anything in his possession be suppressed. In fact, I ask him to publish them. There is nothing I have to be afraid of, and nothing that isn't as straight as a string."

Mr. Hearst in his statement said: "Mr. Roosevelt, too, should tell of the visits of Mr. Rogers and Mr. Archbold to him in Washington, of Mr. Sibley's activity in bringing about these meetings, of the 'perfect understanding' that existed, and various other matters of interest and importance to the Nation."

Mr. Hearst added: "All these telegrams will appear in due time, and Mr. Roosevelt might as well relate them now. Mr. Roosevelt can boast of belated honesty, so why not be completely frank with the public and tell them the whole truth. Why should not Senator Penrose and Archbold and Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Sibley all tell the whole truth, particuary when they can be so confidently assured that if they do not I will."

"I told in my statement the other day of a visit of Archbold and Rogers to me," declared Col. Roosevelt, "and there is nothing about their visits I am afraid to tell about. As to ex-Congressman Sibley, I remember that he did come to arrange for an interview, but there was nothing improper about anything that happened. I really recall little about it, but I am not afraid of anything that may be published.

"I simply want to say in reply that in the first place I haven't boasted, and in the second place my honesty is not belated. Otherwise that part of what Mr. Hearst says is all right." Here the Colonel laughed a bit grimly. "I wish I could have appeared before the committee," continued Col. Roosevelt. "I would have produced any books, letters, or anything they wanted, and would have told them anything that I knew. Why, there is nothing that I am anxious to suppress. I only invite publicity. I am thankful to Mr. Archbold and Mr. Penrose for having brought this inquiry about; they can say nothing that will be injurious to me. It's impossible."

Anxious to Tell About Perkins.

The Colonel said he was anxious to tell about George W. Perkins and Judge Lindsey, too. To Judge Lindsey he said he was thankful for his ability as a campaigner. To Mr. Perkins he said he was thankful for his money and for his ability as an organizer and executive. And the support of both came to him voluntarily and absolutely without any promises, Roosevelt said.

"I do not remember whether or not there were letters in which I spoke of Standard Oil written by me to anybody connected with the Standard Oil Corporation," said the Colonel, "but I do know there are no letters of any kind in the possession of Mr. Hearst or any one else which the public is not welcome to.

"Collector Loeb came down here to tell me that there was a report that he might be called as a witness by the Senate Committee. I told him to go ahead, to tell everything that he knew about Standard Oil and about Mr. Harriman. I told him further that I might not be here, but that he could come out and get anything he wanted from my letter files or correspondence book. That's all I wanted him to do, to go ahead and tell everything and give them the truth.

"I don't know what more I can say," added the Colonel. "This seems a pretty direct statement. I am afraid of nothing that any man can produce, and I invite him to produce anything that he has. I am absolutely 'out in the open' on all these matters, and not only do not seek to avoid but court publicity."

Col. Roosevelt made it evident to-day that the letter which he would send to Senator Clapp, Chairman of the Senate committee investigating campaign contributions, would stir up a sensation. He declared that after it was given out his enemies would have little chance to continue their attacks.

In the course of the day Col. Roosevelt dictated this statement about the Standard Oil-Harriman controversy:

"My attitude to the Standard Oil Company was precisely the same before election as after election, and this any one can find out by turning to the files of the newspapers at the time of the passage of the Bureau of Corporations bill before I was nominated or elected. The Standard Oil Company opposed the law, and I got it through by making public the telegrams of the Standard Oil people opposing the law and showing their activities.

Wants Loeb to Testify.

"As for any connection of mine with the Standard Oil people before or after election, any human being is welcome to make anything public about it of any sort, kind, or description, and if I had appeared before the committee to-day I should have testified to every feature of it of which I have any recollection or knowledge, and submitted from my letter books any letters of mine dealing in any shape or way with the matter; and I should have been delighted to have Mr. Loeb, who was then my private secretary, appear and give every particle of information that he has.

"Loeb told me that he had seen statements that he was to be brought down before the committee and that he wished to come and tell me about these rumors. I told him that if he was called he was to go and testify to everything—he was my private secretary then. I might mention that while under no circumstances would I have ever asked Mr. Loeb to testify myself, I am more than pleased that the committee chooses to do so. For instance, I made my statement about Mr. Harriman in Mr. Harriman's lifetime, and let it rest only on my own written letters, yet as the committee has chosen to listen to hearsay gossip by Mr. Odell and Mr. Archbold as to what Mr. Harriman said took place at that interview, I shall be glad to have them listen to Mr. Loeb, who was present at the interview; who heard Mr. Harriman ask me to get Mr. Bliss or Mr. Cortelyou to contribute funds to himself and Mr. Odell for the State campaign, (neither Mr. Harriman nor I ever so much as spoke of Mr. Harriman's contributing any expenses to my campaign.) Mr. Loeb himself telephoned to either Mr. Bliss or Mr. Cortelyou transmitting Mr. Harriman's request to me, and Mr. Loeb also telephoned to Mr. Bliss or Mr. Cortelyou about the alleged Standard Oil contribution; making in my behalf the same request that I had made directly in the two letters and telegrams that have been published, and receiving the same assurance that I had received, that no Standard Oil money had been received or would be received."

SENATE FORCED TO INQUIRY.

Old Guard Protests, but La Follette and Penrose Defeat Opposition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Without a lisp of opposition the Senate to-day passed the Penrose-Poindexter resolution to investigate campaign finances since and including 1900. Half a dozen voices could be heard in the vote when the ayes were called for, and of nays there were none. If the Senate had been in executive session and a roll-call had been taken it is doubtful if a dozen votes could have been mustered against the resolution.

When the matter came up, Senator Penrose apologized for using the word "reputable" in the original draft of his resolution, and asked to have the privilege of taking it out. The request was granted. Senator Poindexter rearranged the words in his amendment of Saturday, and some time was spent in an amendment which Senator Smoot desired ot have incorporated, by which the correspondence of witnesses before the committee might not be drawn on unless it had a direct bearing on the purposes of the investigation. Important as the Utah Senator thought his amendment to be, neither Penrose nor La Follette was disposed to let it go in, and it stayed out.

The investigation under the language of the resolution as adopted can be as wide open as a barn door, and if the promises of Senator Penrose can be taken the inquiry will be all that.

The Old Guard, represented by Crane and Smoot, said that past campaigns were a closed book, that they were the work of other men, some of them dead, and it was an unseemly thing to be digging into graveyards for campaign thunder. Probably the Pennsylvania Senator has never been subjected to quite as much personal pressure before in his life.

The Old Guard realized that there was no use in making any opposition to La Follette, who, in his new alliance with Penrose, was in the way of coming into possession of information in regard to campaigns of the past, which made him very formidable in the discussion of the resolution.

After it was all over there was no little concern expressed as to the personnel of the Investigating Committee. There is a strong demand for Senator Kern of Indiana to serve in place of Paynter, who is away and does not want to serve, but Kern is a sick man, who has undergone great strain during the last year as a member of the Lorimer Investigating Committee. The only other Democratic members of the Committee on Privileges and Elections available are Senators Johnston of Alabama and Fletcher of Florida. Regret is expressed that Senator Kenyon of Iowa, who is a majority member of Privileges and Elections, is not on the committee, but he has a stiff fight on in his State for re-election, and after the long session and the year's service on the Lorimer committee asks to be excused.

Senator Clapp said to-day that the committee would be at work here in Wshington by the end of September, and every witness who could furnish any proof of any kind bearing on campaign contributions or expenses for the last ten years would be called to tell his story, and that volunteers would be invited from the four quarters of the universe. He expects to subpoena Mr. Hearst, whose letter to-day warning Col. Roosevelt to tell all the truth, or that he (Hearst) would do so, was no small element of the situation. That the ex-President will be called to tell under oath, an unusual condition for him in any controversy of the many in which he has so often appeared, goes without saying that the witness will be cross-examined.

To-day a new source of information was indicated in a telegram received from L. F. Swift, the Chicago packer, asking to be heard as to the contributions made by the packing interests in 1904.

Another telegram was received from a prominent official of the Gould system offering to contribute an account of how his corporation was importuned for money and the circumstances under which a contribution was made.

It is not unlikely that an effort will be made to get the committee together earlier than any of the talk to-day indicated. Word was had to-day from Senator Pomerene that he would be ready Sept. 8, and Senator Jones said he could be here Sept. 11. Senator Clapp has a week to spend in New England, stumping for the Bull Moose ticket, and then he will be prepared to get to work.

The scope of the investigation is by some supposed to be confined to purely financial matters.

One of the collateral lines which, on the authority of a member of the committee, may be expected to be explored has to do with the rumored intention in 1908 of Mr. Roosevelt to obtain another nomination for himself. It is said that within two weeks of the Chicago Convention that year, after Mr. Roosevelt had made the fight for the nomination of Mr. Taft, overtures were made on his behalf to the leaders of the Republican delegations from New York and Pennsylvania to swing to Roosevelt in the convention and create a stampede which would get him the nomination.

This plan on Roosevelt's part, is is said, was laid before Mr. Archbold, whose veracity at that time had not been examined with reference to his eligibility for membership in the Ananias Club, and the Standard Oil magnate was complaisant so far as to go to Oyster Bay in his yacht for the purpose of hearing the whole scheme and having an opportunity to get into it.

LOEB NOT TO AID COLONEL.

Denies Reports from Oyster Bay—Out of Politics, He Says.

Collector of Customs, William Loeb, Jr., denied yesterday statements that were attributed to him in the morning newspaper dispatches from Oyster Bay. Mr. Loeb visited Col. Roosevelt at Oyster Bay on Sunday, and the news dispatches from there stated that he believed that most of the Republican Federal office holders in New York City were in sympathy with Col. Roosevelt, and that he thought that President Taft did not have a chance of re-election.

"I did not speak to a single newspaper man on the subject while I was at Oyster Bay," said Mr. Loeb yesterday.

"Mrs. Loeb and I were motoring on Long Island, and I merely dropped by Sagamore Hill to help Col. Roosevelt locate some papers in his files, for they were arranged under my supervision. The fact that I called on the Colonel has no significance, for I was long his secretary and could assist him as no one else could in looking over the files."

"Have you taken the position," Mr. Loeb was asked, "that, while your relations have been intimate and friendly with Col. Roosevelt, your present office necessitates your support of President Taft?"

The Collector replied emphatically:

"I have made no such statement. I take the position that the customs office is out of politics, and as long as I am here that shall be my attitude. I have no intention of resigning to join the Roosevelt party, as has also been reported."

PENNYPACKER DEFENDS KNOX.

Ex-Governor May Testify as to Appointment of Senator.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—"Senator Penrose was right," declared former Gov. Pennypacker to-day, "when he said upon the floor of the Senate that I consulted the honor and best interests of the State of Pennsylvania when I appointed Mr. Knox as the successor of Senator Quay. No one either demanded or requested that I appoint Mr. Knox. I appointed him because I was of the opinion that he was the man best fitted by reason of experience, intelligence, and capacity to represent Pennsylvania in the United States Senate.

"It is true that there was a conference in Harrisburg attended by myself, Senator Penrose, Israel W. Durham, and Secretary of the Commonwealth McAfee immediately preceding the appointment of Mr. Knox as Senator, but I hardly think this is the time to discuss lightly what took place.

"I may be called before the Senate committee which is investigating matters of supposed political importance, and, besides, I would not attempt to make a statement without taking time and exercising care to give all the facts. You may say that no demand was made upon me by the representative of any railroad or by the representative of any big corporation, as former State Senator Flinn and others have suggested, or alleged, to appoint Mr. Knox."

Mr. Pennypacker, who is now State Railroad Commissioner, also asserted that his appointment of Mr. Knox was not the result of pressure brought to bear upon him by Senator Penrose and the Republican organization.

FLINN READY TO TESTIFY.

Renews Attacks on Penrose and Oliver in Pittsburgh Leader.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 26.—William Flinn is ready to appear before the Senate committee which will inquire into campaign fund contributions and the Pennsylvania Senatorial elections and appointments. He says he will be on hand when he is summoned. Mr. Flinn's paper, The Leader, to-day says:

> The Senate Committee listened to the frenzied declamations of Boise Penrose while he confessed to accepting vast sums of money as the political agent of the Standard Oil Company, takes notes of his accusations against others and then adjourns. George T. Oliver, the insignificant half of the Senatorial representation of Pennsylvania, the creature of the crook under indictment in his own house, among his chosen friends of like calibre, sneaks away from the nasty mess within forty-eight hours.
> Oliver hadn't even the courage to get up and walk away—he sneaked off and has hidden himself among the other cowards. He neglects his duties, he ignores the demands of public business, he slaps everything in the face but this crooked and cowardly crowd of tricksters, and their accusations, and sneaks away to hide himself.

NO OIL MONEY FOR DEMOCRATS.

Thomas Taggart Denies Receiving Any Such Contribution in 1904.

Thomas Taggart, former Democratic National Chairman, was asked by THE TIMES yesterday for a reply to the suggestion by Clarence V. Tiers, Pennsylvania Progressive Chairman, that the Standard Oil Company gave to the Democrats the $150,000 which it refused to give the Republicans in the 1904 campaign. Mr. Taggart wired the following:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

> FRENCH LICK, Ind., Aug. 26.—Your telegram received, and in reply will say that the Democratic National Committee did not receive $1 from the Standard Oil Company in the campaign of 1904. T. TAGGART.

Sibley Too Ill to Talk About Fund.

Special to The New York Times.

FRANKLIN, Penn., Aug. 26.—Ex-Congressman Joseph C. Sibley, who is mentioned by W. R. Hearst as the go-between with Standard Oil on one side and Col. Roosevelt on the other, has been staying at his farm, four miles from Franklin, for several weeks, and when the TIMES correspondent made an effort to get into communication with him to-night it was said that he was sick. However, Mr. Sibley sent word that he was not engaging in the controversy "at this time."

READ LEADER OUT OF PARTY.

Georgia Republicans Oust State Chairman and Another as Foes to Taft

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 26.—Accused of having betrayed President Taft at the Chicago Convention, Walter H. Johnson and Claude Grier, who were members of the Georgia delegation, were to-day ousted from the Republican State Central Committee and practically read out of the party.

Johnson is Marshal for the Northern District and has been a Republican leader for years. All appointments to Federal offices have been made on his recommendation. Grier has been Postmaster at Dublin, and his wife now holds the position.

Johnson's place as Chairman of the State Central Committee was given to Henry S. Jackson, Collector of Internal Revenue and a Taft leader.

Johnson and Grier, who were present at the meeting, vigorously protested at times, and personal violence was feared.

Henry Lincoln Johnson, a negro Recorder of Deeds at Washington, was here, it was said, by order of President Taft, and put through the resolution ousting Johnson and Grier. Afterward the committee named Presidential Electors and swore them all to Taft.

All the members of the Georgia delegation voted for the nomination of Taft at Chicago, but in several test votes before the nomination Johnson, Grier, and four other delegates voted with the Roosevelt forces.

TANGLE IN YATES COUNTY.

Smallest in State Can't Supply Enough Roosevelt Signatures.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Progressive State Chairman Hotchkiss today notified Chairman Bennett of Yates County that legal proceedings to test the constitutionality of the Levy election law would be begun immediately for the benefit of the party in Yates County.

Yates, the smallest county in the State, cannot put a Progressive ticket in the field under the law, because 1,500 signatures are necessary to put up a county ticket and 800 necessary for an Assemblyman. There are not enough voters in Yates County to accomplish this.

bailiwick, though whether this taciturnity was due to sulkiness at the possible loss to strange detectives of a $5,000 reward could not be learned.

WEBBER'S PLACE RAIDED.

Though He Was in Prison, His Poker Rooms Never Closed Since Murder.

"Bridgey" Webber's poker rooms on the second floor of the northwest corner of Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue, where the slayers of Herman Rosenthal gathered a few minutes before they drove around to the Hotel Metropole on the morning of the murder, July 16, were raided and closed last night by Inspector Dwyer and a squad of detectives.

Since Webber's arrest and confinement in the West Side Prison on the charge of complicity in the murder of Rosenthal, the poker rooms, which have netted him a large part of a fortune estimated by his friends at $250,000, have not been closed for a single day. The games have been conducted by a manager who gives his name as Kirke Brown and who has made daily reports of the profits to his proprietor in his cell at the West Fifty-fourth Street prison.

In spite of the outcry against gambling following the murder of Rosenthal, Webber's poker rooms have been conducted openly and publicly, without barricades, lookouts, or any kind of precautions against police raids. When Capt. John F. Dwyer was appointed Inspector, upon the suspension of Inspector Hayes, Webber's poker rooms were among the first of the places where he sent his detectives.

A John Doe warrant against the manager of the place was issued yesterday afternoon by Magistrate House on evidence submitted by Detectives Anthony and Wertheimer. The two plain clothes men had dropped into the place and sat in a game of poker. So strong was the sense of security of Manager Kirke Brown that he did not so much as lift his eyebrows in suspicion when the two new patrons took hands at one of the poker tables without being previously introduced.

Police Interrupt Chicken Feast.

Ten men who had been playing poker in the place were just getting ready for an elaborate dinner when the raid took place last evening at 6:30 o'clock. The chef, in the kitchen adjoining the poker rooms, had just taken four roast chickens out of the oven, and was preparing to serve the meal, which is free to the guests of the house. The players had laid down their cards and the table was being spread for them when the raiders entered. Inspector Dwyer, Detectives Wertheimer and Anthony, Lieut. Cooper, Sergt. Cashell, and Policeman Walsh walked upstairs and entered without being challenged or noticed till they stepped into the poker room.

Kirke Brown was arrested. The ten players were allowed to go. They were not held as witnesses because the case against Brown had been completely prepared by the detectives. Three poker tables, about a thousand chips, sixty boxes of cards, and several dozen loose packs were confiscated. They were taken to the West Forty-seventh Street Station, where Brown was locked up on a charge of gambling. He described himself as a clerk, living at 206 West 106th Street.

Inspector Dwyer examined the icebox, containing several cases of champagne, which is served at frequent intervals, generally as part of the bounty of the house to those who keep their places all night at the tables.

After the poker layouts had been carried away, Inspector Dwyer sent the players away without their suppers, locked up the place, and left Policeman Walsh on guard.

Kirke Brown, Webber's manager, was admitted to bail three hours after his arrest. A real estate bond for $1,500 was furnished by Arthur Fishman and accepted by Magistrate McQuaid. Brown rode away from the station house in a taxicab with Fishman.

When Inspector Dwyer was criticised by Magistrate House in the West Side Court several days ago for not obtaining sufficient evidence before asking for warrants, "Bridgey" Webber's place was one of those against which he wanted to proceed, it is said. He saw the Magistrate yesterday, who had subpoenaed him to appear, and convinced him that he had evidence to warrant taking action. It was after the presentation of this evidence that the warrant was issued.

Other Places Raided.

Dwyer made several raids last night. The raids were quietly made on warrants issued by Chief Magistrate McAdoo. They were made between 10 o'clock and midnight, and in each case only the person called for in the warrant was taken.

The first place the detectives visited was the apartment of Mrs. Vail Kimball at 317 West Fifty-eighth Street. The woman was told that she was wanted, and after a few minutes' delay, while she got ready for the street, the party left for the West Forty-seventh Street Station.

At 142 West Fifty-fourth Street the detectives said they found a luxuriously furnished resort and many persons there. Carrie Revere, charged with being the head of the establishment, was arrested. At her request a taxicab was called, and in it she rode to the station. Those in the place were told to leave and the place was closed. Mary S. Smith was arrested at 360 West Fifty-eighth street. The three are charged with maintaining disorderly resorts.

The evidence upon which the warrants were obtained was gathered by the detectives since the departure of Inspector Hayes, recently demoted, from the district.

WHITMAN SCANS JURY PANEL.

Will Challenge in Open Court Those Whom He Considers Undesirable.

With the convening of the extraordinary session of the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court only a week off, District Attorney Whitman is bending every effort to complete a thorough inquiry into the antecedents, history, and business interests of every man named in the special panel drawn last week from which the extraordinary Grand Jury is to be selected. It is the hope of the District Attorney that this work may be completed before Sept. 3, when Justice Goff will pick by lot twenty-three men from among the fifty to act in the John Doe inquiry into conditions in this city so far as the relation of the police to organized vice is concerned. Mr. Whitman will challenge jurors he considers undesirable in open court.

This is something which is so seldom done that in the recollection of a man associated with the courts for twenty-three years it has occurred only twice before. Assistant District Attorney Rand did it when the insurance cases were interesting the District Attorney's office, and it was done once again when a Grand Jury, composed largely of capitalists or men of capitalistic interests refused to bring indictments in connection with cases growing out a dispute between capital and labor. A second jury was impaneled and questioned then concerning the attitude of its members toward organized labor.

It has practically been settled that the present Grand Jury will not be asked to take under consideration any further phase of the Rosenthal case. It will probably be excused from further service day after to-morrow.

Already many subpoenas have been prepared for witnesses to appear at the inquiry, and they are said to include the names of many men connected with banks and brokerage houses. The fact that one man selected on the special Grand Jury panel had business interests which might make him unacceptable was called to the attention of the District Attorney's office yesterday. This man is John P. Kirwan, who is in the real estate business at 148 West Forty-second Street. He is a Director in the Posada Realty Company, and the information which reached Mr. De Ford yesterday was that this company owned the Hotel Lincoln, the home of Sam Paul, who is reputed to be part proprietor of the establishment.

A raid was made on the hotel not long ago, and cases growing out of the charge that the place was a disorderly resort are still pending in the Court of Special Sessions.

PROPERTY OWNERS UNEASY.

Many Ready to Dispossess Disorderly Tenants, and Some Have Done So.

Since it became known on Saturday that the seven Police Inspectors of Manhattan had visited Assistant District Attorney De Ford and had given to him a list of disorderly resorts and suspected places, there has been considerable uneasiness among property owners in this city, for it is a well-known fact that many of the most disreputable places in the city are owned by persons whose reputations and social positions are beyond reproach.

Even as long ago as the raids which Assistant District Attorney Smith made on resorts in the old Tenderloin on Thursday two weeks ago, the holders of similar property in the district adjacent to Broadway between Forty-second and Fifty-ninth Streets swore out dispossess warrants for tenants who suddenly had seemed "undesirable" to them.

While there has been no wholesale dispossessing since then it is believed that many property owners are exhibiting for the first time an interest in the personnel of their tenants. It has been no secret that in most instances excessive rentals have been asked and obtained for the illegal use of property, and the great discrepancy between the rent of such places and properties in more desirable locations for which less rental is received is understood to be one of the first questions which District Attorney Whitman plans to ask such property owners as he may subpoena before the extraordinary Grand Jury.

The fact that they now run the risk of being questioned in public about the tenants of their properties is said to have very thoroughly alarmed more than one holder of improved real estate, and it is expected that by the time the special Grand Jury convenes and Mr. Whitman is prepared to go ahead with the inquiry it will be found that there have been many changes either in the ownership of property or in the class of tenants.

The Trinity Corporation and William Waldorf Astor are known to be holders of much property about which Mr. Whitman wants to ask a few questions. The lists which the Inspectors gave Mr. De Ford mention the location of suspected places or places already raided, but they do not give the names of the property owners. Mr. Waldo has been preparing a list, however, in which the names of the men who own the property are plainly noted. It is understood that he will make this list public to-day.

TO SUE BECKER FOR $100,000.

Rosenthal's Widow Will Seek Damages if He Is Acquitted.

Mrs. Lillian Rosenthal, widow of the murdered gambler, is going to bring suit against Lieut. Charles Becker for $100,000 damages for the death of her husband. She has retained H. Harold Hochdorf of 63 Park Row, according to a statement he issued yesterday, to prosecute the suit. The lawyer bases his hopes of success in this suit on a technicality of the law which he believes may make it possible for him to win the civil suit, even if Becker escapes conviction in the criminal prosecution.

This point is the requirement in a criminal case that the testimony of accomplices, no matter how damaging must be corroborated by a witness against whom no complicity can be charged. It is this point which Lieut. Becker hopes may enable him to win freedom despite the confessions of "Billiard Ball Jack" Rose, "Bridgey" Webber, and Harry Vallon.

In a civil suit, however, only a preponderance of evidence is necessary to win a verdict, and the fact that the testimony was that of accomplices would not invalidate it.

HAYES TO BE TRIED FRIDAY

On the Charge of Making a False Statement While a Police Inspector.

The trial of Police Capt. Cornelius G. Hayes, charged with making a false statement while he was an Inspector to Commissioner Waldo, will begin in Police Headquarters at 10 o'clock on Friday morning. The charge recites that on Aug. 16 Hayes said in effect that he had been directed by the Commissioner not to obtain evidence against disorderly resorts without express orders to do so, and that this assertion was false.

Deputy Commissioner McKay will preside at the trial, and the witnesses in support of the charge will be Deputy Commissioner Dillon, Inspectors Cahalane, Daly, Lahey, and Titus; the Commissioner himself, and Frank Donohue, Mr. Waldo's stenographer.

Edmund L. Mooney of the law firm of Blandy, Mooney & Shipman, is Hayes's lawyer, but he is abroad. It was said at his office yesterday that the firm would look after the Captain's interests if an adjournment of the trial could be obtained. It was said at Police Headquarters that no request for an adjournment would be granted. Assistant Corporation Counsel Farley has been assigned to represent the Commissioner.

DIX READY TO ACT.

"The Moment the Time Seems Propitious," He Tells Dr. Parkhurst.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Gov. Dix is watching closely the situation which has arisen in New York City as a result of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler. In a letter written to the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst which was made public in the Executive Chamber to-day, the Governor declares that he will act "the moment the time seems propitious."

Dr. Parkhurst wrote the Governor that in his opinion it was not Commissioner Waldo, but Mayor Gaynor, who was responsible for conditions in the Police Department. Gov. Dix replied:

> I desire to have you know that I am in hearty co-operation with you in your work for bettering the conditions in New York City. That was the purpose I had in mind some weeks ago, when I interviewed Judge Goff asking him that if the occasion arose he would serve as special term Judge. * * * As regards the matter of the removal of the Police Commissioner, I am watching the situation from day to day, and shall act at the moment the time seems propitious for the Executive to take a hand in an entirely municipal affair. The evil must be attacked at its source, but it is often necessary to wade a stream to find its origin.

The power to remove a Mayor of New York City on charges is vested in the Governor under the Constitution. But no one believes that Gov. Dix would be very anxious to exercise that power.

Under the public officers law, Article 3, Section 34, the Governor could remove the Mayor, may take evidence in any proceeding for such a removal or may direct that the evidence be taken before a Justice of the Supreme Court of the district, or before a commission appointed by the Governor. An officer against whom proceedings are to be taken must have eight days notice of examination.

WALDO WASN'T ARRESTED.

It Was A. J. Powers's Auto That Was Stopped at Freeport.

A statement was given out at Police Headquarters yesterday denying that Commissioner Waldo had been arrested on Sunday for speeding on Long Island. The statement says:

> The statement published in the press this morning that Commissioner Waldo was arrested by Police Capt. Dunbar in Freeport, L. I., for automobile speeding is absolutely false. Commissioner Waldo has not been on Long Island for over a month: he has never been arrested for automobile speeding.

In a letter to Capt. Dunbar, former Assistant District Attorney, A. J. Powers explained the mistake. He had been stopped by the Police Captain, who informed him that he was exceeding the speed limit. Mr. Powers told Dunbar who he was, and to identify himself showed a card signed by Mr. Waldo. It was this signature which led to the belief that Mr. Waldo's auto had been stopped.

FIND GRAFT WAS PAID IN CURRAN'S DISTRICT

Two Fruit Stand Owners Testify That They Gave Up $500 for Licenses.

ALDERMAN MAKES A DENIAL

"Nothing Whatever to Do with Me," He Says—Gaynor Answers Becker's Letter.

Evidence that graft was paid for fruit stand licenses in Alderman Henry H. Curran's district came to the attention yesterday of Henry M. Rice, Acting Commissioner of Accounts, who has been investigating news stand graft. Alderman Curran is Chairman of the Aldermanic Police Investigating Committee. His is the Twenty-sixth Aldermanic District.

The evidence, which was furnished in the form of affidavits by two victims who gave up in the neighborhood of $500, tends to show that owners of fruit and soda water stands have to pay just as much to graft collectors as do the news stand owners. Mayor Gaynor is behind the Acting Commissioner in his investigation, which he is conducting in the absence of Commissioner Fosdick, who resigns his office at the end of the month.

Acting Commissioner Rice said yesterday that it was only just and fair to Alderman Curran to say that the investigation so far does not connect the Alderman's name in any way with the taking or demanding of money for licenses. Alderman Curran supplemented this statement with one of his own in which he denied that he knew anything about the collection of money for the fruit stands in question or any others. The Alderman was in conference with Assistant District Attorney Buckner, counsel for the Aldermanic Investigating Committee in the latter office, when he heard that his name had been mentioned in connection with Acting Commissioner Rice's investigation and he hurried at once to his office in the City Hall and prepared his statement.

The Alderman was plainly perturbed over the bringing in of his name, but he said he was not at all surprised. Detectives, he said, had been going through his district with a fine-tooth comb asking news and fruit stand dealers if they paid money for their permits, besides trying in other ways to implicate him. The Alderman didn't deny that he had a suspicion that Mayor Gaynor might know something about these detectives. The story of the fruit stand graft was unfolded by Samuel Gordon and Abraham Wiener, who paid the money for the licenses.

Gordon and Wiener had been in partnership, and hearing that he could obtain a license for a certain fruit stand in West Twenty-fourth Street from a cigar store keeper near by, Gordon went to this individual. The cigar store keeper told Gordon that they could obtain the license by paying him $100, and he sent them to the headquarters of the political club in the district. Gordon went to the club, and says he saw the Alderman, meaning Alderman Curran, and the District Captain, who, he says, told him that the application for the license for the particular stand, already signed by the Alderman, had been given to another person. The name of this person, as well as the cigar store keeper, is known to Mr. Rice, but he refused to make them known last night on the ground that his subpoena servers were out looking for the men.

Gordon, continuing his story, said he looked up this "go-between," who informed him that he held the application for the license, and would surrender it for $100, but that Gordon would have to obtain it from the cigar store keeper. Gordon says he returned to the cigar store keeper, who demanded $200 for the application blank containing the Alderman's siganture. Gordon said he couldn't afford to pay so much, and the cigar store keeper, he says, agreed to let him have it for $125. Gordon says he paid $125 for the application, and on March 25 the license was given him.

$285 for Second Stand.

Gordon and Wiener conducted the stand for about a month, when they learned that another fruit stand could be obtained in East Twenty-second Street. Profiting by his first experience, Gordon and Weiner decided to deal directly with the go-between and have nothing to do with the cigar store keeper, whereupon Wiener went to this individual and asked him how much the application for the stand would cost. The individual, he says, told him it could be obtained for $235. Wiener paid the money, he says, and then the cigar store keeper came to him and told him that he would have to be let in on the transaction, and demanded $50. Wiener compromised by paying $25 down in cash and giving the cigar store man his note for $25. On May 2 the license was granted, and Gordon began to operate the stand in connection with the one they already had in West Twenty-fourth Street.

At this point Acting Commissioner Rice explained that while only one permit or license was required to maintain a newsstand, the license granted by the License Bureau on the application signed by the Alderman of that particular district, two permits were required to maintain a fruit stand, one from the city and one from the owner of the building within whose stoop line the stand was located. In the case of the Twenty-second Street stand the owner of the building was away and the lessee of the building gave Gordon and Wiener the permit. When the owner of the building returned and learned what had been done he revoked the permit and the stand was removed. Neither Gordon nor Wiener could get any of their money back, they said, and it was for this reason they decided to tell the Commissioner of Accounts all about it.

As soon as he heard their stories, Acting Commissioner Rice sent a number of subpoena servers to locate witnesses who would corroborate the stories of the two men. These witnesses, if they are located, will be examined to-day.

Alderman Curran said he consented to giving the license for the Twenty-fourth Street stand because the applicant appeared to be a poor man and in ill-health, with no other means of earning a living. He consented to the license of a stand at 51 West Twenty-second Street for the same reason, he said, but that the license was soon afterward revoked by the Chief of the License Bureau on the ground that the neighborhood complained of its being a nuisance. He said he would not consent to the licensing of another stand at 31 West Twenty-second Street because the retail dry goods stores and other merchants objected to any more soda water stands being opened in that part of his district.

"The story, as I learn it, as well as according to the Acting Commissioner of Accounts," said Alderman Curran, "is uncertain and incomplete and has nothing whatever to do with me."

Gaynor Writes to Becker.

Alderman Niles R. Becker, to whom Mayor Gaynor referred in his speech before a newsdealers' association a couple of weeks ago, when he discussed the newsstand graft and in whose district money was collected for a newsstand at Eighty-sixth Street and Columbus Avenue, wrote a letter to the Mayor a few days ago demanding that the Mayor call a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen to investigate the newsstand situation in his district. The Alderman received this letter from the Mayor yesterday:

> City of New York,
> Office of the Mayor.
> Aug. 24, 1912.
>
> Dear Sir: Your letter is at hand. Your statement that I said graft is operated "by the Board of Aldermen" is not true. No such thing was said by me. But I am sorry to say that graft seems to be brought right home to some individual members of the Board of Aldermen. Very truly yours,
> W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.
> NILES R. BECKER, Esq., Alderman, Fifteenth District, 251 West Eighty-sixth Street, New York.

To this letter Alderman Becker replied yesterday. He wrote in part:

> So great a charge as this, proceeding, as it does, from the Mayor of the city ought to be investigated in the right way—not by a secret, partisan inquiry where witnesses, not all of them able to take care of themselves, and some of them, perhaps, animated by motives other than honest ones may, behind closed doors, be made to say things at variance with the truth, but in a fair, open honestly conducted investigation.
>
> No evidence against me has been adduced. Now, if it is true, as your Honor says, that "graft seems to be brought right home to individual members of the Board of Aldermen," I submit that your Honor should send the proof of that fact to the District Attorney, and that your Honor should join with me in an effort to obtain a full and open investigation of this whole matter.
>
> Your Honor's letter does not answer my request that you call a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen to consider this matter. If you will do so, I will submit any form of resolution that you will suggest, provided only, that it is worded to secure a fair and open investigation.

The investigation regarding the case in Alderman Becker's district is still going on before Acting Commissioner Rice.

ALDERMANIC MEETING OFF.

Curran Unable to Get a Quorum to Pass on Flynn's Employment.

The scheduled meeting of the Aldermanic Investigating Committee for tomorrow will not be held, because Chairman Curran has found it impossible to get enough members together to make a quorum. Nearly all of them are out of town. They would not make the journey here, because the business to be transacted did not seem to them to be of much importance. About the only business of interest the committee had to attend to was the question of employing William J. Flynn, the Secret Service detective.

The meeting may be held later in the week, or it may go over until next week. There is no likelihood that the committee will be able to begin taking testimony until the middle of September.

The Mayor promises in his request that "no man shall be shielded."

BILLION DOLLAR SESSION.

Fitzgerald and Cannon Dispute as to Which Party Holds the Record.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The session of Congress which closed to-day was a billion-dollar Congress in appropriations. Analytical statements concerning the appropriations made were submitted to the House in its closing hours this afternoon by Chairman John J. Fitzgerald of the Appropriations Committee, and ex-Speaker Joseph G. Cannon, ranking Republican member. Both agree on their figures but differ in the conclusions and deductions drawn from them. Chairman Fitzgerald insists that the session just closed was more economical than any of the last three Republican sessions. Ex-Speaker Cannon challenges this assertion, and insists that the Democratic House has cost more than did any of its recent Republican predecessors when appropriations for the Panama Canal are eliminated.

Both agree that the appropriations made at this session of Congress amount to $1,019,636,143.66, as compared with $1,026,682,881.72 at the last regular session under the Republicans.

Chairman Fitzgerald points with pride to this record and exclaims:

"The appropriations made at this session are materially less than the appropriations made at either of the last regular sessions, namely: Less than those of the last regular session, providing for the fiscal year 1912, by $7,046,738.06. Less than those of the previous session, providing for the fiscal year 1911, by $8,265,285.52. Less than those of the session which provided for the fiscal year 1910, by $8,870,427.28."

The Republican minority, through ex-Speaker Cannon, insisting that the elimination of the Panama Canal appropriations would make the showing in favor of the Republican Administration of last year $9,000,000 better than the Democratic record of the present session, joins issue with Chairman Fitzgerald in these words:

"A Republican House at the last session of Congress provided for the Panama Canal the sum of $45,560,000, and through the requirements of the law making these appropriations available until they are finally expended, there remained in the Treasury at the end of the last year amounts of money exceeding $5,000,000 for canal construction, which made it possible for the Democratic House to reduce, as it has the sums for the canal for next year to $28,980,000.

"Therefore, deducting the $45,560,000 for canal construction from the total appropriations last year of $1,026,682,881, there remains an aggregate of $981,122,881, and deducting the $28,980,000 for canal construction from the total amounts made at this session there remains an aggregate of $990,656,143.66, a sum which exceeds the grand total of all appropriations made by the Republican House at the last session of the last Congress by $9,533,261.94."

THIEF SPENT NEW PENNIES.

This Was the Clue That Cleared Up Two Apartment Robberies.

Adolph Thomas and A. K. Byrd, two lawyers living in an apartment house at 41 Pinehurst Avenue, found their apartments ransacked when they returned with their families from their vacation on Aug. 19. Two gold watches, a sapphire pendant and jewelry belonigng to Mrs. Byrd, and a collection of coins of Mr. Thomas, in which were 500 Lincoln pennies of the first coinage, had been stolen.

It was through the pennies that Detective Prayer of the St. Nicholas Avenue Station traced the thief. At the candy stores in the neighborhood the detective learned that Alber Depasso, the colored elevator boy of the apartment house, had been buying sweets with untarnished two-year-old Lincoln pennies. Upon being accused of the robbery, the boy stoutly affirmed his innocence until confronted with the proof before Magistrate Cornell in the Harlem Court. Then he confessed that his sweet tooth had tempted him to take the pennies, and with them the other things.

NEUMANN CORRECTS HIMSELF

Didn't Mean to Say That We Have Only Ten Real Ear Specialists.

Dr. Heinrich Neumann, Austrian delegate to the International Otological Congress in Boston, wishes to correct one sentence in an interview with him, in which he was made to say that the qualified ear specialists in this country were limited to ten members of the profession. Dr. Neumann says his limited use of the English language is probably responsible for this misstatement of his views.

This was a slight on the medical profession of the country which he did not intend, he says, and had simply mentioned ten names of those whom he happened to recall from among the many specialists all over the country.

London Paper Sees in Canal Act and Police Revelations Signs of a "Generic Evil."

RIGHTS BRITAIN GAVE UP

Seem to Have Been Forgotten Here, Another Paper Reminds Us, in Dealing with Panama.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The London papers continue to discuss the signature of the Panama Canal bill by President Taft, the majority referring to THE NEW YORK TIMES's characterization of the bill as "disgraceful and flagitious." The Pall Mall Gazette says:

"It was declared last week in so unemotional an organ as the Journal des Débats that in certain contingencies connected with the Panama Canal bill the world would have a right to think that the probity of the United States Government was on a par with that of the New York police.

"Nothing has yet occurred to provoke a verdict of such sweeping condemnation. We are confident that, in spite of the sinister manipulations in which Mr. Taft and Congress have alike involved themselves, the Panama question will yet be solved in such a fashion as to preserve the honor of the American people.

"But it is noteworthy that the credit of the United States Government and of the New York police are both very seriously impugned by incidents that figure prominently in to-day's news, and the conjunction must impel serious Americans to a searching of heart upon certain features of their public life."

After referring to the mysterious death of Miss Curran, the paper goes on:

"It is one of the most ghastly ironies attendant on progress and democracy that in the greatest city of the New World crime can thus claim a veto upon the administration of order and that the guardians of life and property can be universally credited with connivance at the most villainous outrages and charged even with the actual assassination of those who obstruct their infamous proceedings. No honest-minded American looking at the parallel columns in to-day's newspapers which record these two reproachful histories can avoid a feeling that contempt for National honor in high places, coupled with such grave infamies in the details of administration, point to generic evil in public life that calls for most strenuous and united efforts at reform."

In a leading article headed "Our Panama, What Great Britain Gave Up to America," The Evening News says:

"'We built our canal and can do with it as we like' is the clamor of the American jingoes. They forget that the British public could reply: 'We allowed you to build the canal by giving up ours, and have the right that the treaty shall be observed, for without British consent, bought at the price of the abandonment of some of our rights on a Nicaragua canal, the Panama Canal could never have been.'

"There are two parties to every agreement, and in the nature of things both parties give up no more than they are obliged to. If the Americans gave up by the Hay-Pauncefote treaty the right, which they now claim, to favor American shipping, it was because Great Britain gave up what was equally valuable—her right to finance a rival enterprise."

The Westminster Gazette, after paying a tribute to the magnificent enterprise in the building of the canal and stating that it would be a thousand pities if the rejoicings of the civilized world at its completion were to be blighted by a difference about the terms on which it was to be used, says:

"Surely the right thing for the American Congress to do under the circumstances is to submit the question of treaty interpretation to The Hague Tribunal.

"We admit that if the proposed discrimination were really confined to American coastwise shipping, and the definition 'coastwise shipping' were precisely maintained, the grievance of other countries would be theoretical rather than substantial, as they are equally excluded from this branch of trade by the American navigation laws; but the ground which the President takes clearly applies to all American shipping, and that seriously alters what were supposed to be the substantial gains in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty."

The Evening Standard says in part:

"In spite of the spirited warnings of a majority of his fellow-countrymen, Mr. Taft has signed the bill, and the eyes of the United States are turned to this country. Great Britain can, if she chooses, allow the treaty, which expires next April, to lapse, and in this event it is not unlikely that other nations will follow suit.

"What will happen between now and April it is impossible to say. Mr. Taft resents the fact of his country, having had all the labor and expense of the constructing of the canal, not being allowed to deal with its own commerce in its own way, but he forgets that in exchange for this vanished freedom the United States secured other advantages. When the Hay-Pauncefote treaty was concluded, Great Britain was not the only satisfied party. The United States was satisfied also.

"Mr. Taft must not attempt the difficult feat of eating cake and having it, too, or the canal constructed at the cost of many lives and so much money will be a curse and not a blessing to mankind."

PARIS LIGHTS GIVE OUT.

Champs Elysees Hotels Are Using Candles and Oil Lamps.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Candles and oil lamps are being used as illuminants in many of the Champs Elysées hotels to-night, owing to the continued failure of the electric light supply, which broke down last night.

The hotel managers have assured American visitors that the inconvenience will not last long, but just what is the cause of the lights' failure is uncertain. The officials are reticent. One report is that the breakdown is caused by a water leakage into the electric main. Another is that it is due to trouble with the switchboard.

The tables of large cafés and restaurants are illuminated with colored Chinese lanterns, giving an Oriental effect.

Shopkeepers already report a shortage of lamps and candles, owing to the failure of the Champs Elysées quarter's light.

Thousands of mourners were waiting to get in when the hall was closed to-night, and it has been decided to continue the lying in state to-morrow.

King George and Queen Mary to-day sent a beautiful wreath inscribed with the words: "As a mark of regard and high esteem from the King and Queen."

The honeymoon will be on the Continent, and Dr. and Mrs. Morrison expect to arrive at Peking in October.

RUIN BY ENGLISH FLOODS.

Crops Destroyed and Towns Isolated Following Incessant Rains.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The flood situation in England is becoming increasingly serious. Six inches or rain fell to-day.

The City of Norwich, on the Wensum, ninety-eight miles northeast of London, is almost isolated. The train service between London and Norwich and Cromer has been suspended, and many local services are affected.

The entire County of Norfolk is a swamp, and Lincolnshire, Suffolk, and other eastern counties are in an alarming condition. Everywhere crops are being destroyed by the swollen rivers, and there is no sign of a cessation of the rains.

The condition of the military camps at Aldershot, Salisbury Plains, and Swaffham is so serious that many regiments had to be moved. There is a probability of all the Summer manoeuvres being abandoned.

AMERICAN WINS HYDROPLANE RACE

Charles T. Weymann Victorious in the Big Event of the Meeting at St. Malo.

FLY TO JERSEY AND BACK

Four of Five Competitors Make Round Trip—Spectators Enthusiastic Over Hydroplanes' Future.

ST. MALO, Aug. 26.—Charles T. Weymann, the American aviator, to-day won the principal event of the hydroaeroplane meeting which began here on Saturday.

Weymann, who flew in a monoplane, made the excellent time of 1 hour 40 minutes for the distance of 145 kilometers (approximately 90 miles 1 furlong) from St. Malo to the island of Jersey and back. The whole race was over the waters of the English Channel. Weymann, René Labouret, Jean Benoist, Michel Molla, and Eugène Renaux were the only five survivors of the first two days' contests who brought their machines to the starting point for the big race. They were sent off with the wind blowing half a gale from the northwest.

The pilots apparently had considerable difficulty in steadying their craft and keeping a straight course, but in a few minutes they all sped off along the sea route, which was patroled by nine torpedo boat destroyers equipped with wireless telegraphy, and with everything in readiness to pick up possible derelicts. Of the five starters, however, only Renaux failed to complete the round trip, and enthusiasts among the spectators expressed the view that hydroaeroplanes before long would become as common as automobiles and small pleasure yachts, and would in a large measure replace the latter.

An hour after the departure from St. Malo a wireless dispatch reported the arrival of four flyers in Jersey. Weymann had made the best time on the outward journey, which he completed in 48 minutes.

A splendid race between Weymann and Labouret marked the return journey. When the airmen came in sight Labouret was leading, but Weymann managed to get a little extra power out of his motor, and beat his opponent on the finishing line.

Under the complicated system of awarding points for the contests the judges gave first place for the three days' events to Labouret, who received $3,000. Benoist was placed second, and received $2,000. Michael Molla took third place and obtained $1,200, while Weymann got the fourth prize, amounting to $600.

This first and most successful hydroaeroplane race meeting was held under the auspices of the Automobile Club of France, and under the patronage of Théophile Delcassé, Minister of Marine. The Committee of Management included a number of well-known men, such as Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, Prof. Paul Painlevé of the University of Paris, Senator Emile Reymond, Major Gen. Sir A. N. Rochfort, Governor of Jersey; Sir Charles T. Rose, President of the Royal Aero Club of Great Britain, and Louis Paul Cailletet, President of the Aero Club of France.

ACCUSES A MISSIONARY.

Counsel for Koreans Says the Rev. G. S. McCune Was Implicated in Plot.

SEOUL, Aug. 26.—At the resumption to-day of the trial of 123 Koreans charged with conspiring against the Japanese Government and with plotting to kill Count Terauchi, Governor General of Korea, Japanese and Korean counsel opened the case for the defense and pleaded with the court to show leniency to the accused. The case of the prosecutiton was concluded on Saturday with the demand of the Crown Prosecutor that Baron Yunchiho and five other alleged leaders of the conspiracy be sentenced to ten years' imprisonment and that each of the other 117 prisoners be sentenced for terms ranging from five to eight years.

Mr. Ogawa, in his defense of Baron Yunchiho, who is an ex-Cabinet Minister and President of the Sinminhoi, a secret Korean society, made an eloquent plea on behalf of his client and the other men in custody. He asserted that the Sinminhoi existed prior to the Japanese treaties of protection and annexation of the Hermit Kingdom, and declared that the organization had for its purpose the industrial development of Korea, adding that, while the society was of a political nature, it did not countenance violence.

Mr. Ogawa said that the confessions made by some of the prisoners were without value, because they had been made simply for the purpose of pleasing the police.

Continuing, Mr. Ogawa asserted that a number of other persons had been implicated in the conspiracy, but had not been arrested. They included, he told the court, the Rev. George S. McCune, head of the Presbyterian mission school at Syen-Chyun, and several other foreigners. In conclusion, Mr. Ogawa said that the evidence against Baron Yunchiho was not sufficient to warrant his conviction.

WOOLWORTH FOR T. R.

Corporation Head Thinks He Did Help Country—Coming Home Well.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—F. W. Woolworth, who left New York early in May, in consequence of a breakdown in his health, arrived in London to-day, intending to sail for New York on Saturday. He is in much improved health after a long stay at Carlsbad with plenty of motoring. He expects on his return to take up active charge of the business of the corporation of which he is the head.

Mr. Woolworth is optimistic in regard to the business situation in America. He remarked to-day that conditions were better than at any other time in the last five or six years, with a prospect of even greater improvement after the election. He added:

"It seems to me it matters little which of the three Presidential candidates is elected so far as the prosperity of the country is concerned. Business is now on a sound basis, and nothing can prevent it from going ahead.

"I have always been a Roosevelt man, for the reason that Roosevelt did more for the benefit of the country during his terms than any other President in many years. I admit that he also did a lot of foolish things, like every one else, but I think if he is re-elected his experience will reduce the likelihood of a repetition of his mistakes to a minimum.

"Mr. Taft has proved a disappointment. No man ever took office with better training for the job. His attitude in signing the Panama Canal bill is amazing.

"As regards Wilson, while he is thoroughly conscientious, I do not think he has had the proper education for the job. It is hard to prophesy who will be elected, but Roosevelt's strength with the common people is a big factor. A man can't go on shaking hands with engine drivers year after year without due effect."

Mr. Woolworth said he wished to deny a report printed in New York that the new Woolworth Building bears that name only on sufferance, implying that he has little connection with it. He concluded by referring to American business in England, saying:

"It is nonsense to say that there is no prejudice against Americans here. There is a great deal. It took us a whole year to fight it, but now we have caught on. I must admit that there are some grounds for the prejudice existing against American business, owing, for one thing, to the large amount of fake mining stocks unloaded from time to time on British investors."

HOT ATTACK ON NEWPORT.

London Paper Has Been Getting Lurid Reports of Entertainments.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Aug. 27.—Under the caption "Expensive but Tawdry," The Daily Express comments editorially as follows on the versions that have reached the other side, of the recent entertainments given by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish at Newport:

"Twice within the past week we have had occasion to report from America the brainless vulgarity of two rival hostesses, who have given entertainments doubtless designed to dazzle the eyes of the public and arouse the curiosity and envy of their less fortunate sisters.

"The vast fortunes of American millionaires, accumulated for the most part by tireless industry and intrepid enterprise, are frequently spent patriotically and with the constant idea of improving the social conditions of the country. There is, unhappily, a minority whose many dollars are not accompanied by either imagination or good taste.

"Nothing, indeed, more pitiably vulgar can be conceived than this competition between Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt as to who could spend the most on an evening party. Mrs. Vanderbilt seems to have won. She spent £2,000,000 ($10,000,000) on jewels, and, judging from the cabled accounts, the party must have been tiresome, sordid, and silly.

"The chorus ladies of 'The Merry Countess,' specially brought from New York, doubtless had a good time, the world is thrilled by the news that millionaires' wives wore diamonds on their slippers, and the Socialists and Anarchists all over the world have received an effective argument for the redistribution of wealth."

SEND SHIP'S SKIPPER TO SEE HER BUILDING

The New Imperator Will Be Put Together Under Her Future Commander's Eye.

LESSON FROM THE TITANIC

German Line's Idea Is That He Will Know Every Part of Her Should Trouble Arise.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—The Titanic catastrophe is responsible for an innovation in connection with the new Hamburg-American steamship Imperator, now approaching completion at the Vulcan Dockyard in Hamburg.

In order that the Imperator's commander, Capt. Ruser, well known to American transatlantic travelers as the executive officer of the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, may be familiar with every bolt and rivet of his new ship, the company has detached him from sea service and will station him at the dockyard. Beginning Sept. 1, he will oversee every detail of the final stages of the steamship's construction, and will remain aboard or alongside of her until she goes into commission in May, 1913.

His present voyage on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria is the last Capt. Ruser makes aboard her before taking up his inspection work at Hamburg.

Capt. Ruser's successor on the Kaiserin will be Capt. Dempwulf, formerly of the Blücher and the Moltke, who also has many oceangoing friends in the United States.

A THEATRICAL INNOVATION.

Company to Give "Milestones" Here Playing It for a Week in London.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 26. — The company which will present the Bennett-Knoblauch play "Milestones" at the Liberty Theatre, New York, on Sept. 17 began a week's engagement at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, to-night prior to sailing in the Adriatic next week.

English audiences are virtually viewing dress rehearsals of the American production. The performance had an enthusiastic reception to-night from a crowded audience. Joseph Brooks has collected a magnificent company, and many in the audience declared that it was a better presentation than that given by the original cast.

Leslie Fabre as John Rhead and Auriol Lee as Gertrude Rhead carried off the honors.

RUNAWAY KILLED A BOY.

Horse Was Maddened by Lads Who Teased Him.

For all the heat and the swarms of children in the street, a bay horse hitched to an oil wagon made his round of deliveries on the lower east side patiently enough yesterday afternoon until the driver left the wagon for a short time in front of a store in Forsyth Street. Then some small boys began to flick at the horse with long sticks. The animal become maddened and started off at full speed along the crowded street. The boys scattered in every direction, while mothers picked up their babies and ran to the shelter of doorways.

But one little boy did not get out of the way in time. This was five-year-old Joseph Ianne of 35 Stanton Street, who was walking in front of Public School 91 at Stanton and Forsyth Streets, munching at one of the pears for which his mother had sent him to a pushcart vendor. The frightened horse, swerving across the street, ran onto the pavement, and the Ianne boy was knocked down. A wheel passed over his chest, and he died soon afterward in a drug store. Patrolman Pass stopped the runaway by seizing the horse's head and jamming it against the school yard railing.

The driver of the wagon disappeared, and the police of the Fifth Street Station were looking for him last night.

ROBIN NOT RICH AGAIN.

Banker Was Said to Have Made $1,000,000 Since Going to Tombs.

Owing to the fact that Joseph G. Rabinovitch, better known as Joseph G. Robin, former President of the Northern Bank, who pleaded guilty to misappropriating the funds of that and other banks, has been using an office in the Criminal Court Building to clear up the tangled affairs of these institutions, a report gained currency yesterday that from this office he had been conducting operations in Wall Street which had enabled him to make $1,000,000 since his incarceration in the Tombs a year ago.

Investigation in the Criminal Court Building yesterday showed that this is not true.

"Robin," said an official of the District Attorney's staff, "labored so hard to arrange the affairs of the bank that depositors and stockholders will probably be able to escape without loss. It is certain, however, that he did not carry on any stock operations from the Criminal Court Building."

DIED IN GIRL'S APARTMENT.

Arthur H. Rand Expired While Visiting Miss Peters.

Arthur H. Rand, a salesman employed by the exporting firm of Henry W. Peabody & Co. of 17 State Street, died suddenly early yesterday morning in the apartment of Miss Mabel Peters in the Drayton, at 151 West Twelfth Street. The report of the death reached the Charles Street Police Station at 2:15 o'clock. Mr. Rand's home was at 166 Summit Avenue, Montclair, and his wife and three children had been spending August at York Harbor, Me.

Miss Peters explained to the police who questioned her that Rand was an old friend, not unaccustomed to spending his Sundays with her. They had been at Midland Beach together for dinner and it was midnight before they reached her apartment. Early in the evening he had complained to her of an attack of vertigo, and yesterday morning she returned from a brief absence from the living room to find him lying unconscious on a couch. The police found nothing suspicious in the man's death, and Miss Peters was not detained.

.280 Calibre Model JEFFERY RIFLE

Its bullet travels at the rate of 3,100 feet per second, and strikes with a smashing power of more than three thousand pounds! Its nicety of finish is that of a finely made watch. For all its power, it weighs less than eight pounds. Big game hunter, sportsman, military expert or red-blooded lover of the Great Outdoors, you owe it to yourself to see our exclusive importation of JEFFERY HIGH POWER RIFLES, and learn to what perfection the sporting rifle has been brought.

Almost equal to the .280 in flatness of trajectory, and its superior in striking force is the remarkable .333. Backed by the new Cordite powder, this bullet has a muzzle energy of two tons! If light weight in an arm of great precision is wanted, use the .256—if heaviest possible shocking force, the 400 grain bullet of the powerful .404.

DEMOCRATS MAKE UP THEIR COUNTY TICKET

Justice Thomas F. Donnelly and Edward G. Whittaker Selected for the Supreme Court.

JENKS NAMED IN BROOKLYN

Republicans Indorse Him — Queens Republicans and Richmond Democrats Give Slates.

Democratic committee meetings for the designation of candidates, whose names are to be placed in the organization column on the direct primary ballot were held last night in all the four counties of New York City.

Justice Thomas F. Donnelly of the City Court and Edward G. Whittaker, a lawyer, of 149 Broadway, were designated by the Democratic Judiciary Committee in New York County at Tammany Hall as the party's candidates for Justices of the Supreme Court. The designations came as a surprise, for it had been talked around Tammany Hall during the afternoon that George Gordon Battle and Corporation Counsel Watson were to be named.

In just twenty-one minutes the Democratic Judiciary Designating Committee of Kings County, which met at noon in the County Court House, Brooklyn, designated Justice Almet F. Jenks, Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, Second Department, and David F. Manning, President of the Brooklyn Bar Association, as candidates for the Supreme Court bench. The selections were made to fill the vacancies caused by the expiration of the terms of Justice Jenks and Justice Marean this year. The Progressives, led by Mr. Woodruff, selected Justice Jenks, who is a Democrat, for the same place. While the Democrats were holding their convention the Republicans met in another part of the Court House and indorsed Justice Jenks and designated County Judge Fawcett of Brooklyn as his running mate on the ticket. Judge Fawcett received 72 votes on the first ballot, Justice Jenks coming second with 66, and Prof. Alfred G. Reeves receiving 21 votes. The nomination of Judge Fawcett and Justice Jenks were then made unanimous.

Although the renomination of Justice Jenks by the Democrats had long ago been decided upon, the organization leaders had not made up their minds on the second choice. The slate was not completely arranged until after many conferences with County Leader John H. McCooey, in which several candidates were urged for the consideration of the Deputy Tammany Boss in Brooklyn.

Other aspirants for the nomination were said to be Dr. Philip A. Brennan, who was Mr. Manning's chief competitor; Edward Lazansky, Secretary of State, and Surrogate Herbert T. Ketcham.

The slate was finally made up at a conference in McCooey's office, and the programme arranged put through without a hitch.

The nomination of Justice Jenks had previously been urged by the Bar Association and leaders of all parties in Brooklyn. His record on the bench and his courteous attitude toward lawyers and principals in all cases coming before him made an invincible circle of friends for him.

The Republican organization in Queens last night designated candidates for the nomination for Congress, Senator, Sheriff, and Sounty Clerk. This was the ticket selected:

For Congress in the Second District—FREDERICK E. HOPKINS, a retired farmer of Jamaica.

For Senator, Second District—CHRISTIAN WEILAND of Corona, a former member of the Assembly.

For County Clerk—FREDERICK M. BECKER of Ridgewood, a business man.

For Sheriff—THERON H. BURDEN of Long Island City, a contractor.

With the exception of Burden, who has been a candidate for Sheriff four times, the candidates appear in public life for the first time.

In Richmond, the Democratic County, Senate, and Assembly District Committees met and designated candidates. Here are the candidates:

For Sheriff—JOSEPH F. O'GRADY.

For Senator—Assemblyman GEORGE A. BLAUVELT.

For Assemblyman—RALPH R. McKEE, the present Assemblyman.

At adjourned Republican Assembly Conventions in the Ninth District last night Chester L. Enger was designated, and in the Twenty-third Jacob A. Freedman.

The Independence League held a convention to designate candidates for the Supreme Court of the Second Judicial Department. There was a deadlock between Herman M. Hansen, Lewis L. Fawcett, and Robert Stewart, which continued to the fifth ballot. On the sixth ballot Stewart withdrew and Hansen and Fawcett were designated.

BULL MOOSERS NAMED.

Daughter of Late Col. Ingersoll a Delegate—I. M. Crane for Congress.

Irving M. Crane, a lawyer of 29 Broadway, was nominated for Congress from the Twenty-second Congressional District at a convention of the Bull Moosers last night. Mr. Crane is only 34. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago Law School. At present he is the Progressive leader of the Thirty-second Assembly District.

The Progressive Party in the Seventh Assembly District nominated Frank A. McCarthy, publisher of 321 West Twenty-seventh Street, for the Assembly.

William Halpin, Odell's former Lieutenant, was chosen as State Committeeman, and John J. Plunkett as permanent district Chairman.

Ten delegates to the State Convention were selected, among them Miss Maude G. Ingersoll, a daughter of the late Robert G. Ingersoll and Mrs. W. D. Grimshaw. The other delegates chosen are William Halpin, John J. Plunkett, Albert G. Carmiencke, Frank A. McCarthy, the Rev. Dr. George E. Barber, Nathan Gluck, Dr. William T. Stewart, and John C. Baker.

TICKETS IN WESTCHESTER.

Democrats Name All Except Congressman—Husted, Republican, for Congress.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 26.—The Democrats of Westchester County held their designating convention here to-day, and named these candidates: For Senator, John F. Sealy of New Rochelle; for Assemblyman, Fourth Assembly District, Mortimer C. O'Brien of White Plains; for Surrogate, William A. Sawyer of Port Chester; for Coroner, James P. Dunn of Yonkers.

No designation for Congressman in the Twenty-fifth Congressional District was made, the convention adjourning until to-morrow. Cornelius Pugesly of Peekskill refused to accept the designation, and the party leaders are urging him to reconsider.

For Congressman from the same district the Republicans designated James W. Husted of Peekskill. Mr. Husted is the son of the late James W. Husted, known as "The Bald Eagle of Westchester County," and who for many years was a member of the Assembly and six times Speaker of the House.

BEAT TAMMANY IN NASSAU.

Anti-Organization Man Chosen for Senator—Miles for Congress.

The Democratic County Committee meeting for the designation of candidates in Nassau resulted in a victory for the anti-Tammany faction. Thomas H. O'Keefe, a saloon keeper from Oyster Bay, was the choice for the nomination for State Senator from the First District over James L. Long, the present Senator, Tammany's man. O'Keefe received eight votes to seven for Senator Long, the result hinging on a ruling made by Harry B. Keith, the anti-Murphy leader in the district, who presided at the meeting.

Thomas B. Maloney of Great Neck was designated for Assembly. Harry B. Keith of Hempstead, Thomas H. O'Keefe of Oyster Bay, and Philip J. Christ of Hempstead were designated delegates to the Democratic State Convention.

WILL SHOW MOOSE STRENGTH

Primaries in Michigan To-day May Provide Significant Figures.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—Primaries will be held throughout Michigan to-morrow for the nomination of candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, United States Senator, Congressman at Large, and Congressmen in the First, Second, Sixth, and Seventh Districts. The counties will select candidates for all offices, and in Detroit city officials will be nominated.

The vote will be in some measure a test of strength of political parties since the split in the Republican Party. The Progressives have candidates for the most important offices. As most of the enrollment was made before the Roosevelt men seceded, and these will be permitted to-morrow to enroll with the Progressive Party, the percentage of defection from the old parties will be shown.

Murphy Democrats Win a Point.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 26.—The Democratic general committee at its meeting to-night refused to recognize the request of Jacob L. Ten Eyck that the anti-Murphy element in the Democratic party be recognized in the choice of delegates for the State convention and designed the full quota from the McCabe-Dugan wing, or organization Democrats. Ten Eyck will put up a fight at the primaries for delegates who will be anti-Murphy.

END VESTED WRONGS, URGES MARSHALL

Indiana Candidate, in First Maine Speech, Pictures the Evils of the High Tariff.

DEMOCRACY THE ONLY HOPE

Taft or Roosevelt Not to be Trusted to End the Partnership with Few to Tax All.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 26.—Gov. Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, Democratic candidate for Vice President, began his speechmaking tour in Maine to-night by an address here, in which he appealed for support of the Democracy as against the two Republican factions.

"Who," he asked, "is going to believe the regular organization when it declares that it is opposed to special privilege? Who takes it seriously when it points with pride to its enactments to curtail monopoly?

"Does any one doubt that for seven and one-half years the leader of the Progressive Party was in power in this country? Can any one put his finger upon a single effort made by him to curb the monopolistic tendency which was then rampant?

"Both standpat and progressive have stood for protection in one guise or another; both are now admitting that something is wrong; each is offering a patent medicine cure about the ingredients of which we know nothing.

"I do not care to talk to the man who is satisfied with the statement that we are the richest people in the world. If he means there are more rich men in America than in any other country, he is correct; but if he implies that the wealth of America has been fairly and honestly distributed among the people, he is altogether wrong.

"Mr. Morgan and myself are, perhaps, the two richest men in America, but I have never been enabled by executive interference with the criminal laws of this country to make even 80 cents. And yet, in my way and at my business, I have worked as hard as Mr. Morgan ever did. My handicap has been that I never had a friend in the White House."

After declaring that "it is not the wealth of this country, but its accumulation and manner of accumulation, that cause unrest and discontent," Gov. Marshall asserted that the protection "theory of economics has swollen the fortunes of this country until the labor of the people has gone to buying butterflies for society belles instead of bread for starving men."

The speaker said that the changing reasons advanced for the high tariff—"shifty, uncertain, and dishonorable"—came finally to the proposition to equalize the cost of production at home and abroad, thus making the Government a partner of the factories. He went on:

"I myself have never been able to determine what system of business or ethics should induce a Government to form a partnership with the man who made the cloth that is in my coat, while totally refusing to form a partnership with me, who buys the coat and wears it. It is not the business of Government to form a partnership with any one unless it forms a partnership with all."

Not in a thousand years, said Gov. Marshall, can the most skilled expert determine the difference in cost of production at home and abroad. He continued:

"No one except the beneficiary believes in any such system of taxation. No one honestly believes that information which will result in equal and exact justice to all the people is obtainable.

"I am in favor of a system of taxation which will compel the protected manufacturer to sell the surplus at home and the product abroad. This will, for the first time in history, compel the foreigner to pay the tax.

"A statistician has estimated that every man, woman, and child in America this year is paying $100 to the protected industries of this country. The Republicans, both standpat and progressive, have been responsible for this condition of affairs. They do not recede from this system, but they propose to give us some sort of a scientific investigation which may disclose that in the course of human events some slight changes should be made in the schedules.

"Do you think that the President of the United States was justified in vetoing a bill because he had not heard from his expert board? Why must the consumer always be the goat? I believe in vested rights, but I do not believe in vested wrongs.

"By the election of the Democratic ticket you will have an opportunity to rectify these wrongs. You have a choice to do this or to set up in this country an oligarchy of wealth, such as the regular Republican Party proposes, or to turn the Government over to the control of one man, who will do with it as he pleases, who has already repudiated the platform upon which he stands, and who says he is ready to go further, which means, as I interpret it, that he is ready to work his own will, breathing blessings and cursings upon the people as it happens to suit himself."

DEBS DEFINES BULL MOOSERS

Party of "Progressive Capitalism," He Says in His Acceptance Address.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 26.—In marked contrast to the notification ceremonies practiced by other political parties, the Socialist Presidential nominee, Eugene V. Debs, accepted the nomination to-day by simply informing the newspapers that they were at liberty to print his address of acceptance which he had sent them in printed form.

No committee called on Mr. Debs and there was an entire lack of ceremony of any kind.

The extreme simplicity of the occasion was marked further by Mr. Debs's preparations for a trip to Fergus Falls, Minn., where he will speak to-morrow night.

In his letter of acceptance he said in part:

"The infallible test of a political party is the private ownership of the sources of wealth and the means of life. Apply that test to the Republican, Democratic, and Progressive Parties and upon that basic, fundamental issue you will find them essentially one and the same. They differ according to the conflicting interests of the privileged classes, but at the bottom they are alike and stand for capitalist class rule and working class slavery.

"The new Progressive Party is a party of progressive capitalism. It is lavishly financed and shrewdly advertised. But it stands for the rule of capitalism all the same.

"When the owners of the trusts finance a party to put themselves out of business; when they turn over their wealth to the people from whom they stole it and go to work and make an honest living, it will be time enough to consider the merits of the Roosevelt Progressive Party.

"One question is sufficient to determine the true status of all these parties. Do they want the workers to own the tools they work with, control their own jobs, and secure to themselves the wealth they produce? Certainly not. That is utterly ridiculous and impossible from their point of view.

"The Republican, Democratic, and Progressive Parties all stand for the private ownership by the capitalists of the productive machinery used by the workers, so that the capitalists can continue to to filch the wealth produced by the workers.

"It is as foolish and self-destructive for workingmen to turn to Republican, Democratic, and Progressive Parties on election day as it would be for them to turn to the Manufacturers' Association and the Citizens' Alliance when they are striking against starvation wages.

"The capitalist class is organized economically and politically to keep the working class in subjection and perpetuate its power as a ruling class. They do not support a working class union nor a working class party. They are not so foolish. They wisely look out for themselves."

QUARRELS

One of the many things not comprehended in our methods of doing business is the quarrel. We believe in following the lines of least resistance, and we have neither time nor inclination for dispute.

The only thing we know of that might make us peevish, would be to have an Owner worry over his building and overlook the fact that the need for worry ceases when we are placed in charge.

The Red Lane

By Holman Day
Author of
"King Spruce," "The Ramrodders," etc.

Love, daring and romantic adventure all figure in this thrilling tale of the Canadian border. The story opens in a roadhouse run by a man whose convent-bred daughter is the heroine of the story. Her ignorance of her father's business, her sudden appearance at his place in the midst of a law-breaking carousal and the unexpected declaration of love from her Yankee lover, begins a novel of more than usual heart interest. The scenes are dramatic, the setting picturesque and the theme is of striking force, giving this author of humor and philosophy new opportunity for pictures of virile life. Quite naturally it has become one of the season's most popular books, for it is a capital story characteristically well told.

That man paid $25.00 for his trunk—he traveled one hundred thousand miles at a cost of one-fortieth of a cent per mile—2½ cents per one hundred miles.

Another proof that Indestructo Trunks will travel longer—farther—safer—at less cost—than any other trunk built.

WILSON SITS WITH PARTY MANAGERS

Looks After Campaign Contributions, of Which the Full List Is to be Published Sept. 10.

IN BUFFALO FOR LABOR DAY

Governor Has a Speech for Workingmen—His Engagements Announced—Significant Straw Vote.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 26.—Contributions to the Democratic National campaign will be made public by William G. McAdoo, Acting Chairman of the National Committee, in a statement to be issued on or before Sept. 10, and after that the contributions will be published from time to time. This decision was reached at a conference at Democratic headquarters in New York early to-day, in which Gov. Wilson, Mr. McAdoo, Rolla Wells, Treasurer; Henry M. Morgenthau, Chairman of the Finance Committee, and several members of the Campaign Committee took part.

From Mr. Wells and Mr. Morgenthau the Governor learned the extent of the contributions to the campaign fund, and the names of the largest contributors were told him. Gov. Wilson is heartily in sympathy with the plan of making public the names of all contributors before the election, and he is giving close personal attention to the matter of the collection and disbursement of the funds.

Gov. Wilson left New York on the 11:02 train, and after reaching Sea Girt announced that he had accepted an invitation to address the United Trades and Labor Council in Buffalo on Labor Day.

"I have a speech in my system about workingmen," said he, "which I have intended to get out for some time."

The Governor said that he had not changed his plan to make a stumping tour of the country. These are his speaking engagements for the next few weeks:

Aug. 29—Pennsylvania State Grange, William's Grove, Pennsylvania.
Buffalo, Labor Day—United Trades and Labor Council.
New York, Sept. 4—Woodrow Wilson Workingmen's League.
New York, Sept. 9—Press Club dinner.
Atlantic City—Spanish War Veterans reunion, Sept. 10.
Syracuse, N. Y.—State fair, Sept. 12.
Scranton, Penn.—Sept. 19.

Upon reaching Sea Girt Gov. Wilson went to his library and dictated letters until 5 o'clock, when, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and his sister, Mrs. Annie W. Howe, he motored over to the Spring Lake Golf Club, where he spent an hour on the links. To-night the Governor dictated from his own shorthand notes to a stenographer the speech he is to deliver to the farmers in William's Grove, Penn., on Thursday.

During the afternoon the Governor's cousin, John W. Wilson of Franklin, Penn., and his son, Alfred Wilson of Portland, Ore., dropped in at the Little White House for a visit. To-morrow the Governor will go to Trenton for the day. At the State House he will see Representative F. J. Garrett of Tennessee.

Two delegations of Italians from Hudson and Essex Counties will visit Sea Girt on Wednesday.

In his correspondence to-day the Governor found a letter from an old friend who is attending the conference in Milwaukee of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. The Governor would not make public the name of his correspondent, but he gave out the letter, which reads:

> I am here as one of the Commissioners from Virginia attending the conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, and fancy it will interest you to know the result of a poll taken by me. Thirty-two States are represented by fifty-eight Commissioners, of which thirty-five are for Wilson, seventeen for Taft, one is for Roosevelt, two are uncertain, but against the Bull Moose. Three have not been polled.
>
> The States represented are Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.
>
> A number of those polled are Republicans, who will vote for you this time. The lone follower of the Bull Moose admits that his State, Wisconsin, will vote for you, and the general opinion is that you will sweep the country.

Scores of letters and telegrams giving the results of straw ballots have been received in the Governor's mail within the last few days, and without exception Gov. Wilson leads by a wide margin. In nearly every case Col. Roosevelt received a larger vote than President Taft.

CAN'T FIND DIX SENTIMENT.

Murphy Said to be Ready to Drop Him—A Canvass Made.

For some time Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy has been directing a quiet canvass of the Democratic voters in the State with a view of sounding the sentiment among them on the question of giving Gov. Dix a second term. A close friend of Mr. Murphy told a reporter of THE TIMES yesterday that the information reaching the Tammany chieftain indicates that the Governor would not be a strong candidate.

Despite the direct primaries system in this State, Mr. Murphy surely will have the veto power on all important questions that may come before the Democratic State Convention, including the slate. Neither Mr. Murphy nor Tammany Hall as an organization is particularly fond of Gov. Dix, but it has been no part of Mr. Murphy's plan to place any obstacles in the way of the Governor's renomination provided the sentiment among the Democratic voters was for him. The recent canvass is said to have established firmly in Mr. Murphy's mind the idea that the time has arrived to look about for another candidate.

Various anti-Murphy movements which have been started in this State in the last few weeks have also, without exception, made the elimination of Gov. Dix a condition for giving their support to the organization ticket. Any step taken by Mr. Murphy as the organization leader with a view of having some other Democrat supersede Gov. Dix, it is calculated among Tammany men, will go a long way toward disarming the opposition voiced by the Empire State Democracy, the Progressive Democratic Conference, and other anti-Murphy organizations.

In some quarters it is believed that Mr. Murphy has already picked a nominee for Governor, but that he is not as yet ready to announce him. In connection with this the name of Supreme Court Justice Victor J. Dowling has been mentioned a great deal recently. Justice Dowling made a good record as minority leader in the Senate and later on the bench. He is widely known up State, and thought well of by Democrats of high and low degree both in and out of New York City.

But the present gambling and police exposures, it was stated yesterday, may make it necessary to go outside of New York City and as far as possible from Tammany Hall for a Gubernatorial candidate. The belief was expressed yesterday that possibly an up-State Democrat would be chosen. Former State Controller Martin H. Glynn is one of several mentioned as eligible. Mr. Glynn has a very good record and would be generally acceptably to Democrats throughout the State. As head of the Democratic State ticket, it is understood, he would be in a position to bring the Hearst newspapers to its support.

Democratic State Chairman George M. Palmer returned to his desk at the headquarters of the Democratic State Committee yesterday after a tour through the State, during which he visited all but five of the up-State Senatorial districts and conferred with the leaders.

Chairman Palmer said that while the Roosevelt boom made a lot of noise, it was difficult to gauge its real strength.

"If the Republicans are as determined as they should be that the third ticket must not win in this State, I regard it as most likely that they will throw their support to the Democratic ticket on Election Day in order to make assurance doubly sure," said Mr. Palmer.

WOMEN WILSONITES GET PARTY POETESS

Elizabeth Gordon Gross Will Write Songs for Mrs. Harriman's Society.

MEN SUFFRAGISTS OFFER AID

Resolutions Adopted Against Women Joining Parties—New Wilson Bodies Formed.

Mrs. Borden Harriman's new woman's National Wilson and Marshall organization has a poetess on its official staff, who is to write campaign songs and effusions for posters and fliers. She is Elizabeth Gordon Gross. The first song appeared yesterday and will be sung to the air of "My Pretty Maid." Here are the words:

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"
"To vote for Wilson, Sir," she said.
"Why for Wilson, my pretty maid?"
"Because he's for downward revision," she said.

"What is downward revision, my pretty maid?"
"It's cheaper foodstuffs, Sir," she said.
"How will he revise it, my pretty maid?"
"Very decidedly, Sir," she said.

"How will you vote, my pretty maid?"
"By indirect influence, Sir," she said.
"How do you do it, my pretty maid?"
"That's what I'm doing now," she said.

Mrs. Borden Harriman received yesterday through William G. McAdoo, who is a member of the Advisory Board, an offer of assistance in the Wilson campaign from George Foster Peabody, President of the Men's Woman Suffrage League. Mr. Peabody, writing on the Men's Suffrage League paper, says that if Mrs. Harriman wants his help in her anti-Roosevelt campaign the organization has only to let him know.

At the time Mr. Peabody was making this offer of political assistance the Executive Committee of the Woman Suffrage Party was passing a resolution at its headquarters, on Thirty-fourth Street, saying that it is against party principles.

"It is the sense of this meeting," the resolution reads "that it is against the principles and procedure of the Woman Suffrage Party for any member or officer to talk at a suffrage meeting in support of any political party or candidate."

The Jane Jefferson Denver Democratic Club, organized by Ruth Bryan, has offered its services to work for Wilson and sent congratulations on the New York organization's efforts. Mrs. Winthrop Cowdin, Mount Kisco, N. Y., and Mrs. Frank Hunter Potter, Katonah, N. Y., are organizing Westchester County for Wilson.

REPUBLICANS TALK IT OVER.

Root Says the Party Isn't Out of Business Yet—Get Cheering News.

The Advisory Committee of the Republican National Committee held its first meeting yesterday at the Republican Club. Campaign plans were discussed as well as the situation of the party in the various States. Chairman Hilles of the National Committee reported that the organization throughout the country, judging from reports which he had been receiving daily, was in splendid condition. The members who took part in the discussion were William Barnes, Jr., Austin Colgate of New Jersey, Gov. Goldsborough of Maryland, Adolph Lewisohn of New York, Harry F. Lippitt of Rhode Island, Herbert Parsons, Senator Elihu Root, George R. Sheldon, Treasurer of the National Committee; Samuel L. Powers of Massachusetts, and Fred W. Upham.

After the meeting Senator Root said:

"The Republican Party has not gone out of business yet, and it hasn't broken up, reports to the contrary notwithstanding."

It was announced at Republican Headquarters that President Taft and his campaign managers had been receiving hundreds of letters from Democrats all over the country assuring the President that they would work and vote for him. The names of four of these Democrats were made public. They are Charles J. Thorn of Chicago, Philip J. Higgins of Philadelphia, John T. Kent of Lincoln, Neb., and H. F. McGlechlin of Rochester.

BLEASE IS SURE HE'LL WIN.

South Carolina Votes at Primaries for Governor To-day.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 26.—The most bitter political campaign in South Carolina history came to an end to-day, and to-morrow the voters will go to the primaries.

Both Gov. Blease and Judge Jones, the Gubernatorial aspirants, issued statements to-day expressing confidence in the outcome. The Tillman letter, repudiating Gov. Blease, and calling on the voters to support Judge Jones, played an important part in the final hours of the campaign.

RUSH BRIBERY CASE INTO THE SENATE

Gov. Glasscock and Other West Virginia Bull Moosers Nearly Get Memorial on Record.

EXPUNGED AT LAST MINUTE

Charges Which Were Made in Legislature About Watson and Chilton Recounted at Length.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—A demand for a Senatorial investigation of the charges of bribery and corruption made in connection with the election of the new Democratic Senators from West Virginia, Clarence W. Watson and William E. Chilton, was made to-day in a memorial filed with the Senate by Gov. W. E. Glasscock of that State. Gov. Glasscock has been a Republican, but is now a follower of the Bull Moose movement.

The memorial was laid before the Senate by President (pro. tem.) Gallinger, to whom it had been sent direct from Gov. Glasscock under to-day's date.

Senator La Follette had risen to call up the Penrose resolution to broaden the inquisitorial powers of the Clapp Special Committee, and Mr. Gallinger asked him to suspend. Then the presiding officer handed the memorial to the Clerk, with directions that it be read.

Senator Penrose urged that the entire document be read, and the Clerk was within six lines of the end, when Senator McCumber objected to further reading and Senators Bailey and Bacon objected to placing it in the Congressional Record.

The memorial was expunged from the record, but was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections, which investigated the Lorimer and Stephenson cases.

"This is a slanderous attack," exclaimed Senator Martin of Virginia, floor leader of the Senate Democrats, "and this paper is sent here for muckraking campaign purposes. I object to spreading it on the Senate records."

Senator La Follette defended the memorial as containing more real basis for investigation than did the original charges against Lorimer.

The petition, which is signed by Gov. Glasscock, William Seymour Edwards, Herschel C. Ogden, David B. Smith, and Frederick A. McDonald, recounts how, on the 24th and 25th of January, 1911, charges were made in the West Virginia Legislature that Clarence W. Watson and William E. Chilton had secured their nominations to the Senate through bribery.

The statement of Senator George W. Bland before the joint assembly the following day told of allegations of Delegate L. J. Shock that "one Hamrick of Clay County on the 18th of January, 1911, came to him in the Washington Hotel, Charleston, West Va., and gave him $1,000 in bills, and agreed to pay him $1,500 additional if I would vote for Chilton and Watson for United States Senators. I have this $1,000 in $20 bills in my possession, and I have the word of the Hon. John J. Davis that those bills were counted and the $1,000 was there."

Senator Watson is a candidate for reelection to the Senate, and will run in the primary election in November. If the Legislature is Democratic a Democrat, selected at the primary, will be elected. As the Senate Privileges and Elections Committee will not meet before December the fate of Senator Watson in the coming primaries will have been decided before Gov. Glasscock's memorial can make the basis for Senatorial investigation.

TAFT OFF ON HIS VACATION.

Will Play Golf To-day and Go to Ohio To-morrow.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Within an hour after the adjournment of Congress to-day President Taft was in his private car bound for Beverly. The White House was practically deserted to-night, for Major Thomas L. Rhoads, the President's personal aid, Assistant Secretaries Forster and Brahany, and most of the office employes left with the President.

The President will have only twenty-four hours of vacation before he leaves to fulfill an Ohio engagement, but he expects to have a long morning on the golf links at Myopia and several motor rides. The President will return to Washington for a one day stay early in September. Later he plans to spend a few weeks at Hot Springs, Va.

At the Capitol only a few resolutions and bills were waiting for his signature, and many Senators and Congressmen dropped in to say good-bye. Senators Cullom, Jones, Smoot, Crane, Bacon, Overman, Penrose and Nelson all chatted with him for a few minutes before he left for his train.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 26.—The President is due in Boston to-morrow morning on the Federal Express. He plans to motor down from Boston. His offices in the Board of Trade Building were opened today for the season. Beverly will be the Mecca for many pilgrimages this Summer, for the President plans to conduct the personal side of the campaign from here. Mrs. Taft and Charlie Taft will motor in to Boston to meet the President. Beverly will greet the President without ceremony, the formal welcome having been extended on July 4.

Clark and Underwood on Stump.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—While Speaker Clark will plunge into the National campaign this week by speaking in Maine, Representative Underwood will not take the stump till October. After ten days at Hot Springs, Va., and then going to his home to complete the "rest cure," Mr. Underwood will be at the call of the Democratic National Committee all through October, and probably will be assigned to speak in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Connecticut.

BAR TO SETTLE NEGRO CASE.

Wickersham in Milwaukee to Fight to Keep Lewis in Association.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 26.—"I deny the right of the American Bar Association, after it has once seated a member, to oust him on the ground that it has been discovered that he is a negro," said Attorney General George A. Wickersham, who arrived to-day to attend the opening tomorrow of the association's annual meeting.

Mr. Wickersham came to defend the title of William H. Lewis to a seat in the association. Lewis is an assistant to the Attorney General. His membership was revoked by the Executive Committee on the charge that the committee elected him without knowing he was a negro.

Two other negro members are similarly affected. They are Butler R. Wilson of Boston and William R. Morris of Minneapolis. The Executive Committee, headed by S. S. Gregory of Chicago, President of the association, has prepared a special report, declaring it has been against the association's policy to admit negro members and stating that Lewis, Wilson and Morris were seated on recommendation of local Councils without the fact that they were negroes being made generally known. The report says that the eligibility of the men to membership is not affected by the report, and leaves open the question whether the association shall admit negroes hereafter.

Ralph W. Breckenridge of Omaha submitted a minority report opposing the committee's action in revoking the negroes' election.

That he would oppose any attempt to oust the negro members was made plain by Mr. Wickersham.

"Whether the association wants hereafter to admit negro members is another question," he said. "But there is no doubt that the present Executive Committee exceeded its power when it undertook to rescind its action."

Those who voted to drop the negro members were Lynn Helm of Los Angeles, John Hinkley of Baltimore, Hollis R. Bailey of Boston, Aldis D. Browne of Washington, Edgar H. Farrar of New Orleans, George A. Whitelock of Baltimore, and President Gregory.

Suspect Wasn't James M. Sims.

Thomas C. Brown, who was arrested last week by the Post Office authorities, as James M. Sims, Vice President of the American Trust Company of Memphis, Tenn., who was indicted there last November on the charge of using the mails to defraud, was discharged from custody yesterday by United States Commissioner Gilchrist. The authorities found that Brown was not the man under indictment in Tennessee.

SULLIVAN OUTING WITHOUT 'BIG TIM'

Tombs and West Side Prison Prevent Other Notables from Attending.

GAMBLING NOT PERMITTED

But 2,700 Followers of the Senator Have a Good Time at College Point.

The Timothy D. Sullivan Association sailed away on its annual outing yesterday on the Grand Republic. Aboard the steamer were 2,700 followers of the big fellow, wearing gold and purple badges with the smiling face of the State Senator and ex-Congressman in the centre. Every one of them was a voter.

The old order changeth, as the gentleman from Kansas said. It was a Sullivan outing, without a Sullivan. George Krauss, Big Tim's theatrical partner, was grand marshal of the parade from the headquarters, 207 Bowery, to the steamer pier. Big Tim was out of town, his exact whereabouts kept secret by his secretary, Henry Applebaum.

The harp of old Ireland on its green background was not in evidence. Instead the six-pointed blue star on a white ground, between two parallel double lines of blue stripes, the emblem of Zionism, and the green, red, and white tricolor, with the arms of Italy, vied with the Stars and Stripes as the colors of the day.

The Occidental Hotel, Broome Street and the Bowery, for years run by Sam Kahn, Big Tim's lieutenant, and the downtown headquarters of the leader, sported a sign, "This place is under new management," beneath its decorations. The glory of the Occidental is gone. Larry Mulligan, stepbrother of Big Tim, has transferred the headquarters of the clan to the St. Denis, in Broadway.

Mulligan was Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements. One member of the committee, Louis Webber, better known as "Bridgey," was unable to be present. He is now occupying a room in a tower building with barred windows on Fifty-third Street, overlooking the elevated, between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, awaiting the pleasure of the District Attorney. In a number of windows where posters announcing the outing were posted a black line had been drawn through Webber's name.

There were other conspicuous absentees. One of them was the late Herman Rosenthal, who had been a figure at most of the previous Sullivan outings. Rosenthal's absence was directly responsible for other absences as well as Webber's. Jack Rose, Harry Vallon, Jack Sullivan, (née Reich,) William Shapiro, "Whitey" Lewis, and "Dago" Frank Cirocici, who always attended Sullivan outings, were the guests of the District Attorney yesterday.

The outing went to Donnelly's Grove at College Point. Here they had two meals, breakfast on arriving, after the water trip, and dinner at the conclusion of the afternoon's games. Both meals were a hearty success, all parties paying the ultimate tribute to the fare provided by Host J. A. Donnelly. College Pointers pronounced the affair the largest of the season.

Not only was there plenty to eat, but also plenty to drink. Scores of barrels of beers were set out on tables under the trees and tapped freely for the jollification of the occasion. There were many impromptu concerts in different parts of the grove. Gambling was frowned upon. There were few of the gamblers who had attended other Sullivan outings in evidence, and small crap games and shell games were speedily broken up.

Alderman John J. White, once leader of the Board of Aldermen, and now head of a moving picture syndicate, was active in keeping the games moving. Col. Mike Padden, one of the old-time Sullivan retainers, was on hand to shake hands with political leaders from other districts who dropped in during the course of the afternoon.

Capt. Galvin of the College Point Police Station was on hand with a squad of men, keeping interlopers off the grounds and seeing that "outward order and decency," were observed. Capt. Galvin was positive that the outing was a pleasure to see. Toward evening the songs of the musically inclined became incoherent, and members of the accelerating committees could be heard passing out the word:

"Put those fellows on the top deck so they can thaw out on the way home."

Motorists Leave Victim in a Barn.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Officers were called to a barn in Gates last night and found there Thomas Burke of Haverhill, Mass., who said he had been run down by an automobile yesterday morning and carried into the barn by the occupants of the car, who then drove away. The man is said to be fatally injured.

MR. CARNEGIE IS CHIDED.

Pittsburghers Resent Peace Talk and Refusal of Warship Gift.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Aug. 26.—The ears of Andrew Carnegie must have burned to-day if there is truth in the old saying that adverse criticism makes them tingle. When Pittsburgh read the cablegram from Scotland in which Mr. Carnegie refused to contribute to the silver service fund for the cruiser Pittsburgh tongues began to wag.

Jerome J. Nordman of the Pittsburgh Industrial Development Commission, the organization collecting for the gift, wondered if Mr. Carnegie had forgotten that he made his fortune in armor plate and other navy equipment. Col. H. P. Bope, Vice President of the Carnegie Steel Company, one of the "forty young partners," said he thought the navy should have as big a place in Mr. Carnegie's heart as it had in his financial success. Col. Bope declared it was no more degrading to build battleships with Pittsburgh armor plate than it used to be when Mr. Carnegie was building his wealth.

Mrs. J. W. Marsh, President of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, said she helped the Laird of Skibo to lay the cornerstone at The Hague, and thought he showed consistency in his peace policy. Councilman Robert Garland said Mr. Carnegie was "a fine sport to pocket the millions he made out of the navy and then crab the game this way."

Rabbi Rudolph Coffee of the Tree of Life Synagogue said: "The spirit of the century favors brotherly love and disarmament, and Pittsburgh should not encourage bloodshed."

City Controller Morrow said he would have to refuse to approve the warrant for $10,000 which the City Council is appropriating for the silver service. "Not because I am against spending the money," said Mr. Morrow to-day, "but because the Council cannot legally appropriate money for such a purpose."

Mr. Carnegie's refusal to contribute to the fund was framed in these words:

"Pittsburgh's triumphs are those of peace. She receives no honor from engines of destruction bearing her name. On the contrary, I feel that she is degraded thereby. I regard the Council's contribution of a silver service a wrongful waste of the people's money."

Gramm Trucks Are Backed and Built By An Organization of Trained and Seasoned Practical Truck Experts

THE day has long since passed when the economy and the advantages of the motor truck were in doubt. The increasing number of trucks in every section of the country is the best indication of their utility, usefulness and value to any business. During the last five years such remarkable progress has been made by the commercial car that it has become a necessary fixture in practically every line of business in the world. In 1908 this country bought 2,500 trucks; 3,288 were bought in 1909; 4,120 were bought in 1910; 14,540 were bought in 1911, and 30,000 were bought in 1912. Rather a remarkable gain you might think. But every business that is operating one or more trucks is just that much in advance, just that much more efficient than their competitor who is relying on the old gray mare.

The only question that confronts the business world today is: "Which truck and why?" The Gramm Truck offers the progressive merchants and manufacturers of America a service that has behind it a long and well trained experience. It is the most complete in the world.

The Gramm Truck has been in use for over ten years. Thousands have helped to develop some of the largest commercial institutions in the world. It is built in an exclusive truck plant in Lima, Ohio, which is the largest individual truck plant in the industry. It is made by the truck specialists. Not by pleasure car builders, who, seeing the immense possibilities of the motor truck, have suddenly converted a corner of their paint shop into a "truck" department.

It is absolutely impossible and impractical for a pleasure car maker to try and make a motor truck in the same plant. It requires expert and experienced truck specialists—special mechanical equipment—trained truck engineers—special steels and special tools, and above all a thorough knowledge of trucks and their requirements under all conditions, which can only come from a long and varied truck experience. This the average car producer has not got, You cannot afford to gamble with his inexperience.

The Gramm Truck guarantees you dependable every day service, without constant and costly repairs. You can bank on a fleet of Gramm Trucks as you can on your battery of billing machines. You are not forever and continually "tinkering" with them.

There are Gramm service stations all over the country, made possible by our immense organization and thoroughly national distribution. You are never "up against it" for a part. You can always get it—quick.

Gramm information, as to the size, style, kind and number of trucks your business will require is alone of great value to your business. We have studied for years, the most economical methods of hauling all lines of merchandise. We have the facts concerning your business.

We can save you money, put your delivery system on a better basis, and give your business a prestige that will figure, in years to come, in your asset column. A horse and wagon is a liability. A Gramm motor truck is a valuable asset.

No matter how small or large your business, if you haul merchandise we bear immediate investigation.

A catalogue and all preliminary information to you on request, either from our local dealer or from us direct.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 26.—After losing fifteen contests in a row and playing in-an-out ball against the National League leaders in the four series this season, the Cincinnati club defeated the Giants by the score of 5 to 0 this afternoon. It was a battle between Benton and Marquard. Benton was at his best and had the Giants at his mercy. During the entire nine innings he never gave the Giants a chance to even get one lone tally across the plate. He was found for only four hits, and one of these was scratchy. Herzog received credit for a double and a triple. The other hits came from the bat of Larry Doyle, and were clean and hard drives through the infield.

Only once did the New Yorkers get a man on third base, and that was in the fifth inning, when Herzog tripled at the start of the inning. Esmond made a fine stop of Wilson's grounder and held the runner at third base while he retired the batter at first, and then a sensational throw to the plate by Mitchell caught Herzog when he tried to score on Fletcher's line drive to right field.

At other times Benton's support played a prominent part in the prevention of the base hits, for the Giants had several hits cut off by the fielding plays. Two double plays came at the right time, and both followed line drives that went directly at infielders.

The only misplay charged against Cincinnati was a dropped thrown ball by Hoblitzel on the first batter at the start of the contest.

Rube Marquard was an easy proposition for Cincinnati to-day. He was just as easy to beat in the first game of the present series as he was effective in all of the other games that he has pitched against the Cincinnati team this year.

In the first inning the locals had three runners on the bases, the result of three singles. Phelan hit into a double play and the side was retired without a score. The chances of the locals scoring were frequent. They had plenty of runners on the cushions, but were unable to penetrate the defense of the Giants until the fourth inning, when Egan lifted a short fly that none of the infielders handled, nor did Marquard. This pop went for a hit, and the first tally of the game crossed the plate. It also required three singles in that inning to produce the run, and it was scored on a rather scratchy single.

Four safe drives, including a pair of doubles and a home run drive to the right field bleachers, produced four runs in the eighth inning, and placed the result of the game beyond question.

Up to the eighth inning it was either team's game, with the Reds having a margin of one run. The feature of that inning was the home-run drive by Grant. He got a chance to get into the game when Umpire Johnston banished Esmond from the field in the seventh inning for disputing a decision on a called third strike. Grant did not have a chance in the field, but in the eighth inning he came to the bat for the first time and slammed a liner to right field. Becker tried to stop the ball on the first bound, but was not fast enough, and the ball rolled to the bleachers.

Murray, who always does sensational stunts when the Reds and Giants engage in a series, again broke into the limelight with a wonderful catch of Egan's long drive in the second inning. Murray ran almost to the stand in left field and grabbed the ball with one hand.

An error on the first batter placed a Giant runner on the base in the first inning, but he could not get any nearer to the plate, for the second batter flied to Marsans, while the other bounded out to an infielder.

The Giants got another man on first base in the second inning, and he was the last man left on the cushions until the ninth inning. He landed on second when three of the Reds permitted a short fly in centre to fall safe. This did no good, for Egan pulled off a fine stop back of second base, while Hoblitzel beat the last runner to first base after stopping his grounder.

The Reds broke loose in the fourth inning and won the game. With Hoblitzel out, Mitchell slammed to left field for a single and raced to third when Murray fumbled Phelan's single. The batter also received an extra base. Esmond forced Mitchell at the plate on a grounder to Fletcher, and then stole second. Egan's pop fly was very short, but none of the Giants' infielders made a play for the hit and the ball dropped to the ground a few feet from Marquard. Phelan scored, but McLean's foul ended the round. There was nothing more doing until the eighth inning, when Bescher converted a single to centre field into a double through slow work by Snodgrass. Marsans sacrificed, and Hoblitzel secured his third hit of the afternoon on a short fly to right field. Bescher registered and Hoblitzel went down to second through more slow work on the part of the New York outfield and came to the plate when Mitchell singled to left field. With Phelan retired at first base, Grant had his first chance of the afternoon and drove a homer to right field. Egan ended the inning with a liner to Murray.

In New York's half of the inning, Crandall went to bat for Marquard and struck out on three pitched balls. Benton repeated when Snodgrass came to the bat, but Doyle was more fortunate, and singled over the second bag. Becker slammed a long one to right centre field, but Marsans chased about the field with hands outstretched, grabbed the ball, and permitted Benton to score a shut-out over the Giants.

The Giants played below their usual steady game, and this, coupled with Marquard's ineffectiveness, explains the story of their defeat. The team did not show up as well with Chief Meyers out of the line-up, and his timely wallops, which have heretofore featured the Reds-Giants games, were missed. Nearly all of the regular Giant sluggers were helpless before Benton, who had his curves working perfectly. Fletcher played his usual good game at short stop, knocking down several drives that were labeled hits. Herzog also made a splendid stop, spearing a ball going directly over the third sack and preventing at least a two-bagger. There were two on the paths at the time.

To-day's game marked the third this season that the Reds have won from the Giants on the local grounds, and they have yet to win one in New York. It marked the first time they defeated Marquard this season.

Brooklyn Hammers Three Chicago Pitchers and Wins, 12 to 3.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Chicago played ragged ball to-day, and Brooklyn won the opening game of the series here, 12 to 3. The visitors hit the ball to all parts of the field and ran wild on the bases. Rucker pitched a fine game, holding the locals to nine scattered hits. Two bases on balls, a triple, and an out saved Chicago from a shutout.

The distance between the two leaders for pennant honors remained unchanged to-day, both having lost. Score:

The Yankees and the Clevelands wrangled, picked, and argued with each other in a baseball way on the Hilltop yesterday for more than two hours. First the Yankees looked like winners, then the Naps looked the same way, and when the ninth inning came the teams were deadlocked by a score of 8 to 8, and a thunder and lightning storm enveloped the park, broke up the pastime, and put an end to the game.

It was a whole afternoon's playing for nothing, so the teams will have to play a double-header to-day and probably one to-morrow. The chief interest in yesterday's game was the first appearance here this season of Napoleon Lajoie, one of the games truly great players. Lajoie was absent from the club during its two previous visits here because of injuries, and a crowd of over 6,000 turned out yesterday to see "Larry" perform. Cleveland isn't much of a team without Lajoie.

He's been playing ball many years, and they do say he is growing old. But it makes no noticeable difference with the big Frenchman's playing. His work at second base yesterday was artistic from the ground up. Twice he propelled himself with no apparent effort over about half an acre of ground and scooped up the ball nonchalantly with one hand and tossed runners out at first base. Then again he had to fall on the ground to get a throw from the catcher, and while on his back he caught Sterrett stealing. In the ninth inning, with two out, Lajoie displayed his old batting skill and sent forth a two-bagger which put so much life in Cleveland's rally that they tied the score. Lajoie is all grace and is free of action and executes brilliant plays with a minimum of effort which makes his work look easy. Who said Lajoie is getting too old?

This ball game was a tantalizing affair. New York got a two-run lead in the first inning because Blanding issued two passes, Simmons made a hit, and also because Paddock scored on a double steal with Simmons. Three hits of Caldwell permitted the Naps to tie the score in the second inning. In the first half of the third inning, Ryan's single and Birmingham's double sent the Clevelands one run in front, and when New York came to the bat in the same inning the bases were filled with two hits and a pass, and Blanding generously issued a pass to Simmons, forcing in Chase, and the score was tied again.

Each team got a run in the fourth inning. They refused to allow each other to get out of reach. In the fifth inning Cleveland pounded Caldwell out of the box, getting two runs. New York got only one in that inning on Hartzell's triple and Sterrett's infield single.

Yankees downhearted? To the contrary. In the sixth inning New York batted Blanding out of the box, Simmons's three-base hit helping to discourage him. The rally gave New York three runs and a two-tally lead. Thus it remained up to the first part of the ninth inning.

It was very dark now. Folks were hurrying from the park to beat the rain. New York was quite confident that they had the game. With one out Birmingham singled, and Joe Jackson, the mighty fence-breaker, was struck out by Warhop amid much cheering. Lajoe was up. He scored Birmingham with a solid two-base smash to the left field fence and scored himself on Johnston's triple to deep centre. The score was tied.

Then the dampness began to spread itself all over everything, and after the Yankees had got one Nap out in the tenth inning, Umpire Dineen called the game.

Boston Weak Before Pitcher Walsh.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—The Red Sox succumbed to Walsh's fine pitching to-day, losing to Chicago, 4 to 2. Chicago hit Collins hard and, with Boston fielding poorly and Walsh pitching in grand form and well supported, the result was never in doubt. Mattick's triple scored Walsh and Rath for Chicago's first two runs in the third inning, and the White Sox added two more in the sixth on Collins's triple and errors by Gardner and Yerkes. The Red Sox scored one run in the first inning on two singles and a sacrifice, and the second run in the eighth inning when Speaker's double sent home Henriksen, who had singled as a pinch hitter. PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—Philadelphia took advantage of Detroit's battery and fielding errors and won to-day's game by 5 to 2. Eddie Murphy and Walsh, outfielders, formerly of the Baltimore International League Club, made their debut with the home team, and the former's playing was a feature of the game. The score:

Senators Get an Even Break.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Washington and St. Louis divided to-day's doubleheader, the locals winning the first game, 6 to 3, and the visitors the second, 4 to 3. Poor fielding lost the first game, while a sensational catch by Shotten in the second kept the locals from winning.

Johnson relieved Hughes in the seventh inning of the second game, with the score tied and two men on bases, and St. Louis scored the winning run before the side was retired. There was question to-night that the loss of the game would be charged to Johnson, who had won sixteen consecutive games and seeks to break the National League record of nineteen straight victories held by Marquard of the New York Nationals. Decision in the case would rest with the President of the League, it was said. The scores:

ST. LOUIS BASEBALL DREAM.

Mrs. Britton Would Trade Bresnahan for Rucker and Wheat.

Brooklyn, listen to this!

News is rushed from far-off St. Louis that Mrs. Helen Hathaway Britton, the only female baseball magnate at large, has taken a great liking to Players Nap Rucker and Zack Wheat and would have them don Cardinal uniforms next season. She would, would she?

Mrs. Britton is willing to exchange her manager, Robert Bresnahan, for Rucker and Wheat. Then she would appoint Miller Huggins as manager and Roger could manage the Dodgers.

St. Louis also flashes the news that the only thing that blocks the deal is that Bresnahan has a three years' contract at $10,000 a year, which he does not feel enthusiastic about parting with. For which no one can blame Roger.

Is this story true? Charles H. Ebbets, President of the Brooklyns, was asked not many moons ago how much he would sell Rucker for, and Mr. Ebbets replied that there wasn't money enough in New York to buy his star southpaw.

So why argue about Mrs. Britton's chances?

AMERICAN MOTOR BOATS' SPEED TRIALS

Defenders of Harmsworth Cup Race Under Poor Conditions in Huntington Harbor.

The first of the elimination trials for motor boats to defend the Harmsworth Cup, the international trophy, were held yesterday afternoon in Huntington Harbor, Long Island Sound. This is the cup which was won last year by Dixie IV., and which will be competed for by the best of the American boats against the English entrants, Maple Leaf III. and Mona, which arrived last Sunday.

Yesterday's trials were not altogether satisfactory. The rough water resulted in the swamping of one of the contestants, Ace III., which is described in detail on Page 1 of this morning's TIMES. In addition to the handicap of weather conditions, there was also trouble over the failure to mark the course properly, and much confusion resulted.

J. Stuart Blackton, the Commodore of the Atlantic Yacht Club and Rear Commodore of the Motor Boat Club, the owner and helmsman of Baby Reliance, was most outspoken in his denunciation of the conditions.

Following this the Wahneta, an old oyster boat, which should have been at the post at the first mark, was sent to her position, and a new start effected in which all except the Minnow participated. In this section of the chapter of restarts Ankle Deep made three circuits of the course, Ace III. two and afterward turned turtle, while Baby Reliance made but one. The last named was eventually sent away for what proved to be a third trial, and the fastest of the afternoon, as she covered three laps, 22½ nautical miles in 37.51.

Despite the conditions, the boats in yesterday's event just quadrupled the initial day's entry of last year. There was a goodly "gallery," with probably a hundred craft of all sorts and sizes lined up opposite the committee's boat, the handsome Rambler, now owned by Pliny Fisk, Chairman of the Elimination Race Committee.

Among the boats lined up along the course were Commodore August Heckscher's Anahma, J. Stuart Blackton's Paula and Ethel May, Dr. Louis Neumann's Marie, J. S. Hoyt's Grayling, James Simpson's Peter Pan, Sr., Roy A. Rainey's Cassandra, Stewart Elliott's Buccaneer, Vagabond, Adara, Elco, Allegro, Spray II.

Thistle, flying the New York Athletic Club flag, brought Tom Sopwith, the English aeronaut, who is to drive one of the English entries, Maple Leaf IV., in the international races; Miss Sopwith, and Mrs. E. Mackay Edgar, wife of the owner of the Maple Leaf IV.

The course over which the boats raced was triangular and seven and one-half nautical miles in length, the conditions calling for four circuits. Of the eight boats which reported, in addition to the four named above, there were Splash, Peter Pan V., Baby Reliance III., and Restless III.

Ankle Deep was designed by Clinton Crane, and is 32 feet long. She is equipped with two eight-cylinder Sterling engines of 150 horse power each. Her helmsman was her owner, C. N. Mankowski, Lake George, N. Y. Minnow, W. Earl Dodge's entry, was also designed by Crane and built by Lawley. She is 26 feet long, and has two eight-cylinder engines, each of 90 horse power. Ace III. was built by Joseph Leyere, Ogdensburg, N. Y. She is equipped with one Sterling engine, 150 horse power. Baby Reliance II., the smallest of the contestants, measures 20 feet, and is equipped with two four-cylinder engines, capable of developing 90 horse power.

After the customary warning signals the start found Baby Reliance II. unready, being tied up to the committee's boat when the gun cracked. At the start Minnow went away in slashing style, forty yards to the good of Ace III., which was twenty-five yards in advance of Ankle Deep, with Baby Reliance II. 150 yards further to the rear. Ankle Deep had barely got started before engine trouble developed, and power was shut off for probably thirty seconds, so that when the four really got into action the Lake George boat was last.

In the run to the first turn, so great was the uncertainty of the helmsmen that in turn each was at one time or another in the van. After what proved to be a fruitless race of at least ten miles out of the course, Ankle Deep finally picked up the right route, being pursued down the backstretch by Bay Reliance II. In rounding the turn for the run up the homestretch and marking the end of the first circuit, Ankle Deep was compelled to take a wide, sweeping turn, while Baby Reliance cut closely to the buoy marking the turn. Ankle Deep stopped temporarily just inside the Beaux Arts turn, and Reliance beat her to the finish mark.

The elapsed time for the four boats for the one lap finished in the first essay at covering the course was as follows: Reliance, 29:33; Ankle Deep, 30:54; Minnow, 32:30; Ace III., 32:46.

With this round finished and objections presented it was agreed that each should have a re-start. The sun came out strongly midway during this period and enabled the helmsmen to see to much better advantage.

Ankle Deep made her first circuit in 14:04, the second in 14:03, and the third in 15:06, stopping at this stage for some reason which was not given. Ace III. had made two circuits in 14:40 and 14:19, respectively, before the accident, while Baby Reliance II. required 15:37 for the solitary round she made as her share of this part of the contest.

She was allowed a third restart at 4:34:03, and with the conditions very much improved over the early afternoon the Blackton boat did 12:27, 12:37, and 12:47 for three laps, after which she went off the course.

All of the boats which started in yesterday's trials except Ace III., will be seen in action to-day, with Baby Reliance III., Restless III., Splash, and Peter Pan V., as added starters. The summary:

Motor Cycling Championship.

The Albright-Peck match race at the Stadium-Motordrome at Brighton Beach to-night will be the first of the series for the professional motor cycling championship.

Albright is one of the most popular men at the local track, and it will be hard to convince the fans that there is any man, with the exception of Chapple and Hasha, who has a chance with the Denver star. The other events on the card will be filled with the class of this section battling for the smaller honors.

On Thursday the Bradhurst Field Club handicap, with Eddie Hasha, the Dallas, Texas, star, at the scratch mark, will be the big event. This will be Hasha's first appearance at the course since he was laid up last week, and the fans are anxious to see him make a try for his record of 37 1-5 seconds.

TRAVERS AND KIRKBY

Off for National Amateur Golf Tournament at Chicago Next Week.

Jerome D. Travers, former National champion; Oswald Kirkby, the New Jersey title holder, and Fred Herreshoff, runner-up last year to Harold H. Hilton, leave to-day for Chicago to get a few practice rounds for the National amateur championship which begins on Monday on the links of the Chicago Golf Club at Wheaton. There was considerable doubt about Travers and Kirkby making the trip a week or more ago, but their start to-day sets this matter at rest.

Entries for the championship closed last night, and up to the time of the closing some eighty applications had been received. By the time the night mails are received, it is likely that the list will be swelled to more than 100. It is expected that the full list of entries will be announced to-day. Champion Harold H. Hilton and Norman F. Hunter, both of England, have entered and are now practicing on the Wheaton course, where the championships will be played. There were 186 entries last year at Apawamis, while at Brookline, the year before, there were 217. Most of the favorites, however, are expected to be in the tournament this year.

Although the clubhouse at Wheaton was destroyed by fire on Saturday, Robert C. Watson, Secretary of the United States Golf Association, received word yesterday from Silas H. Strawn, the President, stating that the unfortunate occurence would put the golfers to no inconvenience, as the club had arranged to take care of the players. Big tents are now being erected on the lawn for the purpose of sheltering the competitors from sun or rain.

NEWSPAPER MEN IN GOLF.

C. H. Wright Leader in Qualifying Round of September Tournament.

C. H. Wright led the field in the qualifying round of the September tournament of the New York Newspaper Golf Club at Van Cortlandt Park yesterday, returning a card of 87, 17—70, a stroke better than F. L. Hawthorne, who had 89, 18—71, and W. J. McBeth, whose figures were 95, 24—71. The best gross score was the 82 of P. B. Lucas of Brooklyn.

BOUTS ARE ONE-SIDED.

Kid Williams, Pelky, and Shugrue Winners at Garden A. C.

Kid Williams of Baltimore so completely outclassed Kid Kelly at New Orleans in the feature bout of last night's show at Madison Square Garden that Referee Billy Joh waved Kelly to his corner in the ninth round. In the other two ten-round bouts, both of which went the full distance, Arthur Pelky of Chicopee, Mass., decisively outpointed Sailor White of Newark, and Joe Shugrue of Jersey City gained the honors over Harry Stone of New York. Stone was substituted for Jimmy Coffey, who had been overcome by the heat.

Williams weighed 116½ pounds ringside and Kelly tipped the beam at 112 pounds. For the first two rounds the bout gave promise of being closely contested, and Kelly had a shade the better of Williams, who was a bit slow in reaching his proper stride. Once started, however, there was no let-up on the part of the Baltimore boy, and from the fifth round to the finish Williams clearly outdistanced Kelly. The latter is less rugged than his opponent and his punches lacked the power which Williams's blows carried. It was through his clever footwork that Kelly was able to last as he did. Williams landed blow after blow on Kelly without getting a return, but he also missed often and a great many of the punches which found a mark hit Kelly as the latter was backing away. In the seventh round Williams had Kelly bleeding from the mouth, and he drove him around the ring, sending him back to the ropes time and again. It seemed that the New Orleans boy was due for a knockout, but he weathered the storm successfully. He showed plenty of gameness, and although badly defeated, he protested at the action of the referee in stopping the bout.

The Pelky-White bout was a mediocre affair, no science being displayed on either side. From the start, both acted as if they were leg weary, and there was no attempt by either to do any footwork, the programme being simply to stand up before each other, take a swing, trust to luck about it landing, and then fall into a clinch.

The Shugrue-Stone bout, which was put on last, was decidedly fast and correspondingly slow in spots. Stone had the advantage of seven pounds over the Jerseyite, tipping the beam at 135 pounds, to 128 for Shugrue. The latter showed himself a better boxer and more aggressive. In the open fighting he landed the cleaner punches, but in the clinches Stone forced him to give ground several times. The bout was featured by several exciting mixups, in which the boys stood toe to toe, threw science to the winds and let both hands fly like trip hammers.

BERNA QUITS RUNNING.

Famous Cornell Athlete and Olympian to Engage in Business.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Tel Berna, the great Cornell distance runner, arrived at his home here to-day from the trip to the Olympic games and announced that he is through with running. Berna declared that it was hard to quit when he was winning, but he had definitely decided to go into business and stop running for all time.

Berna said he was convinced that the college athletes should be given a place on the American Olympic Committee. He says the date for the games is so early that it is difficult for the college men to take part in the try-outs, because of examinations and commencement exercises, and that they are too near the Intercollegiate track meet.

MAJOR PIERCE OFF TO CHINA.

Prominent Sportsman to Join Regiment at Tien-Tsin.

Major Palmer E. Pierce, who was recently promoted to the Fifteenth Infantry, U. S. A., will sail on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. to-day to join his regiment in China. Major Pierce will take up his new duties at Tien-Tsin and will be absent from this country for about three years.

While at West Point, Major Pierce was instrumental in the formation of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, an organization which has been of great benefit to college athletics in an educational way. The organization primarily was formed to bring about a reform of the football rules and a committee from this body, together with the Intercollegiate Rules Committee, changed the game and eliminated the objectionable rough features, substituting a more open game.

Major Pierce has been President and guiding spirit of the organization since its formation, and has taken a leading part in all its reforms. For the past few years he has been at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and has been active in encouraging athletics in the army.

Major Pierce will recommend a West Point man as his successor. Col. E. R. Stuart, who is a member of the academic board at the Military Academy, is the one whom Major Pierce would have take his place. Until the next annual meeting of the association Prof. H. W. Johnston of Indiana University will assume the duties of President.

NEW GAME OF POOL.

Baseball Is Its Name and Five Men Comprise Team in Play.

Baseball pool, the latest novelty in the manipulation of the ivory spheres on a pool table, received its initial test last night at Doyle's Academy, when the first game of a series was played between the Blues and Reds, the latter winning by a score of 55 to 46.

Five men comprise a team, they alternating in turn at the table, and playing until a miss is scored.

Nine innings are played, unless a tie is scored, when both teams play until a winning tally is recorded, and with evenly balanced sides promises close competition. Shoemaker of the victorious five carried his team to victory with his high run in the fifth inning, when he ran up a total of eleven balls. He also had good scores in the third and sixth frames of 4 and 5, respectively.

The best high run credited to the Blues was in the first inning, when Marsden corralled 10 spheres. With the exception of the two high runs, no player got above the 6 mark, and safety play figures largely in the game. The scores:

IOWA RIFLEMEN WIN.

National Guardsmen Take First and Second Prizes at Sea Girt.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 26.—Iowa National Guardsmen won both first and second prizes of the inter-State regimental team match at the military shooting tournament here to-day. This was the feature of the day, as the President's match for the military championship was not completed.

Considerable shifting of position occurred in the inter-State regimental team match as each of the three stages was finished. Iowa, however, kept plugging away steadily, especially at the final range of 1,000 yards, and its teams ended with a lead over all others. Although the morning was hot, a cool breeze during the early afternoon made conditions much more comfortable for the riflemen.

The Fifty-third Iowa regimental team won the valuable inter-State trophy presented by Senator Frank O. Briggs, $50, and medals for the team members. Second prize was $25, third prize $15, and fourth prize $10. The standing of the competitors and their total scores were: First, Fifty-third, Iowa, 818; second, Fifty-fourth, Iowa, 807; third, First, District of Columbia, 804; fourth, Second, Texas, 801; fifth, Second, New Jersey, 785; sixth, Seventy-first, New York, 777; seventh, Second, District of Columbia, 776; eighth, Tenth, Pennsylvania, 766; ninth, Second, Alabama, 765; tenth, Fourth, New Jersey, first team, 759; eleventh, Third, New Jersey, 745; twelfth, Fourth, New Jersey, second team, 689.

THORPE IN "ALL AROUND."

Famous Indian Athlete to Show His Prowess at Celtic Park Event.

The "all-around" athletic championship of America, which will be decided next Monday afternoon at Celtic Park under the auspices of the Irish-American Athletic Club, has attracted the entries of the greatest athlete in the world, Jim Thorpe, the Carlisle Indian, who defeated the best men pitted against him at Stockholm in both Pentathlon and Decathlon events, which embraced nearly every event in track and field athletics; John Bredemus, the Princeton University youth, who accounted for the title a couple of years ago, when he made a most creditable record; Matsukes, and men of that type.

The contest should give Thorpe an opportunity to eclipse Martin Sheridan's top mark of 7,385 points, made in the championship of 1909. Close observers of Thorpe's work at Stockholm anticipate witnessing the making of at least 8,000 points by the powerful Indian, who has shown since he came back from the Continent that he has not lost any of the wonderful form which won for him the admiration of the world's athletes who were gathered at the Stadium.

A number of handicap events will be decided in conjunction with the all-around programme, in which many of the most recently made Olympic champions will be competitors.

PROSPERITY.

Wall Street is in the dumps. The price range is now in the neighborhood of what it was in the Spring, despite all that has happened since. Outside of Wall Street one hundred millions of people are discounting the ten-billion-dollar crop. Whoever doubts or denies it flies in the face of facts, for the facts are undeniable. In the Spring there were not hands enough to plant the crops. Now there are neither hands enough to harvest a yield which has bettered all expectation, nor to turn out the iron and coal which is demanded by every industry. If Wall Street challenges these facts, it is because it has not sensed the situation along Washington Street, where labor of this sort is quoted and supplied. Not in thirty years has there been such a famine for workers on aqueducts, tunnels, building excavations, and so on. Farmers are in a frenzy for horsemen, harvesters, and handy men. Any one capable of handling a pick or shovel can get $1.75 a day, and no questions asked. Any farmhand can get $20 a month and found by asking for it. The condition of the skilled labor market is even more favorable for labor, so much so that employers are having other difficulties than in finding hands.

As a natural result there are not cars or other railway facilities sufficient for the offering freight. The officials charged with the car supply believe that there will be wanted almost 200,000 more cars than exist, and railway cars cannot be extemporized. Bankers are similarly embarrassed to find the money to move the crops. The banks are selling their securities to get funds for the accommodation of their commercial customers. This sort of prosperity is not the sort to pray to be delivered from, but the sort to pray for the means to accomplish. If the country can produce and distribute on the present scale Wall Street cannot suffer very much from its blues. The demand for railway cars and pocket cash is not a demand for the means to finance a boom, for boom there is none. Prices are high, but the relation of prices is well maintained. That is to say, no portion of the community is living by disproportionate profits at the expense of the rest of the community. If goods are high, so also are wages. Profits are moderate and not at the expense of wage earners, and forestallers are gloomy because they have not been able to milk the markets. The only conspicuously unsuccessful members of the community are the speculators. They have missed their aim in both the security and commodity markets, and have a grouch which nobody else shares.

Politics is the only explanation they have for grumbling, but politics is what the country is least concerned about. Scandals about campaign funds, and who's the liar now, are not politics. The loudest political shouters are those who proclaim that we must change our institutions to do social and industrial justice, as though actual conditions were not the best ever known from the beginning of the world to this day, and with every sign of improving as fast as it is reasonable to expect human institutions to be reformed. Panics and revolutions may be necessary to reform some conditions, but not such conditions as exist in the United States under a rule of the people so far as they will rule, with natural penalties for refusing to rule, and being deceived by volunteer rulers. The only blot on an intrinsically unblemished outlook is the fact that the people of many nations have shown a tendency to deliver themselves over to spendthrifts and experimenters with no responsibility for the success of their beatitudes. This popular tendency is discernible in the United States, but is less marked than elsewhere. Our people are too busy to be occupying their heads with questions of overthrowing the Constitution and the courts as first aids to economic happiness when happiness is here, within touch of all who deserve it, and will earn it rather than vote it to themselves out of others' pockets. If, in fact, we must wait for better times until they are legislated or voted, we must wait long, unless the world is to see a new thing. Many times has this been promised and never accomplished.

Always, everywhere, prosperity has been a matter for individual accomplishment, and never was it easier than now and here. The American man or millionaire who is not better off than his kind at any previous time in the world's history is suffering from some reason peculiar to himself, and not inherent in our institutions. The idea that Americans will smash the rainbow of the world's Governments in order to get the pot of gold just over the horizon is based on the delusion that the American people are fools, offering themselves to be sacrificed by leaders whom we will not characterize, save as they characterize themselves by their daily exhibitions. The daily scandals and muckrakings are no sign that the political pot is boiling, but rather that the prosperity pot is bubbling to an extent which makes the politicians fear that they cannot get the ear of the people by anything less noisy than a siren or a calliope, and cannot suit their taste with anything short of tabasco and cayenne. The rejection of politics of this sort is one of the happiest signs of this happy time. With the politicians and the speculators suffering from delusions of melancholia, how can the country help being as happy as it is?

THE GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

Public interest in the National Amateur Golf Tournament at Wheaton, Ill., next week will be greater than usual, as the title was won on the course of the Apawamis Club, at Rye, N. Y., last year by Mr. Harold H. Hilton, an English golfer. The United States championship had not previously been carried over the seas, though Mr. Whigham, one of the earliest holders of the title, is of English birth and had learned his game in Great Britain. In the hour of his triumph, however, golf was new in America, and he was one of its pioneers. The inferiority of American golfers to the Englishmen and Scots was then freely admitted, but since Mr. Walter J. Travis carried away the British championship eight years or so ago American play has been improving rapidly, and we now have many amateurs quite competent to compete with the best of the British players. Last year Mr. Hilton won by a margin of one hole in 37, the runner-up being Mr. F. Herreshoff. Mr. Hilton will play at Wheaton, of course, and other Englishmen who have entered for the contest are Mr. Norman Hunter, who played here with the Oxford-Cambridge team nine years ago, and Mr. J. L. Low, a British golfer of equal renown.

Of course, we all have a desire to keep our own golf championship in our own country, and the chances of the flat Wheaton course are believed to favor American play somewhat, the English being used to the rolling courses of the seaside. Also Western American players have generally won at Wheaton, Gardner and Egan having both secured the championship on that course. Recent American play has been most gratifying to National pride. There are so many golfers of the first class that there is no guessing who may win the title. If Mr. Hilton is going to keep it he will have to play hard for it, but that is just what he showed himself capable of doing at Apawamis.

THE CONTENTED GRIN.

Why does the Colonel rage? The newspapers report him pacing up and down the piazza at Sagamore Hill in a towering passion, and with clinched fists and in a voice indicating deep emotional disturbance dictating replies and explanations in answer to the Archbold-Penrose charges. To the perhaps not wholly disinterested, but certainly amused, beholder it is plain that the Archbold-Penrose charges will do Mr. Roosevelt no harm. Not, as he puts it, because there are no weak links in his armor, but because when the whizzing javelin of accusation reaches the spot where he was, he is no longer there. In the knack of stepping aside, in the art of being always somewhere else, the Colonel is incomparable.

Besides, what is the worst they can prove against him? Only this—that he knew of the $100,000 contribution of the Standard Oil Company to his campaign fund. If he had not denied it, that would not in itself be very bad. Republican Presidents who have served with honor and distinction have doubtless known of contributions from corporation sources. It would have been no worse for him than for others. There is a whole flood of denials in this matter, but one significant fact must not be overlooked. In his first letter to Mr. Cortelyou, on Oct. 26, 1904, Mr. Roosevelt wrote: "I have just been "informed that the Standard Oil people "have contributed $100,000 to our cam-"paign fund." That is the exact sum mentioned by Penrose and testified to by Archbold. Somebody must have told Mr. Roosevelt about that $100,000. Why? Go back a few days. It was at Esopus, on Oct. 24, that Judge Parker made his speech about the contributions from trusts to the Roosevelt campaign fund. "Would the public in-"terests be safe in the hands of a "party the greater part of whose cam-"paign funds have been contributed by "corporations and trusts?" asked the Democratic candidate. There was a hubbub at once. The very next day Mr. S. C. T. Dodd, counsel of the Standard Oil Company, surprised the newspapers by sending out a statement denying that the Standard Oil Company was in politics, or that it had taken part in securing the nomination of any candidate. He did not deny that a contribution had been made.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote the letter to Mr. Cortelyou, from which we have quoted, on Oct. 26. In that letter he directed that if any contribution had been made from the Standard Oil Company, the money should be returned at once. Next day, Oct. 27, he wrote again, and once more ordered the money to be returned. On Oct. 29 he sent a telegram asking if his request had been complied with. "I desire that there be no delay," he said. Then, on the evening of Nov. 4, three days before the election, Mr. Roosevelt put out his statement denouncing Judge Parker as a liar and denying everything. A correspondent, whose letter we print this morning, is ungenerous enough to inquire why, if the Standard Oil money was actually returned, so astute a politician as Mr. Roosevelt should have missed the opportunity to make political capital by trumpeting to all the world that virtuous act. The reason is that Mr. Cortelyou informed Mr. Roosevelt that no Standard Oil money had been received; so, of course, there could be none to return. To be sure, Mr. Cortelyou testified not long ago that he did not know much about the campaign contributions that year, anyway. The Archbold contribution might have been made without his knowledge.

But how can anybody hope to prove that Mr. Roosevelt knew about the Archbold gift? At most, it must be a matter of inference and probability. The sudden activity after Judge Parker made his charge was, no doubt, suspicious. The President had to be "informed" about the $100,000, and he admits that he was informed. He was preparing a denial, and it would not do to let him deny a fact that might be established, thus proving that Judge Parker was not a liar. That would have been awkward. So, first he ordered that the money be returned, then, after being told by Mr. Cortelyou that there was no such contribution, he denied boldly.

As usual, the Colonel gets the better of his assailers. They may be telling the truth, but proof is, in the nature of the case, practically impossible. All this fuss made over the 1904 contributions really helps the Colonel instead of hurting him, we imagine. Those who sincerely believe in him are quite unaffected by the charges made, and we do not suppose that proofs would in any way shake their loyalty. Those who are wavering, on the other hand, may feel that since Mr. Roosevelt is so successful in dodging all the missiles hurled at him, he must be beyond reproach, his cause must be just. In The Times's dispatch from Washington it was stated that, during the interesting colloquy over Senator Penrose's statement, the old-line Republicans and the Democrats "grinned contentedly." We should think that instead of raging and fuming Colonel Roosevelt would grin contentedly. He is secure, if not in the consciousness of immaculate virtue, at least in his astonishing cleverness at dodging. The investigation ordered by the Senate ought not to disturb his serenity.

Nevertheless, Mr. Roosevelt is about to make a mistake if, as announced in Oyster Bay dispatches yesterday, he is going to put forward Collector Loeb as a witness who heard the conversation between him and Mr. Harriman. According to Mr. Roosevelt's statement, Mr. Loeb will testify that instead of the President asking Mr. Harriman for contributions, Mr. Harriman asked the President to get Mr. Bliss or Mr. Cortelyou to give some money to Mr. Odell for the State campaign, and that Mr. Loeb actually telephoned to either Mr. Bliss or Mr. Cortelyou, transmitting that request. It is too late for such testimony. The Harriman exposure was made five years ago. Mr. Roosevelt then made his defense. The introduction of Mr. Loeb at this late day with a new version of the interview would produce a most unpleasant impression.

SHORTSIGHTED.

What would be thought of the "trust" or industrial combination, which had failed to provide for an addition of 16,000,000 in population, and had rested content with the old output, when an enlarged product was so clearly demanded?—The Commercial and Financial Chronicle.

The Nation's corn crop was over 100,000,000 bushels less in 1909 than in 1899, although in that period the population had increased by more than one-fifth. The crop of wheat in 1909 was only 3.8 per cent. greater than in 1899, as against a population increase of 21 per cent. There were only 61,803,866 head of cattle in 1910, as against 67,719,410 head in 1900; but 58,185,676 head of swine, as against 62,868,041, and only 52,447,861 sheep, as against 61,503,713 at the beginning of the ten-year period.

Shrunken though it was, the whole corn crop of 1909 brought to the farmers a price nearly three-quarters higher than the corn crop of 1899, and the wheat crop increased more than three-fourths in value. The value of beef and other meat animals increased by more than one-third in the face of the diminution in numbers. The Financial Chronicle reports the statement by managers of the Burlington & Quincy Road, that, in the farmers' State of Nebraska, 30,000 automobiles are registered—one car for every forty-eight persons—and that in some sections there is "an automobile at every farmhouse."

The farmers have decreased their supplies as though they belonged to a monopolistic trust, and they are enjoying the resultant high prices. But the prices will not go much higher without competition, and that of the keenest sort.

DENVER'S PREPOSTEROUS BERRIES

Any American horticulturist who develops our strawberry to such excellence of flavor that it may be favorably compared with the luscious berries of Prince Edward Island or England or the tiny, sweet berries of France will win undying renown. The strawberry of American commerce has greatly deteriorated. Ordinarily it is lacking in flavor, full of seeds, and of an unattractive appearance. Perhaps more may be said, relatively speaking, of the raspberry of American commerce, but the wayfaring man nowadays has but a slight idea of the excellence of which these small fruits are capable. Wherefore any broadminded, public-spirited horticulturist might be proud to restore to those of us who keep no expensive gardens and greenhouses of our own the faultless berries of our early youth.

For the gardener of Denver, Col., however, who boasts that he has grafted the Juconda strawberry with the Marlboro raspberry, and produced a monstrous thing which is neither the rubus nor the fragaria but something of both, we have not a word of praise. Who wants his strawberries and raspberries mixed? If anybody does, why can he not mingle the berries for himself in the manner in which the "black-caps" and red currants are mingled on rustic tables? The Denver man declares that his new fruit is free from all the tartness of both its progenitors. We are willing to believe that it is wholly insipid.

So far as we can see, this horticulturist of Denver has nothing to be proud of except his successful grafting of two stocks which belong to different botanical families. If he has really done that he has outwitted Nature, indeed, and produced a curiosity. He may therefore gain admiration, but if he is looking for gratitude let him give us back the strawberry of our youth.

A TREE ASSOCIATION.

Dean Hugh P. Baker of the State College of Forestry at Syracuse University, and Chairman of a committee of organizations concerned with conservation in this State, is seeking opinions about the proposed organization of a Forestry Society in the State. Such an agency interested in New York's forests would be welcome.

Forestry societies in neighboring States, such as Pennsylvania and New Hampshire, have produced excellent results. The splendid work which the State is doing in the Adirondacks and the Catskills might be inspected and reported upon for the benefit of institutions and private owners in all localities. The society might devote its publication to the various phases of conservation in the State. The timber tracts and wood lots should be made more productive without depleting them. The law taxing forested lands needs perfecting, so that their owners can afford to keep them in timber. Insects and diseases which injure the trees need combating. There is plenty of work for such a society to do.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Failure Hardly Hopeless.

In Trenton as in other towns where the commission form of municipal government has been tried, it has solemnly been pronounced a failure. There, as elsewhere, two sorts of people agree on this verdict—those whose wonted activities and profits have suffered from the new system and those who had expected too much from it, especially in way of lowered taxes, and who resent the disappointment to such an extent that they want a return to the old plan. Both classes are highly articulate, but neither is fond of entering into details, the former with better reason than the latter.

The facts as to the workings of commission government in Trenton were presented in The Times on Sunday, and they showed clearly enough that it is not a failure in any sense of the word—that, considering the difficulties under which the Commissioners have had to work during the first year, in a period of transition, they have accomplished results in many ways already admirable and full of promise for the future. That they have not lowered taxes has two explanations—they had to carry out many unwise and improvident contracts made by their predecessors, and their purpose has been not so much to cut down expenses as to see to it that the city received full value for the money it spent. The adequacy of these explanations is admitted by the intelligent majority of Trentonians, and there is no present probability that the various "movements" to bring about a reform backward will come to anything more than talk.

Of course, the success of commission government, like that of any other, depends upon the quality of the men who conduct it and upon the maintenance of public interest and watchfulness. It will never enable a city to get its needed "improvements" for nothing, or even for little, and it is very far from providing a guarantee that politicians and corruptionists will never find a way to utilize for their own advantage and the public's disadvantage the great powers which it places in a few hands. It does, however, furnish the people of a city with certain new facilities for substituting business for political methods in the management of municipal affairs, and in many of our smaller cities it has worked so well that after years of experience there is no thought of returning to the system of finely divided responsibilities.

Shouldn't Expect Too Much.

People with good memories are not very confidently expecting frightful revelations and a great social upheaval to result from the threatened publication of the names of those owning the houses in this city that are used for vicious purposes. Such lists have been prepared before now, more than once, and they have always proved to be curiously unenlightening. The names that appeared on them were for the most part of no significance to the general public, and such of them as were something like well known belonged to persons with those convenient reputations that nothing can hurt.

It may be different now—may be that, as exciting rumor declares, we shall learn strange things about indifference to the source of rents, if only they be extra high—but it will be well to keep expectations within moderate bounds, at least until the list appears. That no individual or corporation claiming respect and getting it is less interested in the uses to which real estate is put than in the revenue it produces—that can be believed only by those so unsophisticated as, in New England phrase, to "need a guardeen." Caution, however, is a well-developed trait in the owners of such property, and what an ingenious holder of title to it cannot do, when necessary or desirable, to conceal his identity or to put responsibility over on an agent would not fill many books.

Yet it is a fact that every house used for a vicious purpose is owned by somebody, and hardly ever is the somebody and the tenant one. Both, very properly, are amenable to the law, and the landlord is under obligation to exercise a reasonable diligence in keeping posted as to his tenant's character and occupation. He is a partner in any business carried on in his house, and when he adjusts his charges to meet the risks and share the profits of a guilty business his moral status and that of his tenant are exactly the same. Ignorance of what has been going on in one's house is a plea as poor as it is common. The owner ought to know, and as a matter of fact and inevitable deduction he does know. Such owners deserve both punishment and disgrace, for their offense is double—they consent to the housing of vice because it pays better than virtue, and they decrease the income of every neighboring property owner who refuses to share in malodorous profits. So the promised lists cannot come out any too soon. Even if they fail to be exciting they will be useful. They cannot hit anybody, high or low, who doesn't deserve hitting and hitting hard.

He Thinks We Are Unreasonable.

In his criticism of our hospitals, Dr. Heinrich Neumann, the eminent Austrian surgeon now in the United States, lays most emphasis on a fact for which those conducting these institutions are but remotely, if at all, responsible.

Dr. Neumann comes from a country which is one of those in which every patient, rich or poor, who receives hospital treatment is subjected, in case of death, to a subsequent clinical examination if in the opinion of the attending physicians medical knowledge can thereby be increased. Here such examinations cannot be made except with the consent of the surviving relatives, and this consent, in the great majority of cases, is more or less indignantly refused.

Thus does an unreasoning sentimentality cause the loss of much information of the most valuable kind. Hence, and hence almost alone, according to Dr. Neumann, is it necessary or even desirable for our doctors to get, or even to complete, their education abroad, and hence is it that those of our doctors who can not or do not extend their studies in that way lack something of the skill which they would otherwise possess.

The sensitiveness which forbids necropsies is comprehensible, and denunciation will not affect it. Argument and presentation of the facts may do so in time, and this is the work which our doctors should undertake. It ought not to be hard to convince people that the real interests of the living outweigh the imaginary interests of the dead.

NICARAGUA'S PLIGHT.

Ex-Minister Says Our Interference in Her Affairs Is Obligatory.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The observations made in your newspaper on various occasions concerning the affairs of my country, Nicaragua, appear to be quite correct. Not only did certain United States citizens lend their aid to the late revolution in Honduras, but they were also active in that of 1906 and 1907 against the Government of Manuel Bonilla. In the present revolution in Nicaragua, an agent of a powerful American fruit company was fomenting rebellion in Managua for the purpose of obtaining in the Atlantic Coast region a fruit monopoly which President Diaz refused to grant. This same company maintains an agent in New Orleans who has been in active correspondence with Gen. Mena and with several Nicaraguan emigrants residing in New Orleans, San Jose de Costa Rica, and in Panama.

So that there are many citizens of the United States who are more or less responsible for these revolutions, and instead of thinking, like Senator Bacon, that the Government at Washington is doing wrong in interfering in our internal affairs, I think, on the contrary, that it is under obligation to do so to repair the evil which North Americans are perpetrating in my country.

The American forces can go there as peacemakers and not as would-be conquerors. If their action should result in directing us into the true path of civil liberty, as was done in Cuba and in Panama, there are numerous patriotic Nicaraguans who are entirely capable of appreciating such service.

I believe that the lives and property of many Americans in Nicaragua, which are now imperiled, are of great value, and, furthermore, I am of the opinion that the lives of Nicaraguan women and children are also worth something.

J. M. MONCADA,
Formerly Minister of the Interior, Nicaragua.

LEGION OF UNFIT PARENTS.

Statistics of Dead and Defective Children Show Incompetency.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is there absolutely no way of getting a word of caution before the eyes of those women who seem to be bearing the responsibility of the future census upon their shoulders? One would think by their letters that all babies lived to be useful members of society, whereas the facts are that one-fifth of them die before they are five years old, and one-sixth of that number do not live long enough to have their noses counted even once by the census taker. About 30 per cent. of our babies are born practically blind. Thousands are deformed, thousands are imbeciles, and thousands are so thoroughly endowed with viciousness as to be almost hopeless of redemption even under the most civilized methods. One reformatory alone receives about 1,200 annually, and one Juvenile Court alone sends a yearly average of 5,000 to some institution. Last year about 9,000 children were put under the surveillance of one court, and over 16,000 families were aided by one charitable organization alone.

The number of incompetent and unfit parents is already legion, and the number of delinquent and defective children is way past counting. The majority of our women had better stick to making rag babies for awhile yet—until they are better fitted to be mothers of human beings—and until there are some more men created that are mentally, morally, and physically fit to be fathers. The writer would like to know the name for that form of conceit, ignorance, or insanity that produces the intermittent howl for more early marriages, more hit-or-miss marriages, and more of this sort of progeny.

MR. ARCHBOLD'S $100,000.

Why Did Not Roosevelt Make Campaign Capital of Its Rejection?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the letters and telegrams produced by Mr. Roosevelt from his files, which he claims were sent to Mr. Cortelyou during the 1904 campaign, do we not actually find corroboration of Mr. Archbold's testimony given before the Senate Investigating Committee yesterday as to Mr. Roosevelt's acquiescence in the Oil Company's contribution to the campaign fund of that year? These letters, it will be noted, are dated more than a month after the $100,000 was paid to Mr. Bliss, and it seems inconceivable that with his confidential man, Cortelyou, in charge of the campaign, the ex-President did not have actual knowledge of the affair long before the date of those letters.

At any rate, the letters admit that in the latter part of October he knew the money had been paid in—and there were still several days remaining before election. Now, can any ordinarily intelligent person doubt that if he had honestly directed the return of the $100,000 this astute politician would have missed such a golden opportunity to make political capital out of the incident? Would he not have declaimed from the platform during the remaining days of the campaign on the virtue of the Republican Party—or his virtue—in directing that the contribution from this "iniquitous trust" be rejected and the money returned? Mr. Roosevelt made a great mistake in bringing out those letters.

NO TARIFF ON BANANAS

And the Price of This Foodstuff Has Gone Down.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

To the question "How's business?" an Italian fruit vendor replied, "Poor. What I make on the peanuts I lose on the d—n banan." Unsatisfactory as the perishable banana may be to the dealer, regarding it as a commodity to be handled, it is the reverse of unsatisfactory to that much-commiserated but grudgingly relieved individual "the ultimate consumer." Bananas are cheap, they are wholesome, they are "filling," almost every one likes them. Thirty years ago their importation was insignificant, compared with what it has become, and the price at which they were sold classed them among the luxuries. To-day they are freely eaten by rich and poor alike. They are an appreciable part of our food supply.

Now, although I am a pretty constant reader of your editorials on the tariff, its uses and abuses, I cannot recall a single one of them making note of the correlation of these two facts: First, that the banana is almost the only article of food in common use to have gone down instead of up in price within the last few years; second, that the banana is almost the only article of food in common use on which the protective tariff has not laid its baneful hand.

THE SALE PRICE ABROAD.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have been surprised and somewhat amused to read some of the articles printed in the last few weeks in which excuses have been given by some of the large suppliers regarding the high cost of living. Being connected with a large export house in this city, I am in a position to state that nearly all household articles, food products, wearing apparel, and all other necessities shipped from this country are sold at such ridiculously low prices that it is very difficult to conceive on what basis the retail selling prices of this country are figured.

As a good example, I will say that a well-known and widely advertised shoe that sells in New York for from $5 to $6 is sold for export at from $2.50 to and no higher than $3 per pair, the factory paying all freight and packing charges.

This applies in almost equal proportion to every class of goods, from ten-cent pencils of standard makes, selling for less than forty cents a dozen, to drugs, such as the widely used seidlitz powders, which cost ten cents for a package of not many ounces, and which do not cost the druggist double that amount per pound.

The Dry Goods Man's Trials.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We dry goods men sometimes feel like giving up the ship. The amount of pure and unadulterated cussedness you encounter in the dry goods business is simply staggering and makes one lose all faith in human nature.

It is true that there are some notable exceptions, and to them we take off our hat. It is the one thing that reconciles us to this life. People return goods without rhyme or reason, take off excessive discounts, make one wait their own sweet time for the money, and when the money does come it is so stripped of all legitimate profit as to leave no pleasure or satisfaction in it. If we survive this year it is owing to our good constitution and philosophic turn of mind. There is no limit to the utter and reckless disregard to all mercantile propriety. It is "sauve qui peut," and may the devil take the hindmost.

Spread-Out Subway Sitters.

Referring to an article on the editorial page of your Sunday's paper:

I quite agree with our "Bostonian" friend on his views in regard to the Subway and would like to add another query. "Why is it that a man will spread himself to the limit (covering space on the seat) instead of making himself decently and comfortably small and giving others a chance of a seat?"

I do not ask any one to give up a seat for me, but many is the time I have stood in front of these "spread-out" men when just a little consideration, and even less exertion, on their part to move and occupy, say, one-third less space would have given a comfortable seat for one and sometimes two persons. I would just like to hear some one answer this, as I am made to wonder "why" every day.

Overpopulation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

All hail, I say, to "A Bachelor," who in to-day's Times has the courage to come out and say squarely that there is a higher duty owed to the world than to help populate the same with offspring, who may or may not result in imbeciles, cripples, degenerates, paupers, or merely ordinary mortals. Why this great desire for progeny or to have a name perpetuated? Who can say that a child will be a help or a hindrance to the world? That theory, "perhaps my child will be great and a benefactor to all mankind," is a very pretty one, but also a very dubious one.

By all means, let us do good to those that we have already. They teem in the streets. Let us at least try and catch up with the already tremendous overpopulation.

Woman's Fashions.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Can we boast to-day of woman's fashions and general "make up"? It might take several decades to eradicate from the ordinary present-day woman a remnant of the savage still inherent in us. Her bizarre eye must be cultivated for things beautiful. She will then see herself as others with refined taste see her. She should learn the happy medium and not accept unbecoming styles designed by mercenary men of vulgar or poor taste. Mothers, let us hope, will become so thoughtful and esthetic that they will teach their children, irrespective of fashion, to wear naught that is insulting.

FIREFLY'S LIGHT MOST EFFICIENT

But Waldemar Kaempfert Says That the Tungsten Lamp Emulates It.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article on "Daylight Lamps," while interesting and accurate, does not give sufficient credit to American investigators to whom the problem of increasing the efficiency of artificial illuminants is a life work.

Every illuminating engineer knows that it is not a very difficult matter to produce a light under present conditions, which is the exact equivalent of average sunlight. There are just two ways and no more of accomplishing that end. Either you add to a given illuminant rays of the color which it lacks; or, as stated in the paper by Dr. C. E. Kenneth Mees cited in your editorial article, objectionable rays are eliminated by the use of what may be called an optical sieve.

You are right in stating that artificial daylight is probably not the best light. Only the manufacturer of textiles, the artist, the lithographer—in a word, the man whose chief business in life it is to match colors, really demands an exact equivalent of daylight. Most of us would be quite content with a light of pleasing color that is efficient.

How inefficient is the present lamp may well be gleaned by comparing it with that of the firefly. Studies made many years ago by Dr. Samuel P. Langley and repeated more recently and more elaborately by Drs. Ives and Coblentz in this country, show that the firefly's efficiency is about 96.5 per cent.—that its light is well-nigh cold. In producing the most efficient artificial light known, only about 2 per cent. of the energy in the coal pile is used in the form of visible radiation. The remainder is wasted, chiefly by the steam engine, and in producing heat rays that are not visible. Yet even if we could create a thousand candle power firefly and cause him to flit up and down Broadway at night, he would not answer the requirements of the average New Yorker.

His light would be much too green—in a word, too much like the radiation of the mercury arc light, which, curiously enough, is perhaps the most efficient artificial light we have. We want a yellower light than that; but then we must inevitably have heat. Hence, however efficient the light of the future may be, it is not likely that it will ever approach the 96.5 per cent. efficiency of Nature's living lamp.

We are measurably nearer the day when our electric light bill will represent not so much money paid to the power company for losses between the coal pile and the illumination that converts night into day, but rather so much light profitably used. The new metal filament lamps prove that. They will soon completely displace the carbon filament lamps and cut down lighting bills by more than 50 per cent., besides giving more light.

Unfortunately the power companies persist in perpetuating the inefficient carbon lamp by giving it away to consumers of electricity and by hindering the introduction of the bill-reducing Tungsten lamp by charging liberally for it. But, as your editorial points out, that does not deter the scientific men in the employ of great manufacturing companies from trying to produce an efficient illuminant with the least expenditure of electrical power.

Telephone Queries.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I desire to speak to John Smith at his downtown office. I step into a telephone booth and drop a nickel into the automatic. "4500 John, please." In a few moments the voice of the "dea ex machina" is heard. "They don't answer. Here's your nickel back!" and out drops the coin. I then try to get John Smith at his home in a large apartment house uptown. In goes my nickel again. "2300 Audubon, please." I soon hear central's "Here's your party." The deep voice of the hall switchboard operator asks, "Who do you want?" After a short wait comes, "Party doesn't answer. He is not in." I ask central for the return of the nickel. "Oh," says she, "We can't give the nickel back. You got the number." "But the party does not answer," I say. "Can't help that. You got your number," she inflexibly monotones. I hear the dismissing click, and I do not get the nickel back. Why should this be?

Local calls in my hotel are 10 cents. In the drug store opening on the hotel lobby local calls in a booth, over the same public service wires, are 5 cents. Why should this be?

On the typewriter a warning bell automatically announces the approaching end of the line. Why does not the telephone company cause an automatic warning signal to be given to the speaker of the approach of the stated time limit of a conversation? This would protect the public from an overcharge. The company protects its cash in the automatics by causing a loud gong to sound when a coin is dropped in. Why does it not protect the public and its cash?

Tuberculous Workingman's Family.

The wife and five children of a workingman are, through his illness, dependent on the generosity of others. The man has always before met his family's wants unaided, by working steadily, but his work involved exposure in all weathers, and he developed tuberculosis. The provision which he had been able to make against such an emergency is exhausted; while he should be free from worry and able to stay where he is in the mountains for nine months or a year to come. His wife is caretaker for her landlord, and so has free rent. She needs $7 a week to buy food and other necessities. The Charity Organization Society asks for $364 to meet these expenses while the man has an adequate chance to get well.

Gifts may be sent to the office of the society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, and will be acknowledged.

The society acknowledges with thanks the following contributions received in response to previous appeals in The Times: "W. D. B.," $12; Mrs. Annie B. Hanson, $10; "M. R.," $1; A Times Reader, $1; Mrs. I. K. Brownson, $24; Enrique Domenech, $1; "T. J. R.," $5; Henry A. Dows, $1; Robertson G. Hunter, $2; "J. C. F.," $2; Miss Margaret W. Keck, $10; Mrs. Edmond E. Wise, $10; Farm Guests, $3.

A MOMENT OF EMOTION.

She was tall and she was stately,
In her speech she favored greatly
All topics of a scientific drift.
And her eye, which shone severely,
Looked out candidly and clearly
On this little world she studied to uplift.

She was haughty, though intending
To be kind and condescending
To each ordinary mortal here below.
And we listened to her readings,
Her orations and her pleadings,
With all the deep respect that we could show.

But one day when we assembled
To catch every word that trembled
On her lips, to erudition so inclined,
We were plunged in consternation
To behold her agitation
In a quite unprecedented state of mind.

"Wow!" she cried, with voice capacious.
"Ain't it awful!" "Goodness gracious!"
When we said, "What is the matter?"
She had scarcely strength to chatter,

M'LOUGHLIN IS NEW TENNIS CHAMPION

Beats W. F. Johnson After Five Gruelling Sets in Newport Final.

CALIFORNIA'S CLEAN SWEEP

Yesterday's Winner with His Partner, Bundy, Had Previously Won the Doubles Event.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 26.—California captured the thirty-second annual National lawn tennis tournament when her champion, Maurice E. McLoughlin, to-day beat Wallace F. Johnson of Philadelphia in a gruelling five-set match, winning the final round in the championship singles on the Casino courts 3—6, 2—6, 6—3, 6—4, 6—2. The Golden State had previously annexed the doubles championship of this tournament when the same McLoughlin and his partner, T. C. Bundy, won.

It was a notable victory in more ways than one, principally for the fact that the tournament was conducted on a different system from previous championships, when the title holder was allowed to stand out until the challenge round, or the real final round. Under this plan William A. Larned, with last year's victory in the challenge round, won the championship seven times—1901, 1902, 1907, 1908, 1909, 1910, and 1911.

Pluck and physical stamina played important parts in the victory of McLoughlin to-day. The brilliancy of the battle, the wonderful skill and cleverness of the two men, electrified the crowd, as it was entirely unexpected, for McLoughlin had stood a favorite in the betting at 5 to 1, and with few supporters of Johnson at that. Only the splendid condition of the dauntless player from the Pacific Coast saved him so that he could place the cap sheaf upon the Californians for this season in their clean sweep of the American tennis courts.

While his strength lasted Johnson outplayed the Californian in sensational fashion. So ably did he play that the tally at the end was 23 games to 21, and a total of 144 points to 132. At place shots the splendid work of the Pennsylvanian in the first two sets caused him to overtop McLoughlin, but his weakness toward the end allowed the latter to come up and finish with 58 to 41. Johnson's figures on outs and nets were less than that of the winner of the championship, for with McLoughlin leading the figures were 44 to 43 and 36 to 29.

McLoughlin by his victory becomes the successor to William A. Larned, the seven-times holder of the title. He is the twelfth man to wear the laurels which only once, with the victory of Hugh L. Doherty in 1903, have passed from an American holding.

Throughout the first two sets the famous Californian could do nothing with the vicious strokes of his opponent. The ball came to him with low-hanging bounds, and McLoughlin is weakest off the ground, his fondness being for a high-bounding ball.

As the nets piled up against McLoughlin through the first two sets, especially when Johnson forced his back hand, McLoughlin was at his wits' end as to what to do. At the beginning of the third set McLoughlin started a net attack that was not to be thwarted. He took all kinds of chances, and by plunging headlong for the close range volleying, by which he could avoid the bounds of the ball, he managed to work out the set.

It was the same in the fourth and fifth sets. Gradually, toward the end of the fourth, Johnson's shots began to come off with less certainty and power than before. He was tiring fast, and McLoughlin forced the game all the harder, until under the gruelling the Pennsylvanian faded completely from the contest, and McLoughlin's stamina and splendid physical endurance had carried him into the winner's place, as it had done in his match against R. Norris Williams.

The sun was just breaking through the clouds when the players came onto the court, and the match started with Johnson serving. McLoughlin showed that he was far off his game by driving the first four balls out of the court, Johnson scoring a love game. McLoughlin won the second game. Then Johnson began his chop stroke work, sending the balls low to McLoughlin's feet with a terrific spin that gave but little rebound. McLoughlin handled some of the first balls cleanly, but after the set was three games all Johnson ran it out on McLoughlin's drives into the net or out of the court. First set summary:

McLoughlin	0 4 1 4 2 6 1 2 3—23—3

More errors by McLoughlin through his inability to fathom the low spinning returns from Johnson's racquet gave the Philadelphian a lead of four games to love in the second set. McLoughlin took the fifth game on running to the net too quickly for Johnson's returns. His rally, however, was only a short one, and, to the surprise of the spectators, Johnson took the set, 6 games to 2, making the match two sets to love in his favor. Second set summary:

Realizing that he had the fight of the week on his hands, McLoughlin started the third set by dashing in to the net on all returns. McLoughlin ran the set out 6 games to 3, principally through errors by the Philadelphian. Third set summary:

The excitement was intense when the players came onto the court following a short rest after the third set. Johnson took the first two games on accurate placing and passing McLoughlin at the net. McLoughlin rallied in the third game, which he took on Johnson's errors. Then he made it 2 all on two of his swift smashes, a service ace; and an error by his opponent. The set fluctuated until the seventh game, which Johnson won on his low chop stroke. With the games 4 to 3 against him, McLoughlin rallied fast and took the next three games and the set, squaring the contest. Fourth set summary:

McLoughlin ...	1 1 6 4 2 4 5 4 4 4—35—6

Johnson tired rapidly in the fifth set. McLoughlin, coming up strong on all rallies, soon ran the set up to 4 games to love. Johnson took the sixth and seventh games on the last flash of his chop struck, but McLoughlin would not be denied, and clinched the set, the match, and the championship on errors by his opponent. Fifth set summary:

EIGHT FOYS IN A SKETCH.

Eddie and Children at Union Square —Three Other Novelties.

Four novelties, as far as New York vaudeville is concerned, were introduced at Keith's Union Square Theatre, and the most important of them was Eddie Foy and his family of seven, who gave a sketch supposed to take place in front of the railway station where trains start for New Rochelle. Mr. Foy and the children appeared once before in New York, at a single performance at the Globe Theatre, but this is their first vaudeville appearance in the city. The seven children range in age from 4 to 14, and each has a specialty. Only the warm weather yesterday afternoon prevented the audience from demanding repetitions of their songs long past the matinée time.

The other new acts consisted of a burlesque melodrama by Frank Sheridan, called "Why Sciatica Stayed at Home," in which Richard F. Sullivan, Henry Fenwick, Horace Newman, and Helaine Hadley played conventional rural drama types in a most unconventional way; the first appearance in the East of Kate Watson, who supplied considerable fun as a backwoods exponent of elocutionary art, and Mabelle Adams and Company in a little drama called "Zila," taken from the French of Maurice de Marcy by Philip Barrison. Miss Adams had the rôle of a gypsy violinist, and during the progress of the little piece played her violin in a way to win much applause.

Others on the programme were Willa Holt Wakefield, Conroy and Lemaire, the Amoros Sisters, Barto and Clarke, and Pollard.

'BUNTY' WITH ORIGINAL CAST.

First Company Returns to the Comedy—"Fanny's First Play" Sept. 16.

The original company in "Bunty Pulls the Strings" returned to Collier's Comedy Theatre last night after a Summer vacation. Molly Pearson resumed the title rôle, and Edmond Beresford, Sanderson Moffatt, Margaret Nyblock, and Marjorie Davidson appeared in their original rôles. The actors who have been appearing in the Scotch comedy during the Summer will join the Western company, which will start on tour at once.

The New York engagement of "Bunty Pulls the Strings" will end at the Comedy Theatre on Saturday night, Sept. 14, and the company will start on an Eastern tour. On Monday, Sept. 16, the first American presentation of Shaw's comedy, "Fanny's First Play," will be given at the Comedy, with the English company, under the direction of Granville Barker. A. T. Worm will be in charge of the American tour for the Shuberts.

It was first planned for "Fanny's First Play" to open the Little Theatre on Sept. 16, but Winthrop Ames announced last night that the opening attraction at his house would be "Anatol," with John Barrymore in the leading rôle. Five of the seven scenes of the Schnitzler comedy will be given, and the opening date will be early in October. George Foster Platt will stage the play for Mr. Ames.

"COUNT OF LUXEMBOURG."

Klaw & Erlanger Give First American Production of Lehar's Work.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 26.—Klaw & Erlanger gave the first production in America at the Tremont Theatre to-night of Franz Lehar's musical comedy, "The Count of Luxembourg." The American libretto is by Glen MacDonough, but the London lyrics of Adrian Ross and Basil Hood have been retained. The story tells of a Russian Grand Duke who wishes to marry an opera singer, but cannot because the Czar forbids him marrying a woman without a title. The Count of Luxembourg agrees to marry the singer and then secure a divorce, so that she may have a title, for the Grand Duke's sake. All turns out happily in the end.

Ann Swinburne appeared in the rôle of the singer, and others in the cast were George Leon Moore, Frank Moulan, Frances Cameron, Fred Walton, and Gladys Homfrey.

"The Count of Luxembourg" will go to the New Amsterdam Theatre, New York, on Sept. 16.

Meat Dealer Was Charged with Ward's Island Thefts.

Death ended yesterday the case of Simon Katzenstein, the retired fat renderer, who was alleged to have been implicated in the theft of meats from Ward's Island, and who was out on bail pending an appeal from a conviction for having bribed a public official. Katzenstein was 63 years old. He was found dead in a gas-filled room in his home, 960 Prospect Avenue, the Bronx, by his son Milton. The dealer in fats lived there with his two sons, his daughter, and his wife. His sons, Henry and Milton, run the business of H. & M. Katzenstein, at 601 Bergen Street.

On Sunday Milton told his father that he would go to Rockaway, and the latter told him to sleep that night in the factory. Instead of doing so, however, upon his return to the city he went directly home, arriving there shortly after midnight. He found his father dead. Gas was escaping from one of the four burners in the room.

Dr. E. M. Juster of 627 Morris Park Avenue said he was called to the house about 4 o'clock in the morning and found Katzenstein dead. The Coroner's office was not notified until 9 o'clock. Whether the death was an accident or suicide neither the police or the Coroner have made public.

CANON CHASE IS TO WED MISS KEYES

CONGREGATION IS SURPRISED

Announcement Made from Pulpit on Sunday—Bride-to-Be Daughter of the Late Emerson W. Keyes.

Mrs. Rowena Saxe Keyes of 27 Monroe Street, Brooklyn, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Rowena Keith Keyes, to the Rev. Dr. William Sheafe Chase, rector of Christ Church, Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn.

Dr. Chase was graduated from Brown University in 1881 and from the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge in 1885. He was connected with churches in Boston and Woonsocket, R. I., and was Honorary Canon and special preacher at the Garden City Cathedral from 1903 to 1905.

He married in 1887 in Bristol, R. I., Miss Susan Gladding Collins, who died in 1897. Dr. Chase has one son, Newton Gladding Chase, about 24 years old.

Miss Keyes has for eight years been a teacher in the Brooklyn Girls' High School. She is a graduate of Mount Holyoke College, and has the degree of A. M. from Columbia University. She is a daughter of the late Emerson W. Keyes, who died in 1897, a lawyer who held various public positions and who was the author of several books and the editor of Keyes's Court of Appeals Reports.

Miss Keyes is a sister of Prof. Homer Eaton Keyes of Dartmouth College, whom she and Mrs. Keyes are now visiting at his Dartmouth home, and of Willard E. Keyes of the Youths' Companion, and Conrad Saxe Keyes of the law firm of Wingate & Cullen, New York.

The Rev. Dr. Chase is one of the prominent clergymen of Brooklyn, having been active in the various campaigns waged against vice in that city. His engagement to Miss Keyes, who is considerably his junior in years, was announced from the pulpit of his church on Sunday by the assistant rector, and was a great surprise to the congregation, as it was not known that any attachment existed between the rector and Miss Keyes. The latter is a member of the Classon Avenue Presbyterian Church, and first met Dr. Chase several years ago when he made an address at the Girls' High School. It was not until this Summer that the two were seen much together.

The wedding will probably take place in January.

MISS HOUSE'S WEDDING.

Her Marriage to Gordon Auchincloss to be Held on Sept. 14.

Invitations have been sent out for the wedding of Miss Janet House, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mandell House, to Gordon Auchincloss, a son of Mrs. Edgar S. Auchincloss of 120 East Seventieth Street, on Saturday, Sept. 14, at St. John's Episcopal Church, Beverly Farms, Mass. The engagement was announced several months ago. Miss House and her parents made their home at the Gotham during the Winter. They have a country home at Beverly Farms.

Mr. Auchincloss is a brother of Reginald Auchincloss, of Dr. Hugh Auchincloss, who married Miss Frances Newlands; of Edgar S Auchincloss, who married Miss Catherine Agnew, and of Charles C. Auchincloss, who married Miss Rosamond Saltonstall. He was graduated from Yale in the class of 1908 and from the Harvard Law School in 1911. WOMAN'S CHASE LANDS THIEF

Baker's Wife Keeps After Burglar After He Knocks Her Down.

Standing in the door of her husband's baker shop, 521 Brook Avenue, the Bronx, yesterday morning, Mrs. Pauline Hassinger saw a man leave the hall of the house. A casual glance showed her that a dress suit case and a music roll the man carried ought to have been in her apartments above the bakery. Mrs. Hassinger started after the man, who started to run. The pursuit led to St. Mary's Park, where the fugitive ran into the arms of two detectives.

The man threw away his loot as he ran. Near the corner of Brook Avenue and 149th Street the man turned suddenly and struck Mrs. Hassinger in the face, knocking her down. She was quickly on her meet again and kept on.

The prisoner said he was James Parks, a laborer, living at 168 East 102d Street. He pleaded guilty to burglary.

SAYS HE MADE HER TAKE IT.

Man Held for Abetting His Wife in a Suicide Attempt with Poison.

Thomas F. Casey, a young man who until two weeks ago was behind the soda fountain in a Harlem drug store, was held in $2,500 bail yesterday in the West Side Court, one of the few prisoners ever charged with aiding and abetting another person to attempt suicide. Mrs. Casey is in the J. Hood Wright Hospital, a prisoner, recovering from a dose of bichloride of mercury which she said her husband made her take.

All this is a chapter in a rather stormy matrimonial experience of two weeks. Mrs. Casey was Miss Eleanor Kaplin, a milliner whose parents reside in Russia. She met her husband while he was handing out Summer drinks at a drug store. Casey, who is 28 years old, lived with his parents at 2,145 Amsterdam Avenue. He is a Catholic. So when he decided to marry Miss Kaplin, a decision which he says was made after a period of festivities at the home of the young woman, 225 West 109th Street, he said he would change his religion. They were married by a rabbi, and went to live in the West 100th Street apartment.

The trouble which led to his arrest and the taking of his wife to the hospital, he said, began on Saturday evening when he went to a butcher shop. He remained a long time, and upon his return his wife charged him with having spent the time in a saloon. He denied it and in a huff returned to the parental home. His mother, who had not learned of his marriage until some days after it had happened, told him that he could spend the night there and return for his clothing the next day. He did so.

He went for his belongings on Sunday, he said, and was packing them up when his wife returned. She upbraided him, and, according to his story, she went into the bathroom and was taking a dose of the bichloride when he discovered her in the act. He dashed the glass from her hand, he said, and they made up. He was in another room when through the door he saw his wife preparing another dose of the poison. This time he did not reach her in time to prevent her taking a small portion of the mixture. Casey ran to the street and found Policeman Ferguson of the West 100th Street Station. When they returned to the house others had sent for an ambulance.

"He made me take it," Mrs. Casey told the policeman, and on the strength of this he was arrested.

Mrs. Casey, it is expected, will be able to leave the hospital by Friday, when her husband will again be brought into court.

CHILD HERO NEARLY KILLED.

Saves Older Boy from Dog's Attack, Terribly Bitten Himself.

Through his heroism in saving a companion who had been attacked by his father's dog, William Surkin, 7 years old, is now in a serious condition at his home in Secaucus Road, Homestead, North Bergen. The boy's special pet was a big Newfoundland dog. The dog acted strangely all yesterday morning.

In the afternoon Bartley Mally, who is 13 years old and lives in Paterson Plank Road, was passing the Surkin house when the big dog suddenly dashed through the gate of the front yard and sprang at the throat of the passing lad. Mally with a scream threw up his left arm to protect his throat. The dog caught his hand and was tearing the flesh when young Surkin ran into the street and seized his pet by the collar. He dragged the dog back into the yard and shut the gate.

As he did so the dog sprang upon him, knocking him down. The great beast was tearing the boy to pieces when the lad's father, armed with a club, came to his rescue. He drove the animal off and carried the boy into the house. The boy's arms and legs were torn by the brute and his chest was ripped by the animal's teeth. Policeman Schaffin arrived later and shot the dog. The police are investigating a report that the dog had bitten a boy and girl before he attacked young Mally and nearly killed his owner's son.

GLOSTER LOSES COMMAND.

Captain of Detectives Dropped a Grade on Account of Curran Case.

Capt. Arthur B. Gloster, in charge of the Fourth Detective District, with headquarters in the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, called at Police Headquarters yesterday, and when he left, after nearly an hour's talk with Commissioner Waldo, it was announced that he had been relieved of his command and sent to desk duty in the West 125th Street Police Station. No reason was assigned for the charge, but it was unofficially said that Commissioner Waldo is dissatisfied with the detective work in the case of Julia Curran, the governess, who is alleged to have been murdered on Thursday night in the Boulevard Hotel at Broadway and Sixty-eighth Street.

Gloster loses his rank of Acting Captain. Acting Captain Thomas J. Tunny has been transferred from the command of the Sixth Detective District, with headquarters in the West 125th Street Police Station, to succeed Capt. Gloster.

Gloster, who was formerly at the head of the Homicide Bureau, had just returned from abroad. It is understood that the trip was taken in the investigation of the murder of Grace Taylor of 103 West Seventy-seventh Street, who was killed several months ago by a bomb she received through the mail.

WOMAN UNDER SUBWAY TRAIN

Jumped to End Her Life, but Was Removed Unhurt.

In an attempt to end her life yesterday Mrs. Pauline Geithein, wife of a waiter, leaped in front of a northbound Subway train from the platform of the station at Astor Place. The first car passed over the spot where she jumped before the train could be brought to a stop. To the surprise of those who witnessed the woman's act, she was brought from under the second car alive and crying that she be allowed to die. Her only injuries are a dislocated shoulder and bruises about the head and face.

The woman attracted no attention when she entered the station, and, entering the platform, she walked to the south end and stood there, quietly waiting the arrival of the train. The first car was only fifty feet from her when she suddenly dived headfirst to the track.

Mrs. Geithein was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital. She would give no reason for attempting to take her life other than to say that she did not want to live any longer.

An Age of Specialists

A great many people who want to save and at the same time invest their savings, would put this money into high-class railroad and industrial stocks paying 5% or 6%, and likely to increase in value in the near future, if they knew that one, ten, or twenty shares could be bought as readily as one hundred; that their account would have the same personal attention regardless of the amount, and that in case of necessity this stock could be converted into cash at once.

We make a specialty of just this class of investment business.

UTAH COPPER COMPANY

Each week we issue a weekly letter dealing with one particular stock, which after careful study we believe a good investment, yielding a good return, and also one which should increase in value. This will be sent on request. Remember, we are brokers for the small as well as the large investor. We make a specialty of executing small lots of stock, either to be bought outright, on margin, or on our monthly payment plan.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Yesterday's stock market displayed no signs of improvement as a result of the over-Sunday rest and a continued absence of unfavorable news. The transactions were small in volume, and the price changes without significance. It is becoming increasingly apparent that the investing public has only a casual interest in securities while there are so many political uncertainties ahead of the market. There has been little speculation in recent weeks, and the market is considered to be in a fundamentally sound position, but with many of the best-known operators away and commission business at a low ebb, brokers see little reason to expect a pronounced movement in either direction in the near future. Yesterday's total sales amounted to less than 290,000 shares.

In view of the somewhat conflicting reports as to the extent of the business recovery in the Southwest, Wall Street paid an unusual amount of attention to the Atchison's July statement of earnings. The Atchison's gross revenues for the first month of the new fiscal year were $8,960,000, or $938,000 more than the total for the corresponding month of 1911. The increase in operating expenses was less than half of this sum, so that after taking care of the usual increase in taxes, net earnings in July showed a gain of $450,000. The improvement was reflected by an advance of only ¼ in Atchison's price. The Chicago & Northwestern likewise reported a good increase in business for last month, as compared with July of 1911. That company's gross revenues increased $590,000, most of which was absorbed by higher expenses, but the net earnings were $217,000 ahead of those for last year. The report of the acquisition of the St. Louis & Southwestern by the Louisville & Nashville seemed to be so circumstantial, with confirmation of the details by officials of the smaller road, that traders decided that the Cotton Belt had at last found a home, and the stock gained 2 points in the day's transactions. The semi-official denial of the story from Henry Walters's office was not published until after the market's close, and was not fully accepted then. James J. Hill's cheerful views on business in the Northwest failed to help Great Northern recover more than a very small part of its six-point decline in recent days, and the Canadian Pacific lost much of its buoyancy upon reports of growing disaffection among shippers and others who feel that the company's big profits and impending offer of $60,000,000 of new stock at 150 or 175 argue in favor of a reduction in rates. Wall Street looks for some interesting developments at the meeting of the Steel Corporation Directors to-day and the special meeting of the Louisville & Nashville board, which is expected on Thursday.

Hooking Up with Canadian Lines.

The projected traffic arrangement between the Great Northern and the Grand Trunk Pacific, which will furnish a shorter line from Edmonton to Toronto than the route through Canada, has taken definite form with the beginning of work on the twenty-two-mile stretch of line from Niobe, N. D., to the Canadian border near North Portal, which is all that is needed to make the physical connection. Trains will run over the Grand Trunk from Regina to Minot, N. D., over the Great Northern to Minneapolis, over the Burlington to Chicago, and from there to Toronto over the Grand Trunk again. In the mean time Newman Erb is pushing his plans for an extension of the Minneapolis & St. Louis to the Canadian border, presumably to connect with the Canadian Northern, which when linked up with the Missouri, Kansas & Texas would give a line from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Railroads Buying Much Equipment.

Orders for railway equipment have been heavy during the current month, those for last week aggregating 3,700 cars, 75,000 tons of rails, and about 100 locomotives. Rails ordered during the month for delivery next year amount to about 275,000 tons, although the Steel Corporation does not usually open its books for the following year before Oct. 1. The Wabash is making inquiries for 500 gondola cars, the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic is reported to have ordered 100 freight cars, and the Great Northern is said to have ordered 3,500 freight cars. The Wabash has also placed an order for 20 mikado engines, the Burlington for 25 mikados, and the Southern Pacific, it is reported, for 30. The Pennsylvania lines west are said to be in the market for fifty locomotives, and the Canadian Northern is also inquiring for additional motive power. The purchase of freight cars is without reference to the threatened shortage in moving the crops, as the heaviest part of that traffic will be out of the way before they can be delivered.

⁂

Conditions in the Northwest.

James J. Hill was in New York for a few hours yesterday and declared that conditions in the Northwest were excellent.

"The outlook," he said, "is better than it has been for five or six years. The recent heavy rains damaged crops only slightly and that in a few restricted localities. Jobbers report a good demand. There may be some congestion at Buffalo in moving the crops, but the terminal facilities of the Great Northern are sufficient to take care of three times the present amount of traffic."

Deny Cotton Belt Purchase.

Notwithstanding the circumstantial and positive story from Austin, Texas, of the purchase of the St. Louis Southwestern by the Louisville & Nashville, a repudiation was issued from the Louisville office yesterday. The statement issued late in the afternoon at the New York office said that the story was without foundation and that the Louisville was not interested either in the acquisition or control of the property. Since it has been known that the Cotton Belt is in the market positive announcements of its purchase by one system or another have been frequent. Some months ago the Illinois Central was named as the buyer. Both the Illinois Central and Louisville & Nashville officials made trips of inspection over the system.

Summer Resort Traffic Low.

The railroads tapping the big Summer resort districts frequented by New Yorkers have found this season disappointing in passenger traffic. Freight and express traffic has not been below normal, indicating a full Summer population, and after some puzzling over the persistence of low passenger receipts, the railroad men have concluded to lay the blame on the automobile. The average man who sends his family away for the Summer is rich enough to own an automobile. Passenger agents in the Summer resort districts have been reporting to their home offices that whole families with their baggage who would ordinarily pay railroad fare have been motoring to their chosen Summer places, even carrying their trunks. This explanation is also borne out by the testimony of the Summer hotel men, who are complaining of the effect of the automobile in reducing the number of permanent patrons, though adding to the transients. The hotel men in the good roads sections and at points which are the foci of touring motorists have had a rush of patronage at the expense of the more isolated resorts.

Autos Increase Freight Traffic.

Offsetting the motor car's drain on the passenger revenue of the railroads, the freight departments can show a largely increased revenue from the automobile industry. The shipments of motors has, in fact, been in such volume as to tax the freight car supply at points in which the automobile industry centres.

Good News for Housewives.

Reports from the Denver & Rio Grande's agents in Colorado and Utah give promise of a plentiful supply of canned fruits this year, with a possible lowering in price. This season's fruit crop in those States will be at least twice as large as that in any previous year, and the railroad company expects to be called upon to move between 9,000 and 10,000 cars of peaches, pears, apricots, plums, cantaloupes, and apples between the first of next month and the end of the season. To harvest this enormous crop at least 6,000 pickers and packers will be required, and the West is being scoured to find the required number.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Price Movements Narrow and Trading in Small Volume, but Gains Are Many.

Trading was only in moderate volume on the Curb yesterday, but gains were numerous, both in the industrial and mining lists. British-American Tobacco closed ⅛ up, at 22⅞; Emerson-Brantingham ⅝ up, at 78; Manhattan Shirt, ½ up, at 58, and Pettibone-Milliken preferred ¾ up, at 101¾. U. S. Motors common and preferred closed ⅛ and ¼, respectively, above the opening levels. United Cigar Stores of America and Standard Oil of New Jersey made small declines. In the mining list there were many fractional advances from opening prices. In the bond list four issues appeared, Braden Copper 6s advancing from 145 to 147 on sales of $13,000.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Dr. I. Josica Herczeg has been elected a Director of the Bolivia Railway Company.

Under the title "Hidden Assets" Wasserman Brothers have issued a pamphlet analyzing the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company's accumulation of wealth in the shape of farm and townsite lands and other contributing factors of its financial strength.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN.

Prices Firm, Though Trading Is in Small Volume.

Trading was narrow in the principal out-of-town markets yesterday, but prices were generally firm, as indicated in the special dispatches to THE TIMES.

The Market in Baltimore was lifeless.

North Butte was active and strong and was the leader of the Boston list. There was some strength also in Copper Range, Calumet and Arizona, and Superior. Shoe Machinery went down a fraction. Trading generally was dull.

Chicago stocks weakened, under moderate offerings of Sears-Roebuck, Pneumatic Tool, and Biscuit, which fell 2 points. Swift's, however, sold up ½ and Commonwealth Edison, Can, and the tractions were higher. Booth and Brick were steady. There was a sale on the Exchange of $1,000 United Box Board and Paper Company collateral 6 per cent. bonds at 35, which compared with 70, the price when the last sale was made, several months ago. These bonds represent the issue that was put out by the old box board company against some 45,000 shares of American Strawboard Company stock. Bids of $20 a share are heard for Strawboard stock, but no sales have been reported. The last transactions, made a long time ago, were at $10.

Stimulated by reports of favorable earnings, American Railways stock advanced to 44½, a new high record price, on the Philadelphia Exchange yesterday morning. Another stock to establish a new top price yesterday was Cambria Steel, which sold up to 45¼. Rapid Transit rose to 26, at which price quite a little stock changed hands. The remainder of the market moved narrowly, but the undertone was good.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Aug. 27.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"The rates for day-to-day advances and short fixtures were unaltered yesterday. The Bank of England bought a moderate amount of short bills from customers, which indirectly tended to keep the market adequately supplied with cash.

"Discount rates were very firm and rather higher for longer maturities.

"Alexandria exchange moved slightly against London, but shipments of gold to Egypt are not expected this week. Sovereigns left Sydney on Saturday for India.

"The principal features of the stock markets were the activity and buoyancy of rubber shares, and, to a lesser extent, South African mining descriptions. Shipping securities recovered, and Egyptian land companies' shares and several brewery prior charge stocks were in demand.

"Consols fell ⅛. The home railway market weakened under the depressing influence of the wet weather.

"American securities relapsed after being fairly firm. Canadian Pacific shares opened appreciably lower, owing to the weakness of the market in Wall Street on Saturday, and declined further later.

"Sao Paulo Railway ordinary showed pronounced weakness.

"Copper shares were firm, especially Mount Elliott and Utah."

PARIS, Aug. 26.—A cheerful tone prevailed on the Bourse to-day, and prices were firm.

Three per cent. rentes, 92 francs 70 centimes for the account.

Berlin, Aug. 26.—The Boerse opened weak to-day. Prices improved later, and closed steady.

Dividends Earned on Ordinary Stock 17.96 Per Cent.

The pamphlet report of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for the year ended June 30, issued yesterday, shows surplus available for dividends from railroad and steamship operations of $32,752,754, and $5,158,586 special income, both increases over the earnings of previous years. Gross income was $123,319,541, compared with $104,167,808, and total operating expenses $80,021,298, compared with $67,467,977 in the previous year, leaving net operating income at $43,298,243, compared with $36,699,831 in 1911. The special income account shows revenue of $3,340,812 in dividends and interest on securities owned, a decrease of $17,873 from the returns in 1911, and $1,817,744 in "interest on cash proceeds and on deferred payments for land sold," amounting to $1,817,774. This total special income of $5,158,586 compares with $5,046,856 in the previous year.

The surplus available for dividends of $32,752,754 from railroad and steamship operations is equivalent to 15.23 per cent. on the $198,000,000 ordinary stock, after the 4 per cent. allowance on the preference stock. The $5,158,586 special income is equivalent to an additional 2.73 per cent. on the ordinary stock, making the total earned on that issue 17.96 per cent., which compares with 16.40 earned in the previous year on the $180,000,000 ordinary stock then issued.

In his remarks to stockholders, President Sir Thomas Shaughnessy states that sanction for an issue of 4 per cent. consolidated debenture stock will be asked, to supply funds for the extension of branch lines in Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and Alberta, totaling 308 miles.

The Fourth Dimension of Bond Buying

Many a man living within a good salary does not save because he does not know how. The purchase of his first bond is often deferred so long that at fifty he is still grinding instead of being independent. Part of our policy is to teach men to save. We recommend their buying bonds that have the usual three qualities of a sound investment—security, yield, and marketability—and also the "fourth dimension," probability of appreciation in value.

We are able to recommend such a bond at present. This bond may easily be made tax exempt. Ask us about it.

BID AND ASKED QUOTATIONS.

Closing quotations for Government bonds:

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

About one-third of the business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was in Reading, of which 11,080 shares changed hands out of a grand total for all stocks of 30,890 shares, distributed over a list which included forty-eight issues. The lending rate for Reading last Saturday for the half-weekly carryover had indicated the existence of a considerable outstanding short interest in the stock, which was apparently nervous and inclined to cover. Reading changed hands on the 9:30 o'clock opening call to the amount of 300 shares at 168⅞, which compared with a closing quotation on Saturday of 169 and a 10 o'clock opening price on that Exchange of 168⅝. As a rule, prices on the call were slightly lower than Saturday's closing quotations. Amalgamated Copper was an exception, however. In the subsequent dealings Denver & Rio Grande sold at 21, the only transaction in that stock reported in Wall Street during the day.

Protest on New York Rates to South.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—An attack by the Augusta (Ga.) Chamber of Commerce upon recently increased freight rates on fruits and vegetables from New York City and other New York points to Augusta was laid before the Inter-State Commerce Commission to-day. The new rates are declared to be excessive and discriminatory, and demand is made that they be reduced to the old scale.

APPRAISERS RESENT BEING INVESTIGATED

WON'T TALK ABOUT LOEB

Or Propriety of Having the Collector One of the Commission Named by the President.

General Appraiser T. S. Sharretts discussed yesterday the action of President Taft in appointing a commission to investigate the work of the Board of General Appraisers. The appointment of the commission followed complaints by Collector Loeb and by domestic manufacturers that the Board of General Appraisers had sustained too many protests of importers against customs classifications.

Appraiser Sharretts said:

"The Board of General Appraisers received the powers of a court by act of Congress. It has the same authority as any other Federal tribunal to subpoena witnesses and to punish for contempt. Its function is to do justice between importers and the customs.

"Since the Appraisers act as Judges, they take testimony and render decisions in accordance with the evidence before them. These judicial powers were not asked for by the Appraisers. They were conferred by Congress at the request of the New York Merchants' Association and the Chamber of Commerce, backed up by commercial bodies of other cities.

"If there is any general dissatisfaction with the workings out of the system of having the Appraisers independent of the customs, the proper method of approach to a change of conditions would seem to be an appeal to Congress to change the law. So far as an investigation goes, I am sure that I have been guilty of no malfeasance in office or inefficiency."

The Investigating Committee appointed by the President consists of Chandler P. Anderson, Counselor for the State Department; Assistant Attorney General Winfred T. Denison, and Collector William Loeb, Jr., of the Port of New York. The official statement giving the scope of the inquiry declares that it is to probe complaints "that the work of the board does not give satisfactory results as a portion of the governmental mechanism of collecting revenues from customs."

The Board of Appraisers consists of H. M. Somerville, President; T. S. Sharretts, W. B. Howell, I. F. Fischer, B. S. Waite, E. G. Hay, C. P. McClelland, R. H. Chamberlain, and S. B. Cooper. They receive salaries of $9,000 a year and sit at various ports as a Court of Appeal from customs rulings. President Somerville of the board is at present in Europe, and Mr. Hay is Acting President. Mr. Hay let it be known yesterday that the board would present testimony in behalf of its work in the investigation.

In discussing the coming investigation yesterday, Appraiser Sharretts intimated that the board had a very different idea of its function than that it was a part of the "mechanism of collecting revenue," as expressed in the official Treasury statement. There was a reluctance on his part and the part of his colleagues to make any statement which might be construed as reflecting on any superior officer of the Government or on the propriety of appointing Collector Loeb, with whom the board has had several disagreements on matters of classification, as a member of the Investigating Committee.

It was pointed out that there were two dissatisfied parties every time the board overthrew a customs ruling and admitted an imported article at a lower rate of duty. One is the Treasury Department and the other is the American manufacturer of competing goods. The special Treasury agents are always anxious to make a showing, and the interest of the American competitor is for the exaction of the highest rate.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Arrangements have been practically completed for the holding of the annual convention of the National Association of Master Bakers at Louisville, Ky., Sept. 2 to 7. Interesting and instructive business programmes have been prepared, and an extensive exhibition of bakers' utensils and machinery will be made by some of the leading supply houses. An excellent attendance is looked for.

The fifth of a series of sales of Fall dress goods was held yesterday by the H. B. Claflin Company, Worth and Church Streets. Buyers were present in good numbers, and the results of the sale reflected the success of those previously held.

A regular fortnightly auction of crude rubber will open to-day in London. Pending the outcome of the first day, little activity is looked for in this market.

Fur imports entered at this port in the week ended Aug. 17 were valued at $282,907, a substantial falling off from the value of similar imports in the preceding week. The value of hatters' fur goods entered was placed at $32,338. Feather imports aggregated $504,258, the highest level reached in several months.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

HOSIERY ABOUT ALL TAKEN.

Manufacturers Scarcely Will Be Able to Fill Duplicate Orders.

With the initial buying of hosiery for Spring, 1913, largely completed, a survey of the New York market at the present moment shows the majority of manufacturers sold up for some time to come. This condition is particularly true of low-end merchandise, and, according to one of the largest makers of these grades in the country, most manufacturers of hosiery retailing at 15 cents a pair and under will not be able to take care of a great deal of duplicate business unless cancellations materially reduce the present demand on the producing facilities of their mills. Retailers all over the country are believed to have limited supplies of lightweight hosiery on hand, and some excellent business is predicted for the jobbers when retailers come into this market for their Spring purchases.

Because of the present demand, which is said to have resulted from the refusal of jobbers to anticipate their needs earlier in the season, the question of deliveries is now a matter of much moment to manufacturers and wholesalers alike. Manufacturers are making the most of the situation, however, and are distributing their merchandise as evenly as possible throughout the country in the face of a widespread demand for prompt shipments.

Blacks, tans, and whites shared the demand for cotton hosiery pretty evenly, from all accounts, and, taken as a whole, this has so far been the best all-around season since 1907.

PAPER TRADE PLEASED.

Business Normal and Shows Improvement Over Last Year.

The paper trade has little occasion to complain about business conditions in that field this year, according to a well-known New York manufacturer. Business to date has been normal in every way, and in some instances has shown no little improvement over that of last year. Prices are generally firm, collections are good, and the number of orders booked on the various grades indicate general activity in the fields where this commodity is extensively used. The paper mills are reported busy, and in many instances sellers in this market are having difficulty in securing deliveries.

Present quotations show the price of writing paper to have advanced from 10 to 15 per cent. over last year's figures. Book paper shows a slight advance over corresponding quotations in 1911, with coated and textile papers steady at figures close to the levels of a year ago.

COLLIERY ENGINEERS STRIKE.

Markle Mines in the Anthracite Fields Forced to Suspend.

HAZLETON, Pa., Aug. 26.—All the collieries of the G. B. Markle & Co., the largest individual coal operators in the Anthracite field, were tied up to-day by a strike of the hoisting engineers who quit because of a disagreement over wages.

About 4,000 hands are idle as a result. In compliance with a new State law, the engineers were put on an eight hour day basis last Spring. They declare that their wages have been reduced through this change and efforts to reach an understanding with the company failed.

Says Railroads Can Handle Crops.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 26.—Judge Robert S. Lovett, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the Harriman lines, said to-day that after an inspection of the wheat fields of the country west of the Missouri River he believed the railroads would be able to handle the crops, though it would tax them to do it.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

The Daily Consular and Trade Report notes the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding them may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

No. 9,418. STEAM FIRE ENGINE.—Tenders will be received until Sept. 7, 1912, by the Director, Section of Municipalities and Local Commissions, Ministry of the Interior, Cairo, Egypt, for a steam fire engine with a capacity for discharging 450 liters (119 gallons) of water per minute to a height of 35 meters (115 feet.) Tenders made out on stamped paper are obtainable from L. A. Webb, Queen Anne's Chamber, Westminster, London, S. W., England.

No. 9,419. COTTONSEED OIL, BUTTER, AND GREASES.—An American Consular officer in the Levant reports that an importer in his district is desirous of being placed in touch with exporters of American cottonseed and oleo oil, butter, and greases. References are furnished.

No. 9,420. NEW ELECTRIC STREET-CAR SYSTEM AND TUNNELING.—An American Consular officer in a European country reports that a municipality has authorized the survey and other preliminary arrangements relative to an unusually extensive urban and suburban electric-car system. In view of the fact that the system will include a tunnel under one of the largest rivers in Europe, mountain railways, bridges, &c., the amount of material, dredging, &c., will be enormous. Negotiations are being carried on with foreign capitalists.

No. 9,421. HOSPITAL EQUIPMENT.—A report from an American Consul in Asia states that inquiries have been made for American physician and hospital accessories, such as chairs, tables, &c. The Consul suggests that catalogues and price lists be forwarded to the addresses on file in Bureau of Manufactures.

No. 9,422. CABINET ORGANS.—An American Consular officer in South Africa reports that an importer doing a good business in the interior wishes catalogues and price lists of low-priced cabinet organs with showy backs.

No. 9,423. NAILS.—A firm in Chicago has communicated to the Bureau of Manufactures the name of a business man in a European country who desires to negotiate for a large order of nails. Samples with the lowest prices in casks of 50 kilos (110 pounds,) cost, insurance, and freight, a certain port, should be furnished.

No. 9,424. OIL, COTTON SHEETINGS, MACHINERY.—An American Consul in Asia transmits the address of a commission agent who desires to represent American exporters in petroleum, hides and skins, cotton sheetings, agricultural and building machinery, and carriages.

No. 9,425. MOTOR TRUCKS, ELECTRIC-LIGHTING PLANTS, FURNITURE, &C.—A report from an American Consul in Asia states that one of the leading bankers and steamship owners in that part of the world contemplates a visit to the United States. He is disposed to favor American manufactures and is in the market for motor trucks, an electric lighting plant, office furniture, and bottling and other kinds of machinery. Should unforeseen circumstances prevent him from continuing his journey beyond London his London address is given.

No. 9,426. IRRIGATION PUMP AND COMBUSTION MOTOR.—A person in Mexico informs an American Consul that he is in the market for an irrigation pump with a capacity of 3,500 to 4,000 liters (925 to 1,055 gallons) per minute. The water has to be raised about 35 feet and is to be used on land at an altitude of about 6,200 feet above sea level. A crude oil or kerosene combustion motor of about 15 horse power to operate the pump will also be required. Correspondence should be in Spanish.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

The lower grades of fleece-lined underwear have experienced an excellent demand this season, from all accounts. Several of the mills producing these goods are reported sold up for some time.

With threatening tariff agitation removed for several months at least, trading in Spring dress goods is expected to continue on a generally satisfactory scale through the balance of the present season.

There appears to be considerable difference of opinion regarding the position of cut silk cravats for Fall. In certain quarters it is believed that they will replace knit and crochet ties to a considerable extent, and early Fall orders apparently bear out this contention. The better grades of cut silks have received the best call so far, it is said.

Robespierre effects are undoubtedly the strongest item in the women's neckwear outlook for Fall. They embody the lighter laces almost exclusively.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

Consul W. L. Bonney reports the value of declared exports from San Luis Potosi, Mexico, to the United States in the first six months of 1912 to be $2,259,650. The principal items are bullion, rubber, goat skins, ixtle, and hides.

The installation of a 500-lamp electric lighting plant in the palace of the Sultan Maskat, Arabia, has just been completed by N. S. Bayanker, formerly with the Deccan Electric Company of Hyderabad, India. This is the first instance of the operation of any sort of electric machinery in that country.

An American manufacturer of thrashing machinery has established a branch office at Montevideo, Uruguay, with a resident manager. Consul Frederic W. Goding commends this action as indicating that the business houses of the United States are gradually entering the promising field of Uruguay in earnest.

The first cargo of Argentina tin, consisting of 20,000 kilos (44,092 pounds) in ingots of 68 per cent. pure metal, worth $13,626, recently left that country for a foundry in Frankfort.

DRY GOODS FAIRLY ACTIVE.

Cotton Trade Helped by Expected Settlement of New Bedford Strike.

Trading was fairly active in the New York dry goods market yesterday after a slow start, and taken as a whole, the amount of merchandise disposed of, reached fair proportions for a Monday. Buyers who spent the week-end out of town were reluctant to get back into harness, and as a result the market was generally quiet in the morning. Reports from various quarters of the primary market were indicative of some excellent business in the mails, a fairly representative part of the day's business in certain lines having been received in that way. House trading was as good as usual on Monday at this time of the year, and on the whole the aggregate results were satisfactory to sellers.

Reports from New Bedford to the effect that a settlement of the weavers' strike in that city was not as remote as was supposed brightened the fine goods end of the cotton trade somewhat, although in certain quarters the information was taken with a grain of salt. There was a fair amount of business done in the coarser constructions of cotton goods and prices as a rule held close to previous levels. Dress goods moved in a fairly active way in this market and this activity was reflected in the day's buying of linens.

The secondary market was featured by generally quiet trading, with individual sales a bit limited, but making an excellent Monday showing in the aggregate. Silks, wash goods, and dress goods, the latter stimulated by an attractive sale of Fall merchandise in one quarter of the market, moved well as a rule, but trading in the general market was without unusual feature.

BELTING IN GOOD DEMAND.

High Prices for Raw Hides Helping Balata Belting Business.

The activity reported in the majority of textile and other manufacturing lines is reflected to no little extent in the business booked of late by makers of belting, according to a statement made yesterday at the New York office of R. & J. Dick, Limited, 90 Chambers Street. The demand is well spread among manufacturers of leather, balata and canvas belting, with the call for the former suffering somewhat at the moment from the constantly increasing cost of raw hides.

The upward tendency of the raw hide market is proving a boon to makers of balata belting, and sales of this belting, barring the South, are showing a steady increase all over the country. The present dullness in the Southern manufacturing districts is attributed to the heavy sales made there two or three years ago, and the fact that the greater part of this belting is still in use. Because of the rubbery elements that enter into its construction balata belts were said to have a surprising capacity for resisting wear, the evil effects of water, and the general belt-destroying atmosphere peculiar to dye houses. Because of these same elements, which were said to soften slightly under the heat generated by the friction of the pulley, these belts do away with a large part of the loss of power resulting from the slipping of the majority of untreated leather belts.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Animals Imported for Breeding by Corporations Are Duty Free.

The Board of United States General Appraisers gave free entry yesterday to sheep and cattle imported by George W. Sheldon & Co. under the provisions of Paragraph 492. Assessments had been made under Paragraphs 225 and 228, which provide for cattle and sheep.

The paragraph on which the importers based their contention provides that "any animal imported by a citizen of the United States specially for breeding purposes shall be admitted free." The board found that the only question was whether the animals had been imported by a "citizen of the United States" within the meaning of the law.

Butler Brothers succeeded in contentions that Christmas tree ornaments and deceptive wine glasses assessed at 45 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 109 were dutiable as toys at 35 per cent. under Paragraph 431, and that small glass chimneys for magic lanterns assessed at 60 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 98 should pay 35 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 431 as "parts of toys."

SHIP CANAL PROSPEROUS.

Manchester Waterway Shows Profits Despite Long Coal Strike.

The report of the Manchester Ship Canal Company for the half year ended June 30 shows a total tonnage of merchandise passing through the waterway of 2,441,745 and receipts of £274,979. Expenditures of £156,617 left a working profit of £118,362. The working profit of the Bridgewater department for the period was £13,317.

The balance carried to net revenue account was £131,679, to which was added £1,347 for bankers' and general interest, making an available balance of £133,026. The prolonged coal strike in England had a serious effect upon the revenue and tonnage of the port, but the Directors' report shows that there was a marked improvement immediately afterward, particularly in May and June.

HATTERS' CASE ON AGAIN.

Rehearing of Celebrated Labor Suit Is Begun in Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 26.—A trial of National importance, involving rights of capital and labor under the Sherman anti-trust law, was begun in the United States Court to-day before Judge James L. Martin of Vermont. It is the famous Danbury hat case.

When the case was decided in 1910, by an award of $222,000 for the plaintiffs, it had been before the jury seventeen weeks. A decision of the United States Supreme Court brings the suit up for retrial. Under this decision, it is understood, that the conspiracy alleged must be fastened on each defendant and that membership in the United Hatters of North America would not fasten responsibility for conspiracy on the defendants.

The suit was begun in 1903 against 240 defendants. There are less than 200 now. Each talesman was examined in detail today, the examination extending to the point of inquiry whether any of them belonged to a labor union and whether they were acquainted with any of the defendants.

This examination was conducted by Daniel Davenport of Bridgeport, senior counsel for the plaintiffs. He will be assisted by Walter D. Merritt of New York. The defendants are represented by Frank L. Mulholland of Toledo, Ohio, and John K. Beach of New Haven, Conn. All except two members of the panel are farmers and most of them had never heard of the case. One said he was opposed on general principles to labor unions.

LEATHER MARKET FIRM.

Expected Between-Season Dullness Has Not Arrived.

The usual between-season dullness in upholstery leathers has not arrived this year, according to a prominent New York manufacturer's agent. The demand for these leathers from the automobile trade is larger than ever before, and as yet there has been no recession in the activities of the furniture manufacturers. Prices are firm in sympathy with the strength shown in the market for raw hides, and from all accounts, no surprise would be felt by well-posted men in the trade if values took a step upward before many days have passed. Present prices range about as follows: Split Spanish, 12@12½ cents; deep buff Spanish, 15 cents and up; machine buff, 26@28 cents, and hand buffs, 32@33 cents. Ordinary splits are quoted at 9 cents up.

The balance of the leather market reflected the strength of the upholstery grades yesterday, but no great amount of activity was reported. Stocks of hemlock and union sole were generally light under recent good movement on previous contracts, and commanded full prices. New business was limited. This condition was generally prevalent in the day's transactions in oak and butts, with values firm in sympathy with the primary markets.

PROPOSALS.

INVITATION TO CONTRACTORS.

PART OF ROUTE NO. 11-B.

The City of New York, acting by the Public Service Commission for the First District (hereinafter called "the Commission") invites proposals to construct Section No. 1 of Route 11-B, a part of the Fourth Avenue, Brooklyn, Rapid Transit Railroad.

The points within the City between which the said part is to run and the route or routes to be followed are briefly as follows:

Section No. 1. Beginning at a point under Fourth Avenue, in the Borough of Brooklyn, about twenty-five (25) feet south of the center line of 40th Street, at the southerly end of Contract Section No. 11-A-4, now existing or being constructed, and extending thence southerly under Fourth Avenue to a point about one hundred and ten (110) feet south of the center line of 61st Street; with stations at 45th Street, 53d Street and 59th Street.

The general plan of construction calls for a subsurface railroad having one and two tracks on the easterly side of Fourth Avenue from the northern end of the section to a point about eighty-six (86) feet north of the center line of 43d Street, and four tracks for the remainder of the section. The details of the construction of the Railroad and appurtenances are more particularly indicated on the Contract Drawings.

Bidders will not be required to provide or lay tracks, ties or ballast, nor to do the station finish work.

The work of construction under the contract will include the construction of all necessary sewers and connections, along the route of the Railroad; also the necessary support, maintenance, readjustment and reconstruction of vaults adjacent to buildings, pipes, tubes, conduits, subways or other subsurface structures; the support and care, including underpinning where necessary, of all buildings, monuments, subsurface railroads and other structures, etc., affected by or interfered with during the construction of the work; also the restoration of the sidewalks and roadways.

The method of construction, unless otherwise permitted by the Commission, will be partly by trench excavation without cover and partly by trench excavation with cover, as set forth in the form of contract.

Bidders must examine the form of contract and the specifications, maps and plans; must visit the location of the work and inform themselves of the present conditions along the line thereof and make their own estimates of the facilities and difficulties attending the execution of the proposed work.

For the information of bidders attention is called to a seeming considerable demand for fill along the water front in the Bay Ridge district.

A fuller description of the work to be done is set forth, and other requirements, provisions, details and specifications are stated, in the printed form of contract and in the Contract Drawings therein referred to. Printed copies of the form of contract, bond and contractor's proposal may be had on application at the office of the Commission, No. 154 Nassau Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York. The Contract Drawings may be inspected at the same office, and copies thereof may be purchased by prospective bidders on payment of five dollars ($5.00.) The printed form of contract and the Contract Drawings are to be deemed a part of this invitation.

Partial payments to the Contractor will be made monthly as the work proceeds as provided in the form of contract.

The Contractor will be required to complete the work as soon as practicable and within a period of twenty-four (24) months from the date of the delivery of the contract.

Sealed bids or proposals will be received at the office of the Commission at No. 154 Nassau Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, until the 12th day of September, 1912, at twelve (12) o'clock noon, at which time, or at a later date to be fixed by the Commission, the proposals will be publicly opened.

Proposals must be in the form prescribed by the Commission, copies of which may be obtained at the office of the Commission.

A statement based upon estimate of the Engineer, of the quantities of the various classes of the work and of the nature and extent as near as practicable of the work required, is to be found in the schedule forming a part of the form of Contractor's Proposal. The quantities given in such schedule are approximate only, being given as a basis for the uniform comparison of bids and no claim is to be made against the City on account of any excess or deficiency, absolute or relative, in the same, except as provided in the specifications and form of contract.

All proposals must, when submitted, be enclosed in a sealed envelope endorsed "Proposal for Constructing Part of Rapid Transit Railroad—Route No. 11-B, Section No. 1," and must be delivered to the Commission or its Secretary; and in the presence of the person submitting the proposal, it will be deposited in a sealed box, in which all proposals will be deposited. No proposal will be received or deposited unless accompanied by a separate certified check drawn upon a national or state bank or trust company having its principal office in the City of New York, satisfactory to the Commission and payable to the order of the Comptroller of The City of New York for the sum of fifteen thousand ($15,000) dollars. Such check must not be enclosed in the envelope containing the proposal.

The Unit Prices must not be improperly balanced, and any bid which the Commission considers detrimental to the City's interests may be rejected.

No proposal, after it shall have been deposited with the Commission, will be allowed to be withdrawn for any reason whatever.

The award of the contract will be made by the Commission as soon as practicable after the opening of the proposals.

Bidders whose proposals are otherwise satisfactory, in case the sureties or securities named by them are not approved by the Commission, may substitute in their proposals the names of other sureties or securities approved by the Commission, but such substitution must be made within five (5) days after notice of disapproval, unless such period is extended by the Commission.

A bidder whose proposal shall be accepted shall, in person or by duly authorized representative, attend at the said office of the Commission within ten (10) days after the delivery of a notice by the Commission that his proposal is accepted and that the contract is consented to by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and such bidder shall then deliver a contract in the form referred to, duly executed and with its execution duly proved.

At the time of the delivery of the contract, the Contractor will be required to furnish security to the City by giving a bond for forty thousand ($40,000) dollars. At the option of the successful bidder cash or approved securities may be deposited instead of giving a bond. If securities are deposited in place of a bond under this contract, they must be of the character of securities in which Savings Banks may invest their funds and must be approved by the Commission.

The Contractor's bond must be in the form annexed to the form of contract.

In addition and as further security fifteen (15%) per centum of the amounts certified from time to time to be due to the Contractor will be deducted until the amounts so deducted and retained shall equal the sum of one hundred and seventy-five thousand ($175,000) dollars. Thereafter there shall be so deducted and retained for such purpose ten (10%) per centum of the amounts certified from time to time to be due to the Contractor. The Contractor may from time to time withdraw portions of the amounts so retained upon depositing in lieu thereof corporate stock of The City of New York equal in market value to the amount so withdrawn.

In case of failure or neglect to execute and deliver the contract or to execute and deliver the required bond or to make the required deposit, such bidder will, at the option of the Commission, be deemed either to have made the contract or to have abandoned the contract. In the latter case, the Commission will give notice thereof to such defaulting bidder, and the Commission may thereupon proceed to make another contract with such, if any, of the original bidders, as, in the opinion of the Commission, it will be to the best interests of the City to contract with, or may by new advertisement invite further proposals. The defaulting bidder shall thereupon be liable to the City for all loss and damage by it sustained, including the excess, if any, of the amount it shall pay any other Contractor over the amount of the bid of such defaulting bidder.

If the Commission shall give notice to any bidder that his or its proposal is accepted and that the contract is consented to by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and if the bidder shall fail within ten (10) days thereafter or within such further period, if any, as may be prescribed by the Commission, to execute and deliver the contract and to execute and deliver the bond with sureties, or to make the required deposit, then the Invitation to Contractors and proposal accepted as aforesaid shall be a contract binding the bidder to pay to the City the damage by it sustained by reason of such failure, and in such case the bidder shall, by the terms of the proposal, absolutely assign to the City the ownership of the check accompanying his or its proposal as a payment on account of such damages.

All such deposits made by bidders whose proposals shall not be accepted by the Commission will be returned to the person or persons making the same within five (5) days after the contract shall be executed and delivered. The deposit of the successful bidder will be returned when the contract is executed and its provisions in respect of the bond or deposit are complied with.

The right to reject any and all bids is reserved.

Grains Off Early, but Rally—Cotton Crashes—Coffee Lower, Too.

Wheat was quiet and easier on the Russian estimates, recovering later. Corn was less active and also easier, but closed steady. Oats declined on the liberal receipts, rallying on large cash sales. Provisions were firm early, but closed quiet. Cottonseed oil moved irregularly. Cotton has a severe setback, with new low records scored. The weather was favorable and active leadership toward lower prices was again assumed by important interests. Coffee declines further on the foreign advices.

WHEAT.

The wheat market was comparatively quiet all day. Prices were slightly firmer during the morning, but after midday eased off, rallied, and closed at only a slight net decline. The Minneapolis market was quite weak part of the time, due to the favorable weather conditons in the Northwest and expectation of large receipts of new wheat. The actual receipts at Minneapolis for the day were 417 cars, against 481 last week, 540 last year, and 754 two years ago, showing that the movement is not early or heavy as yet. The cash prices in the Northwest weakened a little with futures. The total interior receipts of wheat were 500,000 bushels less than last week, while the shipments from the interior showed an increase. The visible supply increased 419,000, against an increase last year of 605,000. The present visible supply, including bonded wheat, is 19,848,000 bushels, or nearly 29,000,000 bushels less than last year. The weather conditions were very favorable both in the American and Canadian Spring wheat sections.

Export demand was of fair volume, about 35 loads of wheat being reported at the outports. Public cables were very firm. This was due to the continued wet weather both in England and on the Continent. The weather conditions have been very bad for several weeks, particularly in England, and the quality of the wheat has been affected. The world's exports were 10,032,000 bushels, against 11,440,000 bushels the previous week and 10,688,000 bushels last year. The amount afloat for Europe increased 1,000,000 bushels. Cash prices were steady, with No. 2 red, $1.07; No. 1 Northern, $1.04½; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.03½; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.04½.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN.—The corn market was rather irregular. The September was sold off on the reports of increasing interior movement and increased country offerings, while the new crop months were sold off on the favorable crop reports. Later, however, the entire list rallied and about regained the early loss. The actual receipts of corn West were 100,000 bushels less than last week and nearly 400,000 bushels less than last year. The visible supply of corn decreased 653,000 bushels, against an increase last year of 1,152,000 bushels. World's exports were 6,648,000 bushels, against 6,758,000 bushels the previous week and 8,917,000 bushels a year ago. The amount afloat for Europe increased 2,066,000 bushels, and is 34,629,000 bushels, while the American visible is only 1,573,000 bushels. Cash corn prices at the West were a little irregular, but are held at about 88½c to 93c, cost, insurance, and freight, the seaboard, according to the grade.

OATS.—Trading was fairly active and the market quite heavy during the greater portion of the day, but rallied late on reports of heavy sales of cash oats at Chicago amounting to 1,200,000 bushels, said to be partly for export. The visible supply of oats increased 1,052,000 bushels, against an increase last year of 1,743,000 bushels. The present visible supply is, however, only 3,151,000 bushels, against 18,936,000 bushels last year. Interior receipts were heavy for the day, amounting to 1,152,000 bushels, against 812,000 bushels last year. Cash prices were quoted: Standards and No. 3 whites, 41c, track; No. 2 white, 41½c; clipped white, 42@44c.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was moderately active and firm early, due to a somewhat higher open hog market, but later reacted and closed dull. Total hog receipts were 51,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The strength shown during the early part of yesterday's sessions was not maintained. At the start offerings were limitd and prices were readily influenced. Pressure was seemingly restricted by the strength in lard and advices of a good trade transpiring in the lard substitute, while the absence of pressure, because of the limited volume of crude moving also contributed to the steady undertone.

COTTON.

Extricating itself from the groove of rather unimportant price variations shown during the greater part of last week, the market yesterday developed greater activity. Inasmuch as the increased dealings were at the expense of values, sentiment was correspondingly affected. Prices receded to new low levels, and although at the time of decided weakness, some support made its appearance, this was not sufficient to bring about much of a recovery. Apart from the idea that prices alone warrant conservative operations on the bear side, there were few arguments which could be interpreted bullishly ventured. The setback at the start was from 4 to 9 points, with these losses augmented to the finals when the decline was shown to be nearly ¼c per pound.

Crop news was plentiful and aided those operating for lower prices to an important extent. Habersham King was credited with placing the probable yield in Texas at 5,000,000 bales, and asserting that the weather during the last week was favorable to 90 per cent. of the belt. Several other authorities made like statements, and discarding the complaints of insufficient moisture in the more southern part of Texas and parts of the Carolinas, the present condition of the plant was viewed as very hopeful. The detailed weather advices since Saturday night showed scattered showers in parts of the Carolinas with further showers predicted for to-day in most of the eastern belt. There was no rain suggested for the West, although in the weekly forecast from Washington it was said that the West Gulf States will receive moisture toward the end of the week, while there was no indication of a disturbance in the West Indies.

COFFEE.

Coffee started 13 to 16 points lower, prompted by the weakness abroad, where prices failed to respond to our sharp rally of Saturday. On the early decline there was considerable covering, owing to reports of much cooler weather in Brazil, where the temperature in one province fell to 41 degrees, giving rise to fears of frost. The buying was not aggressive, and prices during the early afternoon were again soft. The close was steady, with less disposition to sell, 10 to 15 points net lower on total sales of 74,500 bags. Havre market closed unchanged to ¼ franc net lower, while Hamburg was unchanged to ½ pfennig advance. Rio was barely steady 75 reis down, while Santos was irregular at 125 reis decline from Saturday's quotations, Saturday's market being nominal. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were firm, and bids made at prices only slightly under the market were promptly refused. Private advices by mail were very encouraging regarding the present crop, reporting the berry was large and of good weight, and that indications pointed to a crop of 9,000,000 bags at Santos and 2,500,000 at Rio. Receipts at Brazilian points were moderate, and so far this season aggregate 1,980,000, compared with 2,314,000 last year and 2,519,000 two years ago.

Spot coffee nominally unchanged, at 14⅛c for Rio 7.

The total warehouse deliveries in the United States for the week were 106,092 bags, against 60,512 last week and 114,348 last year; of the former amount, New York reported 56,747 bags.

Receipts at Rio and Santos for the week totaled 312,000 bags, against 305,000 last week, 415,000 last year, and 497,000 two years ago.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Richard Croker, Jr. Buys a $350,000 East Side Loft Building for Investment—Quick Resale of Property in Automobile Centre Shows Increasing Demand for Plots — Bronx and Suburban Deals.

Trading in the realty market was dull and inactive yesterday, the most important transaction being a $350,000 investment purchase on the upper east side by Richard Croker, Jr.

The property, which consists of an eight-story fireproof loft on a plot 102.2 by 148, on the northwest corner of Seventy-ninth Street and East End Avenue, was sold by Joseph Hammershlag. It was completed about eight months ago, being designed especially for light manufacturing, and is now fully occupied by tenants who hold long leases.

Mr. Croker recently made several other east side investment purchases, one or two of which are on the line of the new Lexington Avenue Subway route. Gross & Gross, who negotiated yesterday's deal, reported that the property had been held at $350,000, and that the buyer paid close to that figure.

Quick Resale in Auto Centre.

A sale and resale of the four-story dwelling 240 West Fifty-fifth Street was reported yesterday by William H. Archibald, who sold the property for the Hedden Construction Company to a client of Wilbur C. Goodale.

The structure stands on a lot 20 by 100, 145 feet west of Broadway, and was resold by the purchaser to David Bandler at a substantial advance in price.

The property adjoins the building of the Automobile Club of America. Last week a plot 60 by 100, directly opposite the one sold yesterday, and known as 243, 247, and 249 West Fifty-fifth Street, was purchased by the Aeon Realty Company, of which Sumner Gerard is President, for about $125,000. The site will be improved with a twelve-story loft for the automobile trade, which will cost about $250,000 according to the plans.

Bronx Borough.

A builder has purchased for improvement, through Charles B. Coulter, a vacant plot 66 by 100 on the east side of Mapes Avenue, 100 feet south of 181st Street. The same broker has also sold to clients for investment 2,004 Crotona Avenue, a three-family brick dwelling, and 2,081 Crotona Avenue, a two-family dwelling.

Long Island.

The Seidel Realty Company of Long Island City has sold for Ludwig Sikora a parcel of land, 50 by 100, on Sixth Avenue, near Vandeventer Avenue, in Long Island City, to a local operator, who will commence the erection of two six-family brick tenements immediately.

A syndicate of investors have purchased through the Rockaway Park Realty Company at Rockaway Park the property of the Park Inn and Bathing Pavilion Company, known as the Park Inn. The parcel has a frontage of 200 feet between Fourth and Fifth Avenues, facing the ocean, and a depth of 300 feet, facing Fourth and Fifth Avenues. A new hotel will be erected on the site.

Jersey Budgets Increase a Million.

Bayonne, Hoboken, West New York, and Harrison, N. J., will spend less money during the coming fiscal year, 1912-13, than they have spent during the present year. In each place there is a decrease in the budget, and in Hoboken it is quite a large decerase. It amounts to $26,637.51. Bayonne shows a decrease of $3,633.19, West New York a decrease of $1,588.13, while in Harrison the decrease is less than $100. It is, to be exact, $90.93.

Jersey City, West Hoboken, Union Hill, and Kearny each show big increases over last year. The total amount of the various municipal budgets in Hudson County comes to $6,309,095.91, as against $5,805,982.47 for last year, showing a net increase over last year of $503,113.44.

Including the county budget and the State school money, the grand total to be spent in Hudson County for governing purposes is $10,513,863.97. Last year it was $9,593,822.11, or $920,041.86 more than this year.

Plans for New Civil Court Filed.

Plans were filed yesterday with the Building Department calling for the erection of a two-story Court House, to be known as the Sixth District Municipal Court, in East Eighty-eighth Street, Nos. 155 and 157. The first floor will be used for stores and the entire second floor will be used for the court. There will be two Justices' chambers. The present Sixth District Court is at Third Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street.

The new Court House will be 50 by 86, and will be built of concrete, with a façade of terra cotta bricks. T. J. Oakley and Philip Rhinelander of 36 West Fifty-second Street are the owners, and the cost has been placed at $25,000 by the architect, Donald P. Hart.

Leases.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE PURSUANT TO ADJOURNMENT.

CHANCERY SALE—In pursuance and by virtue of decrees of foreclosure and sale in favor of the NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY, complainant, made and entered by the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Michigan, Southern Division, and of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of Ohio, Western Division, and of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Ohio, Eastern Division, which decrees were dated on the 24th day of April, A. D. 1911, and entered in said Eastern District of Michigan, Southern Division, May 4th, 1911, in said Northern District of Ohio, Western Division, May 6th, 1911, and in said Southern District of Ohio, Eastern Division, May 19th, 1911, in causes pending in said respective courts, and which were entitled: The New York Trust Company, complainant, vs. Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, et al., defendants; Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant, vs. Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, defendant; William J. Courtney et al., complainants, vs. Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, defendant; (Consolidated Cause. In Equity); the causes pending in the Circuit Court of the United States for the Northern District of Ohio, Western Division, and in the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of Ohio, Eastern Division, being ancillary to the cause pending in the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Michigan, Southern Division; and in pursuance of orders directing adjournment of sale, entered therein on the 28th day of September, A. D. 1911, on the 23rd day of December, A. D. 1911, and on the 2nd day of April, A. D. 1912, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the undersigned, Special Master Commissioner of said courts, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, on TUESDAY, THE EIGHTH DAY OF OCTOBER, A. D. 1912, at 12 o'clock noon, standard time, of said day, at the former Delray Station building of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company, on River Street, in the City of Detroit, County of Wayne and State of Michigan, being on the property described to be sold, as an entirety in one parcel, all the properties by the said decrees directed to be sold, to-wit: ALL the properties by the said decrees declared to be covered by the General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage from the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railway Company to The New York Trust Company, dated May 2, 1905, and by the said decrees directed to be sold.

The said Master Commissioner will accept no bid of less than $2,500,000, which minimum sum was fixed by the Court in the said decrees in order to prevent a sacrifice and to protect the interests of all concerned as the least sum for which the said property should be sold. He will not accept any bid unless the bidder shall forthwith place in his hands at the time of bidding, as a part of his bid and a pledge to make the same good if accepted and the sale confirmed, the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars in cash, certified check or certificate of deposit approved by the Master, which sum shall be forfeited in case the bidder, if successful, shall fail to make good his bid and comply with the terms of the said decrees and of any orders thereafter made as to future payments or otherwise. But the same shall be applied on the purchase price in case of such compliance, or returned in case the bid is not successful or the sale shall not be confirmed by the Court. Nor will the Master accept a bid unless the purchaser shall, upon making his bid, pay to the Master for deposit in the registry of the said Court the sum of $11,769.80, or such other sum as shall be adjudged to be due to the Tiffin & Northwestern Railroad Company on the matters set forth in its intervening petition in the said suit; provided the said sum shall not have been paid by the receivers or other parties to the said suit prior to the said sale. If the bid of the purchaser is not accepted and the sale to him confirmed, said last-named deposit shall be returned to the purchaser; otherwise the said fund shall be held subject to such orders as the Court may make on the said intervening petition. The right of the Court is reserved to reject any bid and to retake and resell the property or any part thereof upon failure of the purchaser to comply with any order of the Court as to the payment of the remainder of the purchase price or any part thereof, or upon failure of the purchaser to comply with any condition of the sale or any order of the Court in that regard.

There shall be paid in cash of the price at which the said properties shall be sold in addition to the amounts paid at the time of the sale, such further portions of the purchase money as the Court shall direct. The remainder of the purchase price may be paid either in cash or in claims payable under Article 3 of the said decree, or in receivers' certificates payable under Article 3 thereof, or in the said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage bonds with overdue coupons thereof, or in Consolidated bonds with overdue coupons thereof at such proportion of value as the holders thereof would be entitled to receive thereon on distribution of the proceeds of the sale in case the purchase price were wholly paid in cash.

All taxes and assessments upon the properties sold and all said receivers' certificates and all claims payable under said Article 3 of the said decrees will be allowed out of the purchase money where the purchaser produces proofs of such liens and claims and receipts for the payment thereof, or surrenders such certificates. The Special Master will, in his discretion, accept, temporarily, instead of the actual delivery of the said bonds and coupons or receivers' certificates, the certificate of any trust company, satisfactory to him, that it holds the said bonds and coupons or receivers' certificates subject to the order of the said Special Master, and will deliver them to him on demand for cancellation or other disposition.

The said Master, in pursuance and by virtue of the decrees of foreclosure in favor of Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant, made and entered by the said Circuit Courts of the United States in this advertisement of sale first mentioned, dated and entered on the same days and in the same places as the said decrees in favor of the New York Trust Company, complainant, WILL ALSO AT THE SAME TIME AND PLACE OFFER FOR SALE and in separate parcels all other lines of railway and additional mileage of the defendant Railway Company and other property of any kind and nature which has been constructed or acquired in whole or in part by means of said Consolidated Bonds or with the proceeds of the sale or disposition thereof; subject only to purchase money liens thereon as in said Consolidated Mortgage set forth, not including in said property, however, any property which is subject to the prior lien thereon of the said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage (all of which said property subject to said General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage is to be sold under and pursuant to the preceding provisions of this notice), one hundred shares of the stock of the Toledo Southern Railway Company and ten hundred and fourteen shares of preferred stock of the Ann Arbor Railroad Company, being certain property of the said Detroit, Toledo and Ironton Railway Company included in the mortgage or deed of trust from that company to Knickerbocker Trust Company, complainant herein, dated May 2, 1905, to secure certain bonds designated as Consolidated bonds. The Master will accept no bid for the said shares of stock from any bidder who shall not place in his hands or deposit with him at the time of making the bid, as a pledge that the bidder will make good his bid if accepted by the Court, the sum of twenty-five dollars per share in cash, certified check or certificate of deposit, approved by the Master, which sum shall be forfeited in case the bidder, if successful, shall fail to make good his bid and comply with the terms of the said decrees, and any orders thereafter made as to future payments or otherwise, but which said sum shall be applied on the purchase price of the said stock in case of such compliance, or will be returned in case the said bid is not successful or the sale shall not be confirmed by the Court. The right of the Court is reserved to reject any bid and to resell the said stock, or any part thereof, upon the failure of the purchaser to comply with any order of the Court as to the payment of the purchase price or any part thereof, in cash or otherwise, as may be directed. If either the said properties, not, as aforesaid, subject to the General Lien and Divisional First Mortgage, or the said shares of stock shall be purchased by or on behalf of the holders of the said Consolidated Bonds, the remainder of the purchase price over and above the amount in cash required to be paid at the time of sale, may be paid either in cash or in receivers' certificates, or in claims payable under Article 3 of the aforesaid decree of The New York Trust Company, or in said Consolidated Bonds and overdue coupons thereon, at such proportionate value as the holders thereof will be entitled to receive thereon respectively, on distribution of the proceeds of such sale, in case such purchase price were wholly paid in cash.

Any person proposing to purchase at the said sale either the said railway properties or the said stock, is referred to the said decrees in this notice specifically mentioned, and to the notice or advertisement of said sale heretofore published by the undersigned Special Master Commissioner upon the 15th, 22nd, and 29th of August, and the 5th, 12th and 19th of September, A. D. 1911, in the following newspapers, viz.: Detroit Free Press, Toledo Blade and New York Times, for a more full and complete description of the property, rights and franchises therein directed to be sold, which it is proposed to sell in accordance with the foregoing notice, and also for the terms and conditions upon which the sale of the said properties, rights and franchises shall be made. EDUCATION NOTES.

Bronx—1906, 44,992; 1907, 48,758; 1908, 52,378; 1909, 55,023; 1910, 58,242; 1911, 66,237.

Brooklyn—1906, 175,517; 1907, 183,104; 1908, 198,022; 1909, 205,021; 1910, 206,253; 1911, 216,971.

Queens—1906, 33,533; 1907, 35,701; 1908, 39,017; 1909, 40,541; 1910, 41,901; 1911, 44,982.

Richmond—1906, 10,007; 1907, 10,483; 1908, 11,276; 1909, 11,469; 1910, 11,558; 1911, 11,845.

Totals—1906, 492,906; 1907, 513,669; 1908, 540,388; 1909, 550,770; 1910, 559,055; 1911, 583,676.

It is estimated that the total registration when the schools open Sept. 9 will approximate 700,000. Owing to inadequte accommodations, there will be a large increase in the number of pupils on part time. This condition, it is said, might have been avoided had it not been for labor troubles and the amount of red tape to be gone through before the contracts for new schools could be awarded. The Board of Education is in no way responsible.

The average nightly attendance of the Summer evening schools, as announced by Dr. J. H. Haaren, Acting City Superintendent, is as follows:

Public School 20, 34 classes, 785; Public School 147, 12 classes, 277; Public School 84, 21 classes, 601; Public School 62, 36 classes, 886.

Dr. Haaren regards this as a remarkable showing, especially in view of the fact that the temperature of the school rooms frequently registered 100 degrees.

'COL.' C. C. WILSON IS DEAD IN PRISON

Skyrocket Financier Who Ruined United Wireless Company Succumbs in Atlanta Penitentiary.

WAS IN NEW YORK RECENTLY

Bankruptcy Proceedings Against Him Will Be Continued—Seized with Uraemic Poisoning.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 26.—Christopher Columbus Wilson of New York, former President of the United Wireless Company, who was serving a three-year term in the Federal Prison here on a fraud charge, died suddenly late last night in the prison hospital

The body is being held in prison to await orders from the widow, the young stenographer whom "Col." Wilson married in New York the very day he was indicted.

When Wilson was stricken he had just finished writing a letter to a daughter by a former marriage, and was sitting in an easy chair in the library smoking a cigar. Suddenly one of the other prisoners to whom had been granted the use of the library cried out that something was wrong with Wilson. Guards rushed to the prisoner and saw at once that his condition was serious. He was taken to the prison hospital, where the prison physician diagnosed his illness as uraemic poisoning. In a short time Wilson was dead.

The end came in the same room and within a few feet of the bed which Charles W. Morse occupied so many weeks, apparently dying, before he was removed to the Fort McPherson Hospital and there paroled.

"Col." Wilson, who was 67 years old, had served a third of his term and was eligible for a parole. He had told several friends that he was confident his name would appear on the next parole list, and he expressed this hope in the letter to his daughter. One of "Wireless" Wilson's last acts was to aid Keeper Shea of the Federal Prison, who lost his position through favors to Wilson on a recent trip to New York. Through Congressman Beall of Texas Wilson obtained a good place for Shea in Texas.

Christopher Columbus Wilson, by his intimates sometimes called "the Colonel," was 67 years old. He was born in Mississippi and lived his boyhood days in Texas, where, later, he became a farmer. Then he migrated to Colorado, where he dabbled in mining stocks and later became a banker. Then he came to New York, where he became in the course of events President of the United Wireless Telegraph Company, for the swindling of which concern he was, in July, 1910, arrested and indicted. He was convicted in due course and sentenced to three years in the Georgia prison.

Only a few weeks ago "Col." Wilson found himself again in the limelight of publicity. He had been brought from Atlanta to New York to testify before United States Commissioner Alexander in the involuntary bankruptcy proceedings instituted against him. Every one at the time, except a few who knew the "Colonel" well, had the idea that he was being kept in the Federal section of the Tombs. But the "Colonel," was not in the Tombs. Just about the time that Wilson arrived in New York Commissioner Alexander was injured in an accident and the Wilson hearing had to be postponed until the Commissioner recovered.

That accident to Commissioner Alexander, it now turns out, proved to be the means of giving to the convict his last bit of freedom. Keeper C. J. Shea had brought the "Colonel" to New York from Atlanta. Shea's orders did not, so it is said, specify that Shea was to keep his man in prison. Shea took the order literally, and Wilson, looking as prosperous as he did in the days when the United Wireless under him was booming, was seen thereafter for several weeks at different times at Coney Island, at Spring Valley, N. Y., at a boarding house in the Bronx, at a Broadway hotel or two in this city, and also in the downtown business district where he had ended his business career in disgrace.

On July 20 last Wilson's last vacation came to an end. The newspapers had found out all about the good times he was having while Commissioner Alexander was recuperating and the story was printed in full. Then something happened. Wilson was produced by Shea and the night of July 20 he occupied a cell in the Tombs. A few days later he was returned to Atlanta. Shea, the keeper, was called upon to explain to Attorney General Wickersham what he meant by permitting the liberties Wilson enjoyed in New York. The inquiry resulted in the dismissal of the guard.

On July 15, 1910, Post Office Inspectors swooped down upon the United Wireless offices at 42 Broadway and arrested Wilson and Samuel S. Bogart, the First Vice President of the company. They were charged with being concerned in a gigantic scheme to defraud investors. When the prisoners were arraigned before Commissioner Shields that afternoon, Assistant United States District Attorney Stevenson, who appeared for the Government, announced that the swindling scheme involved more than $1,000,000. On the same day, at Mahopac Falls, William W. Tompkins, who handled the stock and advertising business of the concern, was arrested.

Later the Government agents arrested Francis X. Butler, the general counsel; W. A. Diboll, the treasurer, and George H. Parker, the Western fiscal agent and a Director of the company. All of these men were indicted and tried and all but Bogart, who pleaded guilty and is said to have aided the Government, were sentenced to prison, Butler and Parker to two years each in Atlanta prison, and the other two to one year each in the New York Penitentiary.

On Aug. 3, 1910, less than three weeks after his arrest, Wilson was indicted by the Federal Grand Jury. On that same day he married his second wife. She was Miss Stella Lewis, who had been his stenographer. The "Colonel" was out on bail and he took his bride to the Waldorf-Astoria and later to Long Beach.

Mrs. Wilson is now the mother of a son, and she maintains the Wilson home at Spring Valley, where recently she entertained her prisoner-husband.

In May, 1911, the trial of the wireless men began before Judge Martin in the Federal Building. On May 30 the jury returned verdicts of guilty against Wilson, Parker, Butler, Diboll, and Tompkins. Wilson fought for a stay, but on Aug. 10 of last year the United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled against him, and shortly thereafter he began serving his term in Atlanta.

Saul S. Myers, trustee in bankruptcy of Wilson, said yesterday that the death of a bankrupt did not abate the proceedings, but that the proceedings continued as if the bankrupt had not died. He pointed out that Section 8 of the present Bankruptcy act provided as follows:

> The death or insanity of a bankrupt shall not abate the proceedings, but the same shall be conducted and concluded in the same manner, so far as possible, as though he had not died or become insane.

This means, explained Mr. Myers, that the examination of Wilson having been concluded before his death, the examination of witnesses would go right on with a view of locating the property which it is alleged Wilson hid from the creditors and stockholders of the United Wireless Company.

MAPS A LABRADOR RIVER.

H. G. Bryant Explores a District Never Visited by a White Man.

Herbert L. Bridgman of Brooklyn announced yesterday that he had received a telegram from Henry G. Bryant, President of the Philadelphia Geographical Society, giving the first news of Mr. Bryant's exploring trip in Labrador. Mr. Bryant left this city on June 22, and St. Augustine, Labrador, July 12, for a reconnaisance in a part of Labrador never before visited by a white man. Mr. Bryant returned to St. Augustine on Saturday, and this telegram was received yesterday by Mr. Bridgman:

"Aug. 24. Arrived to-day. The expedition was fairly successful, and the first to explore and map the St. Augustine River from the sea to its source, a distance of 141 miles. We traversed a region fairly timbered, but unsuited to agriculture. The scenery of the Central Plateau of Labrador is of surpassing beauty. Our provisions were ample.

"The Indians deserted after four days, but we successfully covered two-thirds of the distance to Hamilton Inlet, when we were obliged to return, owing to the serious condition of one of the Newfoundland canoemen, who had injured a leg in running rapids. His disability increased the hardships of the portages, the longest and most difficult in all my experience.

"The topographical results are important, and will essentially change the maps of the river. This, the geological and entomological specimens, and photographs reconcile me to the disappointment that I was unable completely to cross the southeastern part of the Labrador peninsula."

Russell W. Porter of Port Hope, Me., was topographer of Mr. Bryant's expedition, which included canoemen from Newfoundland and Indian guides.

The present expedition to Labrador, which is undertaken privately by Mr. Bryant, is the third which he has led into the little known parts of Labrador. The first was in 1891 to the Grand Falls region, and the second last year was also to the basin of the St. Augustine River. What he hopes to discover this year he has not made known, but it is thought that he has some object in view beyond mere adventure.

Since his graduation from Princeton in 1883, Mr. Bryant has devoted most of his time to expeditions to northern regions. In 1892 he was second in command of the Peary relief party, and in 1894 commanded the Peary auxiliary expedition.

A Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of London and for twelve years President of the Geographical Society of Philadelphia, he has, at his own expense, fitted out many expeditions for mapping large areas of hitherto untraveled districts.

KEIR HARDIE FAVORS STRIKE AGAINST WAR

English Leader Says Labor Will Prevent Trouble Between England and Germany.

HERE TO STUDY CONDITIONS

Considers Andrew Carnegie's Career an Argument Against Competition.

James Keir Hardie, leader of the Labor Party in the House of Commons, arrived here yesterday from Canada. He has come to study industrial conditions here, and will visit the mining sections of the East and West. He comes also as the advocate of a world movement to unite labor industrially and politically.

Mr. Hardie, in a talk with reporters, said emphatically that the day had gone when labor would take part in a war for capital or a war backed by capital. Already the labor interests in Germany and England were considering the preliminary steps for combining against any and all attempts to bring about war between Germany and England, he said.

"There is no danger of war between England and Germany, unless those who have motives in keeping up the agitation overdo the subject," he said, "and force one upon the two countries. Labor is opposed to war. It will not stand for it, nor will it be deluded into fighting for capital in the event of trouble. The labor interests of the two countries are just as patriotic, if not more so, than others, but labor will never stand for a manufactured war for capitalism or by capitalism.

"It is proposed to call a general strike in the event of war, a strike of all producing organizations of workingmen, to prevent the furnishing of supplies and munitions of war; and it is further hoped that such action taken in advance by labor may have the effect of preventing even any further talk of war. The question is now being voted upon in England. The proposition has been received by the German labor interests and is now being considered there."

Mr. Hardie brought along a bride for his son, J. K. Hardie, who has been in business in Brooklyn several years. The young woman is Miss Marion Stoddart of Old Cunnock, Ayrshire, Scotland, where she and young Hardie were schoolmates together. They are to be married Thursday in Brooklyn. Mr. Hardie is visiting at the home of Morris Hillquit, 246 West 139th Street.

Mr. Hardie spoke for woman suffrage.

"The vote is due woman as a matter of right," he said. "It will not make much difference to the Labor Party, for the votes for women will simply increase the electors without changing conditions, probably, as, in fact, would be the case in all political parties, but she is entitled to vote.

"I hope America is going to have workingmen's insurance, without the costly methods of the Lloyd-George plan. We oppose the method of acquiring the funds. Instead of coming from the workers, they should be placed upon land values and surplus incomes.

"It is the same plan adopted by Bismarck to curb Socialistic conditions in Germany. Every one who earns $800 or less per year is to receive a benefit of $2.50 weekly after Jan. 1 next. Payments on it commenced June 1. The injustice of the matter is found particularly in the case of a man out of work for any length of time; he must pay his own and the employer's arrears when he finally gets work. Not having an employer for any period, he becomes responsible for both payments until he again finds an employer. Fifteen millions of people will be affected by the new law.

"The labor fight is the same the world over, with certain local conditions marking exceptions, and will go on until capital ceases to dominate labor and production for profit is succeeded by production for the common use. Capital will be used for the common good and competition will not be necessary.

"What is competition doing for any one? Andrew Carnegie was not a shining example of superior intellect, yet he was a very successful man in competition. Whenever Mr. Carnegie offers money for a library, labor in England objects. We haven't forgotten the Homestead strikes."

Mr. Hardie said that he was not well enough informed on political conditions here to discuss Mr. Roosevelt and his third party movement. If that represented Socialism, he said, then all he could say was that Socialism was always a sort of scapegoat for the sins of the world. Mr. Roosevelt, he said, had spoiled his reputation in England by playing into the hands of the financial interests on his last visit there by his utterances on Egypt.

Mr. Hardie will remain here six weeks, and will make a speech in the labor campaign in Boston.

BOYS STOP A FACTORY.

Fifty Men Thrown Out of Work When Brass Fittings Were Stolen.

Ten boys who raided the plant to steal the brass and copper trimmings of the refining machines put some fifty employes of Goldsmith & Co., a smelting and refining concern of 281 Plymouth Street, Brooklyn, out of work for several days yesterday.

When the men reported for work yesterday, after a holiday of a day and a half, they found their machines had been ruined. The brass and copper fittings had been torn from all of them.

The police, after hearing of unusual wealth displayed by several small boys in the vicinity, arrested Mark Burrows of 148 Gold Street and Frank Doraceun of 191 Johnson Street. They were found at a moving picture show. The boys, the police say, admitted having stolen the copper and brass. Later on the police picked up eight other boys, all between 10 and 15 years old, and charged them with burglary. The boys were sent to the Children's Society last night, and will be arraigned before Judge Wilkins in the Children's Court this morning.

"PRISON POET" IS DEAD.

Drinks Wood Alcohol in Iowa Penitentiary with Negro Burglar.

FORT MADISON, Iowa, Aug. 26.—James Gordon Stell, the "prison poet" of the Iowa Penitentiary, is dead and Elsea Dimmet, a negro burglar, is said to be dying to-night from drinking wood alcohol stolen from the Bertillon room of the institution.

Stell had gained a reputation as a poet, even outside the prison, and his verse, together with the interest taken in him by Mrs. Ballington Booth, is said to have won a pardon, which was to have been issued to him shortly. He had been a model prisoner. His real name was Albert Chapman, and his parents are said to live at Huron Lake, Wis.

GIRL GIVES THIEF ALARM.

Tells Elevated Rider of His Loss—Alleged Pickpocket Caught.

Jacob Arisohn of 658 Dawson Street, the Bronx, had reached the Prospect Avenue station on his way home in the Second Avenue elevated last evening when a young girl sitting across the aisle called out to him that his pocket had been picked and pointed in the direction of a young man who had left the seat next to Arisohn and was hastily alighting from the train.

There was an instant hubbub, and several passengers aided in the capture of Joseph Blank of 528 East 138th Street, at whose feet Mr. Arisohn's wallet was found, and who, according to the police of the Morrisania Station, confessed to a share in the pocketpicking. The wallet had $67 in it.

Queens Sewer Engineer Ousted.

James H. Johnson, Chief Engineer in the Bureau of Sewers in Queens, was dismissed yesterday by President Connolly following a trial on charges of having collected campaign funds for Lawrence Gresser from engineers who were under him in his department. Engineers had testified that they contributed about two per cent. of their yearly salary to Gresser's campaign fund and that they paid the money over to Johnson or left it on his desk.

MORMONS FLUNG OUT OF A JERSEY CHURCH

Plainfield M. E. Service in Turmoil When They Demand a Hearing.

CHURCH RINGS WITH SHOUTS

Utah Elders Soon to Have Hearing Before Mayor for Violating City Ordinance.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Aug. 26.—The service at Grace Methodist Episcopal Church last evening was kept in a state of unprecedented commotion by the presence of two Mormon elders of a proselyting turn of mind. They were E. Glenn Green and A. J. Newman, both from Utah, and the commotion did not subside until they were summarily ejected, to the accompaniment of vociferous approval from the congregation.

The Rev. Dr. N. W. Bascom, a missionary from Utah, was in the pulpit, and he had not advanced far in his talk about the Latter Day Saints when Green and Newman began to demand opportunity to refute his statements. The congregation gave every evidence of a disinclination to hear the strangers, and the strangers were equally determined not to leave the church until they had had their say. Soon all were on their feet and there was a babel of voices.

The Mormon elders shouted for recognition. Many of the men at the service stepped toward them, while Dr. Bascom kept to the pulpit and refrained from joining in the excitement. In no time the church was full of such cries as "Put them out," "We want none of them," "Out with them." The women were inclined to plead for quiet, but the men were angry, and finally W. J. Conroy and William L. Heath marched grimly upon the elders and personally attended to their ejection.

Dr. Bascom said he knew the men, but had never heard before of their disturbing a service. Green and Newman are soon to have a hearing before Mayor W. V. Moy on a charge of violating the city ordinance in scattering their literature about the city. He has already expressed his refusal to allow their missionary work in Plainfield.
